U. S. OFFICIALS ATTEND FETE FOR RED RUSSIA

Roosevelt Sends Congratulations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The twenty-first birthday of the communistic government of soviet Russia was observed here today in a reception at the soviet embassy.

During the day President Roosevelt sent a message of congratulations to Moscow on the event.

"Upon this national anniversary please accept my felicitations and sincere good wishes for the well being of the people of your country," said the President's message to "His Excellency, Mikhail Kalinin, President, All Union Central Executive Committee. Moscow, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

High U. S. Officials Attend.

The reception at the soviet embassy was "in celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the great October socialist revolution." It was attended by many officials high in the Roosevelt administration. Throughout the day congratulatory messages were received at the embassy.

Constantin A. Oumansky, counselor and chargé d'affaires, and Mrs. Oumansky presided at the embassy reception in the absence of Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky and Mrs. Troyanovsky. Not since the first official reception held here under the soviet régime by Ambassador and Mrs. Troyanovsky on April 10, 1934, when the old Russian embassy was reopened under a new flag, has an occasion been so thoroughly celebrated.

Wallace Leads Group.

Oumansky beamed as he exchanged greetings and received the congratulations of diplomats and United States officials, including members of the cabinet, high ranking officers of the army and navy, and department officials.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace headed the group of cabinet visitors. Other callers included James L. Houghteling, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, and Mrs. Houghteling, who is a cousin of President Roosevelt; Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator; Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the wages and hours law, and Mrs. Andrews; Herbert Feis, adviser of the state department on economic affairs, and Mrs. Feis; Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, and Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau of the department of labor.

BROWDER PRAISES STALIN

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 7.—Earl Browder, head of the communist party of the United States, today congratulated the people of soviet Russia on their progress. He gave credit to the "glorious leadership" of Dictator Josef Stalin.

Browder's message was published by Pravda, organ of the communist party, while 1,000,000 Russians marched past Stalin in Moscow to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the bolshevist revolution.

Text of Message.

The message to the nation said: "The American people rejoice with you in your victories, indicating the way for realization of the ideals of justice, liberty, and peace.

"After Munich [the four power peace agreement under which Czechoslovakia was carved up] the American people realized as never before that the invincible country of socialism [Russia] is the most ardent struggler for and most powerful stronghold of peace, liberty, and national independence."

Warm praise was awarded to Browder, William Z. Foster, and the American communist party by Kommunistichesky International, official journal of the communist international of Moscow, for successfully carrying out the policy laid down for the American Reds by Georgi Dimitrov, general secretary, during the 7th congress of communist international in Moscow in 1935.

Explains Aid to Roosevelt.

The latest number of the journal recalled Dimitrov's words: "The United States is not Hungary or Finland or Bulgaria or Latvia and a victory for Fascism [conservatism] in the United States would mean a great change in the entire international situation."

King of Britain Accepts Bid to Visit Roosevelt

BY SAM BREWER.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—King George VI. of Great Britain tonight formally accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to visit the United States next summer. It was said the king will announce his decision in a speech from the throne at tomorrow's opening of parliament.

It was understood that in his reply to Mr. Roosevelt, the king referred to the invitation as a practical expression of good relations between the United States and Britain.

King George and Queen Elizabeth will go to Washington, D. C., at the end of their Canadian tour for a short stay at the White House as the President's guests.

Premier May Go Along.

It was suggested that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain may accompany the king and queen with the hope of inducing Mr. Roosevelt to take an even greater interest in European affairs.

The duke of Windsor, formerly King Edward VIII., on Friday will meet members of his family for the first time since his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, it was disclosed tonight. An early visit to England by the duke is believed to be likely.

The duke and duchess of Gloucester will visit the Hotel Meurice in Paris, where the Windsors are living, on their trip from Kenya to London. The private plane of King George will take the duke of Gloucester, a younger brother of the duke of Windsor, and his wife to Paris from Marseilles.

Reconciliation Seen.

London regarded the meeting as the first step toward formal restoration of the abdicated king to a place in the British court and society. It was understood the meeting was arranged at the king's wish. The next step, it was believed, probably will be to surrender on the question of the title of royal highness, hitherto refused to the duchess of Windsor.

Though King George is willing to grant her that honor, the idea was dropped because of the stubborn opposition of conservative court circles, supposedly headed by women of the royal family. After being handed back and forth two or three times between the king and the college of arms, the question was pigeonholed.

The abdicated king always has insisted he never would return to England unless his wife were given the full dignity of the wife of a royal duke.

One question is amusing Londoners. They are wondering what will be the position of a number of noble ladies who have taken the attitude that they never would regard the duchess as royal and would even snub her if they met her.

If the Windsors return to London society, it would make things awkward for those who have talked too much. The last time a family visit to the Windsors was expected—by Edward as well as the public—was when the duke and duchess of Kent visited Jugo-Slavia in August, 1937, and passed within a few miles of the Windsors' honeymoon castle at Noetsch, Austria.

The visit was canceled to the annoyance of Windsor. The story was that the duchess of Kent, the former Princess Marina of Greece, feared the visit would hurt her in court circles.

LYONS' NBC ADDRESS CUT OFF IN MIDDLE OF ATTACK ON REDS

Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for senator, was abruptly cut off the air last night as he was delivering a radio address from his home in Libertyville over a National Broadcasting company hookup. The Chicago outlet was Station WENR. Lyons was in the midst of an attack on communism when the interruption occurred.

He had six minutes remaining on his time allotment. The broadcasting company later allowed him ten minutes over the same station at 10:30 p. m. to finish his speech.

The cause of the interruption remains a mystery. Shortly after it occurred NBC issued a statement blaming it on "a telephone line failure" between Lyons' home and the Libertyville telephone switchboard. This statement was described as "hasty" by H. A. Carlson, telephone company agent in charge of radio installations in Illinois. An investigation, said Mr. Carlson, failed to show any telephone line failure anywhere.

Lyons said the cutoff was "very peculiar," coming as it did when he was beginning to rip into communism. A. K. Stiles, Republican state chairman, asserted that either the broadcasting company or the telephone company was responsible.

U. S. Pay Roll in Capital at All-Time High

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—On the eve of the hardest political test the administration has faced since it came into power, the federal pay roll in the District of Columbia for the first time has exceeded world war figures.

The civil service commission today reported that the administration's army of deserving Democrats rose to 118,024 in September, more than enough jobholders to populate a city the size of Peoria.

The previous high for pay rollers in the national capital was established the first armistice day, Nov. 11, 1918, when there were 117,103 government employés here.

Monthly Cost Near 21 Millions.

At the same time the Washington pay roll reached a new high at $20,970,339 for the month. This represents a cost of 15 cents a month for every man, woman and child in the nation.

President Roosevelt has almost doubled the number of jobholders in the capital. When he took office March 4, 1933, there were 66,802 federal jobholders in Washington.

In five years he had increased the number of jobs in the capital by 51,222. The increase alone would populate a community larger than Aurora or Berwyn.

The record personnel within the District of Columbia came as a result of an increase of 1,052 workers on emergency units in the capital in September.

870,031 Hold U. S. Jobs.

The federal pay roll for the nation as a whole fell below the new peace time record set last August. On Sept. 30 the civil service commission reported 870,031 federal jobholders throughout the country, a drop of 2,490 from August figures.

The nation's roll was within striking distance of the war time high, which was 917,760 on Nov. 11, 1918. It is expected that October totals will pass those of August.

The September total represented an increase of 306,184 federal jobs, an increase greater than the population of Delaware and not far below that of Vermont, during the Roosevelt administration. On March 4, 1933, the federal pay roll stood at 563,847.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Illinois voters—more than 3 million strong, political camps estimate—go to the polls today to cast their verdict in an intense off-year campaign between Republicans and Democrats.

Chief interest centers in the contest for United States senator between Richard J. Lyons, Republican, and Scott W. Lucas, Democrat.

As election day approached rival managers sought to estimate the possible swing of voters in rural and industrial areas. Until midnight organization activities on both sides were furious and frantic. Speechmaking was off for the day, and the opposing parties bent their energies toward tuning up organizations in all the precincts for the day at the polls.

Both Sides Claim Landslide.

Both Republican and Democratic chiefs put out claims that a landslide is in sight. Rival forecasts were unusually conflicting. Half a million plurality was what each side claimed.

Besides a senator, the voters will elect three state officers—treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, and Supreme court clerk—and three university trustees. Also to be elected are 27 congressmen, members of the legislature, and county officials.

The Chicago Association of Commerce announced last night it has recruited trained observers who will watch in wards where unsavory voting practices are suspected. The association got the evidence that resulted in indictments of election officials in the last primary.

Setup Perplexes Prophets.

Downstate and Cook county, as political entities, had the rival dopesters groggy. In downstate Illinois Roosevelt in 1936 had a plurality of 160,646—10 per cent of the vote, although his entire Illinois lead was 712,606. Gov. Henry Horner that year had a downstate plurality of 92,000—about 7 per cent—though he won by 385,176. In 1934, the last off year election, Wayland Brooks, Republican, got more votes downstate than did Michael Igoe and Martin Brennan, Democrats, in the contest for congressmen-at-large.

In the corn belt and in the coal fields of central and southern Illinois both sides worked furiously on the eve of election. How large a swing of the rural vote is in the offing was the perplexing problem. A comparatively small percentage of change might cause havoc with the Horner Democratic machine.

Many headquarters downstate were flooded with doubt and uncertainty.

Are Old Sores Healed?

In Cook county one question concerned the feud between the rival Democratic groups — Horner-Lucas and Kelly-Nash—in the spring primaries, and how far the old sores may affect the vote even though the feudists have made up their differences.

In industrial parts of the city workers of both parties yesterday made final appeals to the factory vote.

BARE TAMMANY BALLOT FRAUDS; ISSUE WARANTS

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—On the eve of election wholesale election frauds were uncovered tonight in Tammany strongholds here as the voters prepared to cast their ballots for governor, two United States senators, and the rest of the state offices.

The Tammany machine must roll up a huge vote in the city if Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, seeking his fourth term, is to defeat District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee. Final test polls show Dewey ahead by a margin of around 100,000 votes. He will chalk up a big plurality over Lehman in the upstate districts.

Warants Issued Secretly.

Scores of bench warants, secretly issued by magistrates, were placed in the hands of police who attempted to serve them on men and women charged with illegal registration in seven Manhattan assembly districts.

Those served by the police were arraigned in the magistrates' courts of the respective districts. Illegal registration is a felony, carrying a possible prison sentence of up to five years on conviction.

The violators were in addition to persons indicted in election fraud cases last Thursday and did not include 300 persons already named on the challenge list at District Attorney Dewey's office. The Honest Ballot association, a nonpartisan organization, has estimated there are 50,000 false registrations in New York City and has taken steps to prosecute 500 persons against whom evidence is available.

Hits Tammany Leaders.

The Honest Ballot association estimated there are more than 15,000 illegal registrants in the Bronx and about 25,000 in Brooklyn. Association officials also estimated more than 1,500 are registered illegally in the east side assembly districts under Al Marinelli, Tammany boss who was forced to resign as New York county clerk last fall when Dewey exposed his underworld connections.

In the election district under the sway of Tammany Leader Jimmy Hines, embracing Upper Manhattan, the false registrants are estimated by the association at 1,000. Dewey's prosecution of Hines as political protector in the policy racket was halted several weeks ago by Justice Ferdinand Pecora, former Tammany assistant district attorney and Roosevelt lieutenant. The case was thrown out on a technicality.

Attorney General Acts.

Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., on the Lehman slate for reëlection, announced that thousands of special deputies would be sent to the polls here in the city and in upstate counties to insure an honest election. Dewey had criticized Bennett for not discharging his responsibility of prosecuting election frauds.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine presided at a conference of police officials and assigned his deputies to patrol the various zones in the city. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, who attended the conference for

ROOSEVELT PINS HOPE FOR THIRD TERM ON RESULT

Crucial States Will Test New Deal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Approximately 40 million voters in the congressional and state elections today will decide issues of vast import to the future welfare of the nation.

Upon their votes depend the fate of the New Deal and the course of political events, including a third term for President Roosevelt.

In New York, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Iowa, and several other important states the contests are so close that the weather may determine the result. Inclement weather tends to keep voters away from the polls. Colder weather today is forecast in the central states. In New York the forecast is for clear weather early in the day, with rain probable in the afternoon.

Future Policies at Issue.

If the Democrats, with their present overwhelming majorities in congress, should suffer a loss of only one or two senators and not more than twenty-five or thirty seats in the house they would consider the result a vote of confidence in the New Deal. The President would be encouraged to push forward his program of government reorganization on authoritarian lines and other radical measures in the seventy-sixth congress to be elected today.

If, however, the Republicans should gain half a dozen seats in the senate, upwards of fifty seats in the house and half a dozen governorships they would hail the exploit as signalizing a popular repudiation of the New Deal and a mandate for conservative policies of government. The combination of Republicans and conservative Democrats would be strong enough in the next congress to bar the way to further radical legislation and to liberalize the labor relations act and other New Deal innovations.

New York Key State.

Of greatest moment to the political future of the President and the Democratic left wing is the issue of the contest in New York where it is a horse race for the governorship between Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Republican District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. If Lehman wins, the President's prestige will rise and the movement to nominate Mr. Roosevelt for a third term will receive tremendous impetus.

On the other hand if Dewey should win, as the pro-Lehman New York News' poll indicates he will by 100,000 plurality, the result would constitute the first major disaster for Mr. Roosevelt in his entire political career. His prestige would decline to a low level. The third term proposition would suffer a staggering blow. Failing to carry his own state, which has the largest electoral vote, Mr. Roosevelt would be in a weak position to ask a third term nomination in 1940 by his own or any other party.

Dewey's Future Also Involved.

Dewey, if elected, would loom large as timber for the Republican nomination for president two years hence. By virtue of a change in the state constitution the term of the governorship in New York is extended from 2 to 4 years beginning with the tenure of the governor elected today. Dewey has stated that, if elected, he will serve out his term extending to 1943. That, however, would not prevent the formation of a "draft Dewey" movement by Republicans in 1940.

The eyes of the nation will be focused upon the Empire state tonight as the returns begin coming in. The contest appears to be so close and is so fraught with political significance that it has taken on the aspect of a sporting event. The betting odds have tumbled but still slightly favor Lehman despite the polls indicating a Dewey victory.

Both Sides Predict Victory.

Both Democratic and Republican managers, while predicting 250,000 pluralities for their respective tickets are prepared for a win by a nose, recalling that Grover Cleveland won the presidency in 1884 with a New York plurality of 1,149 in a total poll of one million votes. A poll of 4,900,000 is expected in New York today.

In his broadcast last Friday night the President, as a resident of New York appealed directly for the election of Gov. Lehman, Senator Robert

F. Wagner and other Democratic candidates in that state. Indirectly he urged the election of Democratic candidates everywhere, thereby avoiding the illfated blunder of Woodrow Wilson in directly appealing in 1918 for the return of a Democratic congress.

In addition, however, the President has staked his prestige and influence in several states where he has gone out of his way to aid particular Democratic candidates.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan who is fighting for reëlection with his back to the wall received special praise in the presidential broadcast Friday night. This exhibition of aid and comfort for Murphy followed by a week the President's scathing denunciation of the testimony linking Murphy with communism which was adduced before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

The Democratic managers in Michigan regard Murphy's chances of victory today extremely doubtful and if the governor does win are prepared to give the credit to the President's help. On the other hand the defeat of Murphy would be a distinct blow to the prestige of the President.

Comes Out for Earle.

Mr. Roosevelt allowed himself to be maneuvered out upon a similar limb in Pennsylvania. In that state Gov. George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for the senate against Republican Senator James J. Davis, seemed to be going down to political oblivion with the millstone of scandals of his administration around his neck. He and his associates made a frantic plea to Mr. Roosevelt to save the ticket. Mr. Roosevelt responded with a letter pronouncing the Earle administration loyal to the New Deal.

Ohio will deliver a clear cut verdict for or against the New Deal in voting on the senatorship. Senator Robert J. Bulkley, the Democratic, and Robert A. Taft, the Republican candidate, engaged in six debates that pretty thoroughly joined the issue of the Roosevelt policies.

Mr. Roosevelt gave Senator Bulkley his blessing as "my good friend, Bob" when passing through Ohio on his cross country trip last summer. This indorsement was popularly believed to have been a big help to Bulkley in beating George White in the primary and is being relied upon by the Democratic managers to pull the senator through the election. If Taft should win he would leap at once into the front rank of Republican presidential possibilities.

Aids Ely in Jersey.

In New Jersey also the President went to the aid of William H. J. Ely, Democratic candidate for senator against former Senator W. Warren Barbour, the Republican nominee. He sent Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring to join forces with the notorious Frank Hague machine in behalf of Ely. The outcome in New Jersey is decidedly in doubt since the report of Senator Morris Sheppard's senate campaign investigating committee which found evidence of fraudulent registration in Mayor Hague's Jersey City.

The widely prevailing cynical assumption had been that Ely would be counted in by whatever number of votes the Hague machine might be required to produce in Jersey City. In view, however, of the Sheppard committee's threat of a senate investigation if election frauds are perpetrated there is now reason to believe that the machine will observe a certain amount of restraint. In such case Barbour would have a good chance of winning.

Backs California Ticket.

California is another state in which the President went to the aid of the Democratic ticket. Despite his condemnation of the "$30 every Thursday" pension Mr. Roosevelt pronounced Sheridan Downey, Democratic candidate for senator, a "real liberal." The "ham and eggs" pension scheme is apparently doomed to defeat and may carry Downey, who espoused it, down with it. The betting odds, which were 2 to 1 in favor of the Democratic ticket, crashed to even money when Republican money swamped the betting rings.

Right up to the last minute of the campaign the air was thick with charges of Democratic manipulation of the WPA vote. In Cleveland posters appeared yesterday reading: "Save WPA—elect Sawyer-Buckley." The Sheppard committee, however, announced a finding that on the basis of an incomplete investigation it found no evidence to support the charges of Mr. Taft and John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, that the WPA vote is being coerced.

Find Coercion in Pennsylvania.

In a final report on the Pennsylvania charges the Sheppard committee found that truck drivers on WPA projects were compelled to contribute $100 each to the Democratic campaign fund or be cut off the pay roll.

The committee also found that the evidence "indisputably shows that numerous WPA workers, including timekeepers, laborers and others, even women on sewing projects, have been requested and ordered to change their registration from Republican to Democratic, with threats of loss of their relief employment if they refused to comply." Senator Sheppard said that numerous persons were separated from the WPA rolls for refusing to accede to such demands.

The Sheppard committee found that $2,500 had been contributed improperly to Senator Frederick Van Nuys' campaign fund in Indiana by 34 federal employés. The committee accepted, however, the senator's transfer of the amount to the Indiana Democratic state committee as "evidence of good faith" in complying with its ruling.

95 TODAY, SHE'LL CAST HER BALLOT AND GO TO PARTY

Mrs. Lydia Zuck of the Gladstone hotel, 6200 Kenwood avenue, will hold a double celebration today. She will cast her ballot at the polling place in the hotel this morning and celebrate her 95th birthday this evening in the apartment of her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Selby.

"I always said that if women got the vote I'd go to the polls even if I had to use crutches," said Mrs. Zuck. "So far I haven't needed the crutches."

Mrs. Zuck was born in Pennsylvania and moved to Savanna, Ill., during the civil war. She made her home there until she came to live with her daughter five years ago.

10 IN ROOSEVELT FARM CO-OP UNIT ARE UNDER FIRE

Hamilton, Ga., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Pine mountain Valley corporation, a coöperative farm project sponsored by the federal government, today had accused the heads of ten colonists' families of illegally disposing of some of the work stock and poultry provided by the corporation.

The Pine Mountain Valley colony, only a short distance from President Roosevelt's "Little White House" at Warm Springs, was founded three years ago as a Rooseveltian social experiment in farming. Its population now includes 192 families.

LAYMEN PROTEST CAMPAIGN USE OF MUNDELEIN NAME

Communists Accused of Trickery.

Members of Catholic churches in Chicago alleged last night that communists, using underhanded methods, were striving to bring the name of Cardinal Mundelein into the present political campaign.

Several priests of the north side parishes said that men stood near their churches Sunday and handed worshipers reprints of a newspaper editorial. These reprints contained excerpts from the cardinal's speeches. The excerpts were linked together to indicate that Cardinal Mundelein did not consider communism an issue in the election. The cardinal has long been a friend of President Roosevelt.

Cardinal Mundelein is in Rome for the beatification rites of Mother Cabrini and could make no reply.

Clashes with Distributor.

One layman, William R. Miller of 3846 North Hamilton avenue, reported that a reprint was handed him near Our Lady of Lourdes church on North Ashland avenue. It carried a picture of the cardinal over the editorial and bore the slogan, "Vote Straight Democratic."

"Who asked you to hand out this?" Miller asked the distributor.

"The Catholic church," was the reply.

Miller retorted that this was a lie and tossed the circular back. He then told the episode to the pastor, the Rev. J. P. Campbell. Father Campbell said that several other pastors knew of the bill passing.

Held a Matter for Police.

"It was always done at some distance from the churches," he said, "and there was nothing we could do about it. It was up to the police to stop it."

Father Campbell declined to express his personal views, holding that the chancery office of the archdiocese must issue such opinions. The chancery office was not available for comment last night. Miller and other laymen, however, were outspoken in criticism of what they termed "bad taste and dishonesty."

OUST 2 ELECTION JUDGES IN DRIVE ON VOTE FRAUDS

Commissioners Keep Eye on First Ward.

Plans announced yesterday to prevent fraudulent voting today included the removal of two judges of election in the 7th precinct of the 1st ward. Capt. John W. Norton, head of the fraud bureau of the board of election commissioners, said thousands of paid and unpaid watchers would be on hand today to prevent ballot stealing or fraudulent voting.

Capt. John Norton.

Particular attention will be paid to the voting in the 7th precinct of the 1st ward, the polling place for which is in the Harrison hotel, 57 East Harrison street, because of fraudulent registrations found there, Norton said. Four traveling salesmen who live in four different states were found listed there as registered voters.

Two Citations Ordered.

Yesterday, on orders of Election Commissioner Mabel G. Reinecke, the citation of John Davis and Charles Norris was ordered. Both are registered from the Wabash Avenue Exchange hotel, 27 East Harrison street, but could not be found by Investigator John Ryan.

"They acted as registrars on Oct. 10 when the four false registrations were recorded," Investigator Ryan said. "Then they were in charge of the canvass of the precinct, and if they had done their duty the four names would not be on the eligible list today.

"I had orders to bring them before the county court. If they show up for duty tomorrow they will be arrested. Anyway they will be replaced with new judges who will be sworn in at the opening of the polls in the morning."

600 Special Watchers Hired.

Capt. Norton finished the hiring of 600 special watchers last night. They were recruited mainly from various law schools of the city.

These paid watchers will be aided by several thousand others supplied by civic organizations including the Chicago Bar association, which assigned many lawyers to help bring about an honest election. Police Commissioner Allman recalled nearly 100 policemen from duty at the state's attorney's office and assigned them to election duty. With 400 policemen borrowed from the park force, the precincts will all be manned with police, Allman declared.

County Judge Jarecki postponed the trial of five election officials of the 24th ward until after today's election. Their trial in connection with alleged frauds at the April 12 primary has been under way for the last two weeks.

KILLED BY SUBURBAN TRAIN.

John Dowdell, colored, 35 years old, was fatally injured yesterday by a North Western suburban train in the 5400 block on Ravenswood avenue.

BANNED G. O. P. SIGNS TO GREET VOTERS ON WAY TO POLLS TODAY

Forbidden signs will greet voters as they go to the polls today. The signs say "Smash Kelly-Nash Boss Rule—Vote Republican." Otto Krueger, business agent of local No. 1 of the bill posters' union, refused to allow his men to post the signs for fear of offending the city administration.

More than 8,000 of the signs will be displayed today. Polls workers of the G. O. P. will have them fastened to the hoods and spare tires of their automobiles. In most of the county's 4,377 precincts the signs will be on sticks planted in the ground near polling places.

"Because we were prevented from having the signs posted in the usual way we had to devise other means of placing our message before the public," said Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Republican Cook county central committee. "We have had the signs on sandwich boards carried through the loop, and even on river boats. The people have cheered us on in this fight against a dictatorial attempt at suppression."

Preston Sturges, Author, to Wed San Francisca

Reno, Nev., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Preston Sturges, 40 year old, a playwright and the author of "Strictly Dishonorable," obtained a license here today to marry Mrs. Louise Sargent Tevis, 29 years old, shortly after she had won an uncontested divorce decree from Gordon B. Tevis of San Francisco.

EHLER CHARGES FRAUD; JARECKI RESTS ON RECORD

Rivals for County Judge Make Final Pleas.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Democrat, and Theodore F. Ehler, Republican, contesting candidates for the county judgship, closed their campaigns last night with widely different appeals.

Judge Jarecki stood on the record he has made in sixteen years upon the county bench. "That is the best platform that a candidate for public office can possibly have," he said.

He made no mention of the charges of inheritance tax fraud which have swirled about his head for the last two weeks. He asserted that the voters had had an opportunity to observe his work, that he had given honest and sincere service, and that his record proved it.

Ehler Charges Ballot Frauds.

Former Judge Ehler's closing speech was completely accusative and condemnatory.

The Republican declared that every conceivable form of election fraud had been committed during Judge Jarecki's four terms. Every election since 1922, he said, has had irregularities.

Whereas Judge Jarecki assured the voters that Chicago had come a long way toward honest elections, Ehler said that to "promise" honest elections at the end of sixteen years of supervising them, "is an excellent reason for his defeat."

Ridicules Jarecki Promise.

"If you were county judge for sixteen years, you would not seek reelection by promising honest elections," he told the voters. "You would want to tell the voters that you had accomplished it. You would run on your record.

"That's not so with Judge Jarecki. He is forgetting all about frauds and the stealing of ballots during his sixteen years, and all he is saying now is: 'Reëlect me for the fifth time, and I will try to insure honest elections!'

"That is an admission of incompetency."

Ehler, a former Municipal court judge, declared that the issue of honest elections was far above partisanship.

Honest Officials, His Solution.

"In my humble opinion," the Republican candidate continued, "honest elections can be had in Cook county by appointing honest judges and clerks of election.

"In the event of my election tomorrow, I will appoint the following three men to compose the election board: George E. Q. Johnson, former federal judge and United States attorney; Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi of Sinai temple, and Thomas J. Reedy, former dean of commerce at Loyola university and treasurer of the National Catholic Alumni federation.

"They will give Chicago and Cook county honest and conscientious administration of elections. I have assured them free and independent reign over all election matters, without any reservation, restrictions or interference."

Jarecki Contrasts Conditions.

Judge Jarecki began his closing speech by telling the voters that the law provides their votes shall be secret and reminding them to mark their ballots in the voting booths, not outside them.

"Contrast the conditions existing tonight on the eve of this highly important election with what they were some years ago," he said.

"Does the comparison not suggest that we have come a long way on the road to orderly, honest and fair elections, undominated by any one but the people who cast their ballots?

"Look at the headlines of other years and reflect how long it has been since your eyes met headlines which told of armed violence at the polls, sluggings, intimidation and terrorism of voters.

"My own candidacy stands squarely upon my record and I am entirely willing to be judged by my record."

Aid Husbands in Ohio Campaigns

Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the Republican candidate for the United States senate, continued speaking yesterday in behalf of his candidacy.

Mrs. Robert J. Bulkley, wife of the incumbent senator, a Democrat, spent the day helping her husband draft a final speech. Mrs. Bulkley lauded Mrs. Taft's "magnificent job" of speaking.

OAK PARK VOTES ON ELEVATION OF RAILROAD TRACKS

The Chicago Regional Planning association is urging Oak Park voters today to mark a referendum ballot to favor elevation of steam and electric railroad tracks abutting Harrison street. The association advocates this elevation to provide for an elevated highway on the same right of way. This highway would connect with any Congress street thoroughfare which might be built.

Automobile transportation is concerned primarily in other referendum elections today. In Michigan, Alabama, California and New Hampshire, there are propositions to amend state constitutions to prohibit use of gasoline tax and automobile license fee revenues for purposes foreign to streets and highway improvements. Missouri is voting on two propositions, one, an increase from 2 to 3 cents in the gas tax, and the other, adoption of a ten year construction program.

3D DEATH STAY GRANTED NEGRO IN BRICK KILLING

Robert Nixon, young Negro rapist and murderer, who is under sentence to die in the electric chair next Thursday morning, was granted his third reprieve today to permit his attorney, Joseph Clayton, to complete a bill of exception that will be presented to the state Supreme court. Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court set Nixon's execution for Friday, Nov. 18. He declared it will be the Negro's last stay unless the Supreme court intervenes.

Nixon was convicted of beating to death Mrs. Florence Johnson, wife of a city fireman, in her home at 4631 Lake Park avenue on May 27. He remained unmoved during his trial and for several weeks thereafter, but recently he has become sullen, morose and obviously nervous, his jailers say. He has not shown any sign of remorse, however.

WPA WILL BUILD 20 LABORATORIES FOR ILLINOIS USE

Charles E. Miner, state director of the Works Progress administration, yesterday announced plans for WPA construction of twenty laboratories for the state department of public health in its disease control programs.

The project, subject to federal approval, was submitted to Dr. A. C. Baxter, state health director, at a meeting of his board of public health advisers in the La Salle hotel. The laboratories will be situated where facilities are inadequate, said Miner, and will not compete with or duplicate existing public or private laboratories.

"They will not be used for treatments," he said, "so their operation will not conflict with the work of private physicians."

Steal Automobile Loaded with Smash Bossism Signs

Andrew C. Metzger, Republican committeeman for the 8th ward, loaded his car with "Smash Kelly-Nash" signs and campaign literature early yesterday and parked it in front of his plumbing shop at 6828 South Chicago avenue preparatory to distributing the load to ward workers. Next time he looked out the window the car had been stolen, he reported to Woodlawn police.

RUTH ETTING'S EX-MATE BALKS ON DEPOSITION

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Martin [Col. Moe the Gimp] Snyder refused to answer many questions today in a deposition taken in the $255,000 damage suit brought against him by Myrl Alderman, radio musician and close friend of Ruth Etting, radio singer.

"I consider Ruth Etting my legal wife," he said at one point in the questioning by Bernard B. and Henry S. Cohen, Alderman's lawyers. He did not amplify the statement. Court records show Miss Etting obtained an uncontested divorce last Nov. 30 in Chicago on grounds of desertion and cruelty. They were married July 17, 1922.

Alderman is suing Snyder for shooting him in the presence of the singer and Snyder's daughter, Edith, Oct. 15.

"Did your daughter take a shot?" was one question.

"I refuse to answer on constitutional grounds," snapped Snyder.

That was his reply to almost all other questions regarding the shooting, in which he faces charges of kidnaping and attempted murder.

PROVIDE SPECIAL U. S. JURY IN N. Y. SMUGGLING CASE

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A special federal grand jury was impaneled today to handle the case involving allegedly smuggled dresses and plumes seized recently in the apartment and lockers of Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Edgar J. Lauer.

Justice and Mrs. Lauer, who settled a smuggling case a year ago by the payment of some $10,000 in duties and fines, charge that the current case is the result of enmity of a German maid.

Albert N. Chaperau, who is under arrest, is charged with bringing valuable Paris gowns and aigrettes into New York on Oct. 7 and delivering them to the Lauer apartment at 570 Park avenue in a suitcase and a hat box.

TODAY'S BALLOT FAVORITE—THE OLD DOUBLE X

Politicians' Knives and Hands Are Out.

It was freely predicted yesterday in political headquarters that the double cross would be applied today by many leaders who had promised only a single cross. Democrats and Republicans, big shots and little fellows, were reported to be looking ahead to next year's mayoralty campaigns.

Most of the charges of treachery concerned the office of county judge. There was talk of money and money talked. Because a Republican took Democratic money was no sign he was going to do the Democratic candidates any good, the scoffers said. And many Democrats were reported to be against their own candidates, but not for financial reasons.

"The year 1938 will go down in local political history as the year of the great double cross," one campaign manager predicted.

Knife Out on South Side.

Late yesterday Harry Ditchburne, in charge of headquarters of Theodore F. Ehler, Republican candidate for county judge, was advised of a stab in the back from the south side. A Republican ward leader with high affiliations was reported to be secretly supporting the Democrat, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, for reëlection.

Democrats of the Kelly-Nash organization generally denied they would be opposed to Jarecki, but it was known that one judicial general of the Democrats told his precinct captains to support Ehler. Mayor Kelly had sent out word to his ward leaders to support all Democrats and Ald. Jacob M. Arvey of the 24th ward, who is acting Democratic county chairman, was supposed to set a good example by getting votes for Jarecki.

State's Attorney Courtney was reported to be red hot for only a few of the Democrats, Thomas O'Brien, candidate for sherif, not being among them. But Courtney leaders denied there would be any trimming by them. The Courtney followers are particularly interested in the reëlection of County Judge Jarecki, just in case Courtney decides to run for mayor next year, they said.

Money Package a Bit Light.

Republicans had a story about the delivery of $4,000 to the headquarters for a rump organization. The regular Democratic organization had promised $15,000, according to the story, and when an emissary of the Kelly-Nash group arrived with only eight packages of $500 each there was a bit of growling.

"Well, half a loaf is better than no bread," said one Republican who was formerly a ward committeeman. The $4,000 was split many ways. But those who received a split made mental reservations regarding the votes they would supply in return.

This mottled Republican group had an obligation other than financial to support Jarecki. It was based on past favors. From their viewpoint a Democrat would be preferable in next spring's mayoralty fight, particularly a Democrat like Jarecki, who is not of the Kelly-Nash organization.

Still Open to Suggestions.

But whether the Kelly-Nash $4,000 was intended to cover support for Jarecki or support for Ehler, the recipients of it considered themselves free agents to barter and trade with others, Democrats or Republicans.

It was generally conceded that the organization, Republicans as well as the unorganized Republicans, who had promised support to Richard Lyons for United States senator would keep their word. And it was generally admitted that the Kelly-Nash as well as Horner-Courtney and Lewis-Igoe Democrats would be on the square with their candidate, Scott Lucas, for United States senator.

Bailif Al Horan, prominent Democrat, sent word he was regular as to county and state candidates, but reserved the privilege of opposing certain Democratic judges of the Municipal court who had sought to put him in jail in the fight over fifty-five jobs in his office.

TWO ROOSEVELTS TAKE PART IN REPUBLICAN RALLY AT OYSTER BAY

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—More than 1,500 persons took part here tonight in a Republican political rally and parade which first was established as a preëlection custom by the late Theodore Roosevelt when he was President of the United States and maintained a "Little White House" in Oyster Bay.

Two members of the Roosevelt family were present at the rally held in the Lyric theater here. They were Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Richard Derby, daughter of the late President.

Col. Roosevelt declared that for the "first time" in many years he was convinced that the Republicans would be victorious in New York state in the election tomorrow. He said that "the days of the New Deal are over."

HOTELS, CLUBS, W-G-N TO GIVE VOTE RETURNS

Several hotels and clubs will make announcements of election returns tonight as their guests dine, dance, or lounge.

The Morrison hotel will give reports over a public address system every half hour, its reports coming from the direct wires of the Democratic headquarters, located in the hotel. A direct wire also will be installed in the Tavern club, from which returns will be read every hour. At the Hotel Sherman broadcasts will be made over a public address system in the College inn, Celtic room, and Dome room.

Radio station W-G-N will keep up a running fire of returns, to be broadcast as promptly as received. A continuous program will be in the background, but it will be interrupted whenever sufficient returns are at hand. At various times in the evening, election pickups will be made from Washington, Boston, New York, and other key points over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Occasionally during the evening Arthur Sears Henning, chief of THE TRIBUNE's Washington bureau, and Arthur Evans, political writer, will interpret the voting trend for W-G-N listeners.

ILLINOIS OUTCOME IN AIR; 3 MILLION TO VOTE VERDICT

Each Side Claims Victory by 500,000.

radio last night—their final messages. At Libertyville Lyons finished his 45,000 miles of campaigning with a homecoming celebration. He spoke from his home.

Lucas took to the air from his hotel room. Today he goes to Havana, Ill., to vote, and thence to Springfield to get the election returns.

Lyons Defines Issues.

In his speech Lyons declared main issues to be settled today are bringing back jobs and deciding the status of the machine bosses. He referred also to the cry of "Smash Kelly-Nash" raised by Gov. Horner's cohorts in the primary fight.

"I have tried to tell the people in all walks of life my way to solve the difficulties before us," said Lyons. "I have tried to tell them the greatest problem facing America today is to get our unemployed back to work at productive enterprises.

"The New Deal, after six years of unparalleled power over congress and the presidency, with unlimited money, has failed to fulfill its promises. It now does not even bother to make promises. Our only hope is to bring about a change. We must embark upon a sane, constructive program for restoring purchasing power to the consumers by putting men back to work and by raising the income of the farmer.

"It is not up to me tomorrow. I have fought the battle for eight months. Now it is up to the people to decide whether they shall be represented by a man of the bosses, elected by a party without a program, using the tactics of Chicago's 24th ward, or whether they shall place in office men of character, with a program that they have not been able to challenge."

Lucas Makes Final Attack.

Lucas in his final address said his party managers had told him he would carry downstate by 200,000 and Cook county by 300,000 or 350,000. He accused Lyons of making a campaign of vituperation, villification, and abuse.

"I have no quarrel with the rank and file of the Republicans," said Lucas, "but I have consistently fought what I conceive to be a bankrupt leadership.

"An unfortunate feature of some political campaigns is that the friends and family of a candidate are subjected to slander, vile whisperings, and malicious, untrue gossip. Some sort of a new record for this sort of thing has been set in the fall of 1938 by the desperate Republican candidates. I have been shown pamphlets and circulars which must have made even the man who printed them blush with shame—pamphlets which had to be circulated surreptitiously because no one would have so little decency as to pass them out openly.

"Those who indulge in this type of gutter wallowing show a lack of understanding of the temper of the American public, for rabidly partisan though he may be, the American citizen and the American voter has a keenly developed sense of fair play. This last minute campaign of slander will, I predict, have the effect of adding thousands of votes to our victory total."

Million Spread in Predictions.

Confidence permeated both camps. Between their forecasts was a spread of a million votes, for both claimed a victory by around 500,000. Democrats stuck to the predictions of Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner that Lucas would roll up 200,000 plurality downstate and 350,000 in Cook county. Ald. J. M. Arvey, acting Democratic county chairman, issued an 800 word statement saying Democrats would sweep Cook county. Some downstate Democratic leaders said privately, however, that they expected the Democrats would carry downstate by only 35,000 to 75,000.

In Republican headquarters A. K. Stiles, Republican state chairman, predicted Lyons will come up to the Cook county line 200,000 votes ahead of Lucas. Stiles' statement spoke of a revolution downstate, where he said low market prices and high taxes will cause 22 per cent of those who voted for Roosevelt two years ago to return to the Republican ticket. Stiles predicted a 300,000 lead for Lyons in Cook county and a total plurality of half a million.

Aside from these conflicting claims, the embattled camps are agreed upon one point—that the total vote will eclipse that cast in any past off-year election in Illinois. They figure it may run up to 3,250,000 on account of the public interest.

Next in interest to the senatorship of the state-wide offices to be filled are the two places of congressmen at large. Stephen A. Day and Simon E. Lantz, farm leader in the state senate, are Republicans opposing John C. Martin, state treasurer, and T. V. Smith, state senator and professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago. These two places in congress, it is generally thought, may go as goes the senatorship.

For state treasurer William R. McCauley, Republican former state senator, is opposing Louie E. Lewis, speaker of the house. Wiley B. Garvin, Republican, is running against John A. Wieland, incumbent, for superintendent of public instruction. George E. Lambur Jr. is the Republican opponent of Adam F. Bloch, present clerk of the Supreme court.

Mayor Backs Straight Ticket.

Mayor Kelly issued a statement urging the organization to vote a straight Democratic ticket.

A Republican plurality of 75,000 in Cook county was forecast by Edward F. Moore, Republican county chairman. He said his figures were based on straw votes taken in various sections of Chicago.

Estimates are that 4,400,000 are eligible to vote. The greatest number of ballots cast in an Illinois election was 3,995,088 in 1936. Four years ago in the last off-year election the total count was 2,935,192.

a short time, warned he would make a tour of the city tomorrow and expected to see a deputy police commissioner handling election matters in every zone he visited.

Wall street and Broadway remained unconvinced tonight that Dewey would win despite newspaper polls. The betting odds in Wall street were quoted at two to one on Lehman to win. Jack Doyle, betting commissioner, said tonight odds were 3 to 2 on Lehman.

The smart money boys were certain the Tammany machine would be too hard for Dewey to overcome in the city. The election, however, is admittedly the closest since Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected governor in 1928 by a plurality of 25,853.

Dewey made his final plea to the voters tonight with an indictment of his Democratic opponent for not repudating corrupt political machines here in New York City and in other cities throughout the state. Dewey will cast his ballot tomorrow in upper Manhattan.

Gov. Lehman closed his campaign with a state wide broadcast, appealing for reëlection on the basis of his record for the last six years. He attended two rallies and then went to his home at Harrison, N. Y.

KEEP ROOSEVELT PHONE BUSY WITH VOTE FORECASTS

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The telephone wires to President Roosevelt's country home here were kept busy today as New Deal lieutenants throughout the nation reported on prospects in tomorrow's election.

Democratic campaign managers in Michigan gladdened the President with a prediction that Gov. Frank Murphy would be reëlected. Despite straw votes placing District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey ahead of Herbert H. Lehman in the New York gubernatorial race, Democratic leaders in New York City informed the President that Lehman would win. From Ohio came reports that Charles Sawyer, Democratic nominee for governor, and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Democratic candidate for reëlection, would be victorious.

Mr. Roosevelt will vote tomorrow in the village hall at Hyde Park.

3 HURT, 6 HORSES PERISH IN LIVERY STABLE FLAMES

One man was seriously burned, two firemen were injured, and six horses were destroyed in a fire which swept the Henry Burns livery stable at 4210 Emerald avenue early today. A billy goat helped save some of a dozen horses that survived. Two of these were so burned they probably will be destroyed.

The fire started from unknown causes. It made considerable headway in the hay and other feed. Firemen under Division Marshal Arthur G. Seaman responded. They led out eight or nine horses. Police said the goat, kept as a mascot, helped lead out two or three. The horses were saddle animals used in the nearby stockyards.

Patrick Rowen, 31 years old, 4317 Emerald avenue, was found critically burned in the stable. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital. Firemen Matthew Hoffman, 29, and John Burke, 37, of Truck 18, were injured when a hose line jerked from their hands and knocked them down. They were taken to the same hospital. Marshal Seaman estimated the loss at $3,000.

CASEY AMPLIFIES CHARGE OF COURT RULE BY BOSSES

Democrats Evade Issues, Judge Declares.

In campaign rebuttal speeches yesterday Judge Edward B. Casey, Republican candidate for reëlection to the Municipal court, charged that Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby and other Democratic judges have failed to answer his charges that the Nash-Kelly political machine controls Chicago's courts.

Aiming his attack at a radio speech made by Judge Sonsteby on Sunday night, Judge Casey charged that the chief justice evaded every issue that has been raised in the campaign. Judge Casey also declared that Judge Sonsteby's last minute radio reply was "cowardly."

Chided for Delay.

"I made my charges in this campaign at various times between four and eight weeks ago," said Judge Casey. "The newspapers called upon Judge Sonsteby constantly to reply. He refused.

"On one occasion, two weeks ago, we were both invited to speak at a club. Judge Sonsteby did not even deign to reply to this invitation. When I challenged him to appear with me he gave the excuse he would be out of town that day. As a matter of record he presided at a judge's meeting that same afternoon."

Judge Sonsteby, in his radio speech, had charged that Judge Casey as well as other Republican judges had been freeing defendants brought in on charges of having violated city and state gambling laws. The Republicans had charged that only the Democrats were accustomed to releasing any and all defendants in gambling cases.

Charges Use by Bosses.

"Every one except Judge Sonsteby understands I never criticized any judge for following the constitutional guarantee which requires a warant for the making of a lawful arrest under certain circumstances," said Judge Casey.

"But what I do criticize is the use of the courts by political bosses so that they can syndicate the entire gambling racket in Chicago. And that's what has happened. I charge that Judge Sonsteby centralized gambling cases in the racket court at the behest of the political bosses.

"I charge that Judge Sonsteby always assigned to that court a Nash-Kelly henchman who would carry out in every detail the will of the bosses.

Adjunct to Machine, He Says.

"I charge that if any judge found any bookie guilty in Chicago—even if the bookie pleaded guilty—Judge Sonsteby would transfer the judge to a civil court.

"Finally I charge that the Nash-Kelly machine has taken over the entire court—once one of the finest in the land—and made it an adjunct to their machine by manipulating judicial decisions and doling out patronage jobs."

Judge Sonsteby, reached at his chambers yesterday, said he was perfectly justified in centralizing the gambling cases and said the records of the court would show that they were handled more efficiently in that way. He denied the truth of any of Judge Casey's charges and said the court received the praise recently of judges and lawyers.

COLD WITH SNOW OR RAIN IN STORE FOR ELECTION DAY

Winter Approaches State from West.

Wintry weather prevailed yesterday from the Rocky mountains to the Mississippi river. The forecast indicated that the cold would advance eastward today. It is expected that Illinoisans will have to find their way to the polls through snow or rain and in temperatures under 40 degrees.

A steady rain that began Sunday evening continued all through yesterday. In the afternoon there was a dense fog near the lake. It drifted over the loop and for a time obscured the upper floors of tall buildings.

Heavy Snow in West.

Eight inches of snow were reported in parts of Wyoming, Colorado, and Montana. At Denver, where the lowest temperature was 6 above zero, the snowfall was six inches. Temperatures in Nebraska ranged from 10 to 20 above zero, and it was below freezing in parts of Texas and in Oklahoma.

There was an inch of snow in Des Moines, Ia., and a light fall in northwest Illinois. In Wisconsin, the Chippewa river reached flood stage after heavy rains.

New York Enjoys Summer.

In the east the weather was summerlike. Upstate New York had temperatures in the 70s. The forecast indicated that New Yorkers would have a mild, fair day for their voting, and that the rural population would have no difficulty in reaching the polls.

Much damage was caused by high winds in California and Florida. In the Long Beach channel, near Los Angeles, damage of $30,000 was caused by an oil tanker which was blown against yachts and water taxis. Young fruit crops in California were injured.

The judge instructed her attorney, Irving Eisenman, to prepare a divorce decree. Mrs. Anderson, 32 years old, lives at 3327 Sheffield avenue. She will receive a $500 settlement in lieu of alimony.

SOCIAL WORKERS VISIT CLIENTS OF COMMUNITY FUND

Eight members of the women's division of the Community Fund drive yesterday visited five institutions typifying the 175 which will be benefited by the fund.

In the group were Miss Joan Ford, Mrs. Robert Carr Jr., Miss Margo Atkin, Mrs. Samuel Hirsch, Mrs. Frank J. Lewis, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, Miss Virginia Anne Hodges, and Mrs. Ruth Applegate. They visited the Catholic Social center, the Orthodox Jewish home for the aged, the Salvation Army emergency relief lodge, the Michael Reese hospital clinic, and the House of Happiness.

UNMARKED BANK BALLOT TO COUNT AGAINST REFORM

Committee of 100 Gives Warning to Voters.

Voters were warned yesterday by Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, that failure to mark the ballot on the constitutional proposition is in effect a vote against the proposal to reform Illinois banking laws. To carry, the proposition must receive a majority of the ballots cast, not simply a majority of the votes on the proposition.

"Our only serious opposition," said Mr. Thompson, "is the indifference of many voters who will mark their ballots for candidates but not for propositions. We might be better off had there been some opposition that would have attracted more public attention to the proposition. The affirmative is certain to receive a vast majority of the votes that are marked on the constitutional question."

Heads Committee of 100.

Mr. Thompson is chairman of a committee of one hundred prominent businessmen and civic leaders which has been campaigning for adoption of the nonpartisan reform proposition. He was the Democratic nominee for governor in 1928. The proposal has been indorsed by the Republican central committee. Gov. Horner has made no public statement on it.

Two changes are proposed in the banking laws. One would remove the requirement for a referendum to make any change in the statutes. It would protect these statutes against any hasty action by requiring a two-third vote from both houses of the legislature for passage of a banking bill. Most bills are passed by simple majorities.

Double Liability Opposed.

The other proposed change would remove the double liability for stock holders in state banks. The double liability no longer applies against stockholders of national banks.

Advocates of these changes say passage will permit scores of new banks to open, with full protection to depositors, in communities now lacking banking accommodations.

FIGHT FOR BABY LOST BY TWO COUPLES; HER MOTHER IS WINNER

Westport, Conn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Betty Lou Francos, 10 months old, whose adoption had been sought by two childless couples, was returned to her mother today. The mother, Mrs. Marcel Van de Werken, was married last week to a New York chauffeur who proposed by mail without having seen her.

A court order denied Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Buttery the privilege of adopting the baby, which was born out of wedlock. The Browns, who had been caring for the child, demanded a board bill of $94 as a weapon in their fight to adopt the baby.

Yesterday Mrs. Brown said she wouldn't give up the child. She fled down a road with the baby in her arms after the mother had held it briefly. But today she turned the child over to the Westport department of welfare and it was then given to its mother.

Hitch-Hiker Steals Car; Leaves Benefactor Bound

MILLION TO VOTE IN WISCONSIN IN SPITE OF RAIN

La Follette and Heil in Hot Race for Governor.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Despite a cold rain which began tonight and threatened to turn into snow, it is estimated that more than a million persons in Wisconsin will vote tomorrow to select a United States senator, ten congressmen, and full state and county tickets.

This will be almost twice as many as voted in the primary of September. It is estimated the vote will be some 20 per cent under that of the election for governor two years ago when interest in the presidential election piled up more than a million and a quarter votes.

Politicians say the weather does not make as much difference as it used to when a bad storm on election day was expected to cut down voting, especially by the Republicans.

Seven Weeks Hot Campaign.

The seven weeks since the primary have seen a campaign that has exceeded in intensity any since the kerosene torch days of the previous century. It is a three-way race, with the Republicans hopeful that due to disaffections within the Progressive party they are going to make important gains. The fight for governor is admittedly between Julius P. Heil, Republican nominee, and Gov. Philip F. La Follette, Progressive. Henry Bolens is the Democratic candidate.

In the race for the United States senate, F. Ryan Duffy [D.] is seeking reëlection. Alexander Wiley is the Republican nominee, Herman L. Ekern is the Progressive candidate. John B. Chapple, an editor, is an independent candidate, pledging his support for the Townsend old age pension plan, but he has been repudiated by the Townsendites.

The Democratic ticket got into the field late and made little pretense of trying to elect any of their candidates except Senator Duffy. Bolens, Democratic candidate for governor, made a few speeches. In the last week of the campaign the Democrats have deluged the state with advertising and their vote may be larger than at first expected.

Predict Wiley Will Win.

In spite of the steam the Democrats belatedly have put into the campaign observers do not believe Senator Duffy can be reëlected. Wiley, the Republican candidate, is picked to win. Ekern also declares he will be elected. In addition to electing Wiley to the senate, Republicans are hopeful of electing a majority of their congressmen.

The Progressives have made the hardest fight of their lives. Gov. La Follette admittedly has been apprehensive because of the effect defeat would have on his national third party and the Progressives have made full use of radio, billboards, local rallies, as well as adopting a new strategy of letter writing by the governor. He has written thousands of letters, including those to the old age pensioners giving what he called direct information to the voters.

Campaign activities continued up to the last minute. There were radio speeches tonight and statements by all the candidates. Heil closed with his emphasis on the state's need for a business administration.

Farmers Swing to G. O. P.

F. L. Gullickson, chairman of the Republican state central committee, said that sentiment through the farm districts, heretofore a La Follette stronghold, are crystalized for a swing to the Republican ticket.

Wiley closed on a charge that both Democrats and Progressives have tried to divert the attention of youth, the aged, the farmer and the laborer from the plight in which they find themselves. "The New Deal has bogged down," he said.

ROB STREET CAR CONDUCTOR.

Two colored bandits, one armed with a knife and the other carrying a toy pistol, stole $15 last night from John Riordan, conductor on a Roosevelt road street car, at Roosevelt road and Wolcott avenue.

Mrs. Merle Koepke with children, Richard and Carol.

Mrs. Jeannette Koepke yesterday came to the rescue of her husband, Clarence, paying $400 to prevent his first wife from sending him to jail. That amount covered $300 in support money for Koepke's two children by his first wife, Mrs. Merle Koepke, and $100 in fees for her attorney, Harry X. Cole.

Koepke lives at 47 South 20th avenue, Maywood. His first wife divorced him in June, 1937, and was awarded custody of their two children, Carol, 8 years old, and Richard, 6. Koepke married his second wife six weeks ago. He met her when she was invited to a bridge game by the first Mrs. Koepke several years ago. Mrs. Merle Koepke lives at 1936 South 12th avenue, Maywood.

2 BOYS CONFESS 5 DAY EVANSTON CRIME CAREER

Two youths who escaped last week from the St. Charles reformatory and conducted a five day crime wave in Evanston were questioned yesterday afternoon by Assistant State's Attorney Andrew P. Schoenberger. More than thirty automobile thefts were confessed by Elton Pentecost, 15 years old, of 4314 Elston avenue. Police were investigating his statement that he had taken part in several armed robberies. He has a long record in Juvenile court.

His companion, Kenneth Altenburg, also 15, of 619 Davis street, Evanston, admitted several burglaries, Schoenberger stated. The two used the old Coast Guard boathouse at University street and Sheridan road, Evanston, as a hideout. They stole three guns from a historical collection at the public library there, two bicycles, an automobile, and merchandise from a store. They were arrested Sunday morning by Policeman Howard Borgson, who recognized them on Hinman avenue.

IT'S THE BOOKIES' HOLIDAY—AX MEN PUT ON POLL DUTY

Chicago bookies will be able to open their doors without ducking an ax today for the first time since State's Attorney Courtney's raiders started chopping up their premises last August. The reason—all the Courtney cops are assigned to election duty.

624

Yesterday four squads of raiders demolished ten places. This raised to a total of 624 the gambling joints wrecked since the campaign started.

Raids were made on the Paddock club, 4835 Cermak road, Cicero, and at 906 Huguelot place, in a garage; 2204 North Clark street, 2724 North Clark street, 1775 North Cicero avenue, 818 East 39th street, 2838 Broadway, the rear of 4722 South State street; second floor, 1209 West Harrison street, and 159 East Chicago avenue.

LABOR BOARD AID NAMED AS AUTHOR OF RED TEXTBOOK

Advice to Stir Up Strife Told at Dies Quiz.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—David Saposs, chief economist for the National Labor Relations board, was identified today as the author of a text book, adopted by a communist workers' school in New York City.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, former "fellow traveler" in the communist united front, testifying before the Dies house committee investigating un-American activities, gave the title of the Saposs book as "Left Wing Unionism." He added that to the best of his knowledge Saposs was not a member of the communist party, but his wife was. A "fellow traveler" is a person who is in sympathy with communistic principles, but who does not wish to be identified as a member of the communist party.

Matthews also testified that another government official, Paul Sifton, an assistant to the new wage-hour administrator, wrote an article attacking capitalism. The article appeared in Free, a publication of the American League Against War and Fascism.

Saposs Denies Charges.

Saposs replied in a formal statement that the charge that his book was radical propaganda was "false and absurd." He did not deny its use in Red schools. Saposs declared that the charge of communism against Mrs. Saposs was "absolutely false."

Matthews said that between 1932 and 1935 he was connected with some twenty-eight communist front organizations and told of many meetings with Earl Browder, head of the communist party. He discussed the views Saposs put forth in his book.

"Saposs expressed the belief that trade unionism, in order to develop class struggle, must engage in strikes, and if there are no issues they must be created," the witness said. "The struggle may have something to do with collective bargaining and wages and hours."

Matthews came to the witness stand to amplify and verify his testimoney before the committee last August. His testimony at that time—that Shirley Temple had unwittingly lent her name to the communist cause—was distorted by committee foes to an accusation that the little movie actress was branded a Red.

Tells Meeting with Browder.

In discussing his relations with Browder, Matthews said the Red leader called upon him in his capacity as a "fellow traveler" in an attempt to get state department immunity for funds to be sent to this country from soviet Russia. He told of meeting Browder in a New York cafeteria Nov. 1, 1933.

"I told Browder I knew no communist in the department and would not get mixed up in any such activity," Matthews said. He added that he had known a communist named Noel Field on the state department staf in 1928.

Matthews testified he and Heywood Broun, C. I. O. lieutenant of John L. Lewis, were once closely associated in at least five communist united fronts. He named them as the National Student league, the National Committee to Aid the Victims of German Fascism, the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners, the National Mooney Council of Action, and the National Scottsboro Committee of Action.

Recalls Labor Board Case.

Matthews testified that the National Labor Relations board dropped a case involving thousands of dollars in back wages after a $100 payment to a "communist lawyer." Matthews, under questioning by the committee, admitted much of his information on the case was hearsay and for that reason the subject was not pursued.

Before it was dropped, however, Matthews said that the case involved the strike at the Consumers Research company in Washington, N. J., an organization of which he was vice president and assistant treasurer.

He said the NLRB in 1937 ordered the Consumers company to reinstate the striking workers, whereupon the case was appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. The suggestion that the case be settled by payment of $190 in cash—not a check—came, the witness testified, "through a series of individuals whose tracks have been covered up." He said the money was paid to Abraham J. Isserman, a Newark, N. J., attorney, by the research organization's counsel.

Matthews said he understood the money was to be divided between two employés of the Consumers Research company who were among a number who had been on strike for two years, but he did not know whether they received it. He said the NLRB dropped the case.

RIGHT TO MEET IN JERSEY CITY GRANTED C. I. O.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Federal Judge William Clark signed an injunction in Newark today granting the C. I. O. and allied organizations the privilege of conducting meetings in the streets of Jersey City so long as others are allowed to do so.

The injunction will be appealed to the federal Circuit court in Philadelphia, according to James A. Hamill, corporation counsel of Jersey City.

The injunction ended a suit against Mayor Frank Hague and fellow officials arising from the mayor's war on Reds and redicals and the jailing of thirteen C. I. O. organizers. The order did not, however, assert the absolute right of any one to use the public streets for meetings.

It forbade the mayor and his co-defendants from refusing to grant permits for meetings in the streets and other public places "unless and until the defendants . . . adopt and enforce the deliberate policy of forbidding meetings of any kind on any of the public streets."

Boy Victim of Amnesia Found Asleep in Prairie

Police of the Rogers Park station last night were trying to identify a boy about 15 years old, apparently an amnesia victim, who was found asleep in a prairie near 6412 North Rockwell street. He wore no coat and was clad in a white shirt, blue trousers, and brown shoes. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall.

U. S. OFFICIALS GUESTS AT FETE FOR RED RUSSIA

Roosevelt Cables Moscow His Congratulations.

President Roosevelt, the journal again quoted Dimitrov as saying: "The working class of America for the first time in the history of the United States is beginning to show class consciousness and is joining labor organizations where communists are taking the leading part and becoming supporters of democratic and progressive forces resisting the reaction of Fascism."

After detailing the maneuvers of the communists to penetrate and gain control of labor unions and other organizations, the publication said: "Under pressure of the masses Roosevelt, although occasionally becoming a backslider, has gone along the road of progressive legislation. His campaign for construction of hydro-electric stations, assistance for farmers, paying of subsidies to the unemployed, his speech in Chicago on Oct. 5, 1937, in which he demanded quarantine for aggressors, and other similar projects have brought Roosevelt nearer to the communists' project for forming a Popular Front government in America."

Claims Reds Gain in U. S.

The communist party, said the journal, is gaining both publicity and an increased following by supporting Mr. Roosevelt, "whose declarations and speeches together with his legislative program and the C. I. O. form the basis for organizing the Popular Front in the United States."

"Successful development of activities of the American communist party," it said, "is assured by its claiming the Declaration of Independence as its Marxist manifesto, its claim to be continuing the democratic revolutionary traditions of the United States, its correct policy of maintaining outstretched hands toward Roman Catholic organizations, and its systematic work among innumerable minorities which form such a large percentage of the population of America."

The official journal of the world Reds also hinted that the communists, through the various organizations controled by them, may advance Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for a third term since the "popularity of Roosevelt still remains one of the deciding factors in the political situation of the country."

The opinion at communist international headquarters is that the American communist party should continue energetically to support Mr. Roosevelt and his policies as long as his popularity continues and his policies and legislative program coincide with Moscow's ambitions.

NAZI BATTALION ENTERS BARRACKS BY PARACHUTES

[Copyright; 1938; By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 7—The spectacle of a whole infantry battalion making its entry into new barracks by parachutes was witnesed at Brunswick today. The soldiers were flown from Stendal in a number of large planes flying in formation, and when at a height of about 360 feet man after man jumped with a parachute and landed in front of the barracks. Later they received the chancellor's flag inscribed:

"If you don't risk your life you never win."

BUY NO ANTI-FREEZE

...until you read these facts about DU PONT "ZERONE"*

A FRIENDLY WARNING: You cannot be sure of getting the best value in anti-freeze until you know what Du Pont has to offer in "Zerone."

First of all, extraordinary anti-freeze protection. Scientific tests prove that "Zerone" would keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. You'll never encounter temperatures like that, so you can be sure "Zerone" used in accordance with directions will protect your car in the coldest weather you'll ever experience.

The materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need comparatively little "Zerone" to achieve protection. That's economy. Properly used, replacements of "Zerone" are little indeed—and that's economy, too.

Furthermore, scientific tests prove that the mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone. That improves engine performance.

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents formation of rust and corrosion—avoids power losses, helps save fuel and oil. Those are the facts, so ask your dealer to protect your radiator with "Zerone" today. It's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

POLAND ORDERS SUPPRESSION OF UKRAINIAN RIOTS

More Police and Troops Sent Into Zone.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 7.—The Polish government has taken energetic measures to restore public order in the Polish Ukraine.

"Strong repressions will be taken against Ukrainians participating in demonstrations and other activities against the government," Wladislaw Bilyk, governor of Lwow province, said today.

This was the first time any Polish official disclosed that rioting has been an almost daily occurrence in Galicia since Ruthenians obtained complete autonomy in Czechoslovakia three weeks ago. Bilyk's revelations were censored from the Warsaw press, but appeared in the Cracow illustrated daily Illustrowany Kurjer Codzienny.

Police Forces Enlarged.

The governor further admitted that both police and military forces in southern Poland had been considerably enlarged and that the frontiers with Czechoslovakia-Ruthenia, Rumania and the soviet Ukraine were more closely guarded against entry of agents, arms and literature than ever before.

The 12th cavalry regiment entrained at Warsaw for Lwow today after more serious riots in which it was officially admitted two persons were killed yesterday. Polish students and members of patriotic organizations made a clean up of Ukrainian seminaries, student homes, and other institutions in Lwow yesterday. Ukrainians retaliated by smashing windows of Polish institutions.

Polish officials in Lwow blame German agents for the disorders. They assert Germany actively is supporting the Ukrainian movement for an independent Ukraine state.

Elated by Size of Vote.

Warsaw claimed that 55 per cent of the Polish electorate appeared at the polls yesterday to participate in the first election held under the auspices of President Ignace Moscicki's new political party OZON—national unity party. Government candidates had the solid support of the Catholic clergy. Favorable weather throughout the country helped the voting. Government circles were elated by the size of the vote, claiming this was complete endorsement of the policies of the present régime.

Only one known opponent of the government was elected. At Vilna, Gen. Lucian Zeligowski, hero of the Vilna putsch and outspoken enemy of what he claims is Moscicki's tendency towards a totalitarian government, received 3,000 more votes than Gen. Stanislas Skwarczynski, president of the National Unity party, who was the second candidate elected.

Election Mentor Defeated.

A second opposition candidate, Col. Walery Slawek, placed fourth in the Warsaw list of candidates and was defeated. He is a former premier. His defeat was bitter, for he was the author of both the constitution and the present law under which the election was staged. Slawek was the direct cause of the present election, since President Moscicki dissolved parliament when Slawek was discovered plotting another putsch.

Five Jews, and fifteen Ukrainians were reported among the deputies who will soon meet to give Poland a new election law. Opposition leaders are downcast, fearing Moscicki will make good his threat to liquidate all political parties in Poland except his own.

Army Deserter Sentenced to 2 Years in Guardhouse

A court martial yesterday sentenced Nicholas Nedhoff, a deserter, to two years in the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan.

Will Sue Husband

MARION BENDA.

Los Angeles, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Marion Benda who was called by the late Florenz Ziegfeld the "most beautiful girl in America" revealed today that she will file suit for separation from Dr. Blake Watson.

Miss Benda formerly was the wife of Baron Freiherr Boecklin von Boecklinsau, wealthy German nobleman whom she married in 1928. She became the wife of Dr. Watson in 1933 in Glasgow, Scotland, where Watson was serving his internship after graduating from the University of Vienna.

The former "Follies" star said she would charge her husband with cruelty, nonsupport, negligence, and with giving her inadequate medical care in illness. She said she would not seek a divorce, but would attempt to recover from her husband about $35,000 which she says she advanced to him while he was establishing his practice.

Miss Benda comes of an old and socially prominent New York family. Her grandfather, William Wilson, established the first horse car lines on the streets of Manhattan.

AUSTRALIA HAILS RECORD FLIGHT OF 3 BRITISH PLANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 7.—The Australian press and public glowed with praise for the nine British airmen who landed their three royal air force planes at Port Darwin, northwest Australia, today setting a world's nonstop distance record of 7,162 miles.

Squadron Leader R. Kellett, commander of the flight, led two planes into Port Darwin at noon after a flight of a few minutes more than 48 hours from Ismailia, Egypt. The third plane arrived five hours later. It had been forced down by shortage of gas at Kupang, Timor Island—6,600 miles from Ismailia—but it too had broken the record of 6,307 miles which three Russian aviators set in July, 1937. The Russians flew from Moscow across the north pole to San Jacinto, Cal.

The British flight was estimated to have cost more than a million dollars, but Australians pointed to its military significance. The flight was made in three single engined Vickers Wellesley bombers which were standard models except for extra gasoline space. As soon as the planes are serviced at Port Darwin, they will fly on to Brisbane and Sydney.

SEARCH FOR TWO SOUGHT IN PORCH SLAYING FAILS

Sergt. Patrick J. O'Malley of the Fillmore street police, last night reported that no progress had been made in the search for Rubin and Irving Jersky, brothers, sought in the killing of Donald Warden, 27 years old. Warden was shot on the porch of his home at 1143 South Central Park avenue Thursday night.

A coroner's jury recommended Friday that police arrest Rubin Jersky, a neighborhood tough, for the murder. A gasoline station employé testified that Warden had fought with Irving Jersky earlier in the day and that Rubin shot him.

The Jersky home is at 1136 South Central Park avenue.

REDS MAY INVADE JAP SOIL, SOVIET WAR CHIEF WARNS

Moscow Shown Pageant of Armed Power.

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Klementi E, Voroshilov, soviet commissar for war, concluded an address at a military review celebrating the 21st anniversary of the communist régime today with a warning to Japan that the next "impudent attack" may bring invasion by the Red army.

The war commissar spoke from the top of the tomb of Nicolai Lenin, from which Dictator Josef Stalin and other soviet leaders reviewed a pageant of armed power which rolled across Red square.

"Impudent Armed Sally."

Referring to Japan as "our restless and witless neighbor," Voroshilov said Japanese generals had made an "impudent armed sally" at Changkufeng, on the Siberian border, last July and August.

"They displayed their obstinacy and flung large forces of their best troops against the Red army and despite this were completely routed and suffered a debacle.

"If the object lessons taught in the vicinity of Lake Khassan [Changkufeng] are insufficient . . . we must tell them: Gentlemen, whatever you received at Lake Khassan are only 'flowers,' and the real 'fruits' are still to come.

Would Fight on Foes Ground.

"We by no means are obliged always to limit the operations of our troops to an area impudently and thievishly attacked by an enemy. It is more convenient and easy to rout the enemy on his own territory. And so it will be."

Anniversary demonstrations were held throughout the soviet union, but the greatest took place in Moscow.

Tens of thousands of soldiers, several hundred tanks, and 300 war planes passed in review before the men on the tomb and guests at either side. In their wake came columns of men, women, and children, one million strong, marching through the square with banners and placards extoling Stalin and denouncing Fascism abroad.

2 FLEETS BATTLE IN TEST OF WEST COAST DEFENSES

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two powerful fleets closed for "battle" tonight in the Pacific, to determine vulnerability of southern California's coast line to attack. Eighty-six surface craft, including battleships, heavy and light cruisers, aircraft carriers and destroyers, together with five submarines and 400 naval airplanes, were divided into the two fleets for the maneuvers—kept secret until a few hours before the participating units were ordered to clear harbors here and in San Diego.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 7.—[Special.] A masher spoke to Peggy Scheilds, night club entertainer, in front of her home today. She belabored him with a slipper, then leaped into her car and pursued him when he fled. The chase ended when her car collided with a bakery truck, but Peggy and a policeman she picked up en route said they got the license number of the masher's car.

TWO VOLUNTEER TO HELP VICTIM OF RABBIT FEVER

Two persons who had recovered from tularemia, or rabbit fever, were taken yesterday to Michael Reese hospital in the hope that their blood would match that of William Marcus, 13 years old, of Gary. He was stricken with the disease two and a half weeks ago.

Nick Providzalo.

The volunteers are Nick Providzalo, a Gary fireman, and Joe Sherman, owner of a tomato produce company at 49 South Water Market. Pending tests of their blood, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Marcus of Gary, the boy's parents, continued their appeal for donors. Two ordinary transfusions have been given.

The boy has been living with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Neuman, 5414 Ingleside avenue, while attending Hyde Park High school. Dr. Marcus reported his son's condition somewhat improved in the afternoon. He said the source of the infection is unknown.

BOY PAINTS SLED BY CANDLE LIGHT; BURNED BY BLAST

Lawrence Venigh, 12 years old, son of Fire Lieutenant Frank Venigh, figured yesterday that the first snow of the season probably wasn't far away. So he went down into the basement of his home in the rear of 1717 North Hermitage avenue, and got out his sled. It needed a new paint job.

Lawrence started to paint, it but the light in the basement was poor. He lighted a candle. A few minutes later there was an explosion. The candle flame had ignited the fumes in an empty oil drum. A piece of the drum struck him in the head, fracturing his skull. Physicians at North Avenue hospital said he probably would die.

Mary Jaros, 6: years old, 2105 61st court, Cicero, was killed last night when she was struck by a Douglas Park train of the Rapid Transit Lines at the 61st court crossing in Cicero. Warning bells were ringing, and it is believed she did not notice the approaching train because of the rain.

IRWIN CREATES STIR AT OPENING OF MURDER TRIAL

Silenced by Court; Plea of Insanity Indicated.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Robert Irwin, young sculptor accused of three murders, caused a stir at the opening of his trial today by suddenly rising to address the court.

"Do you wish to confer with counsel?" interrupted Judge James G. Wallace before the defendant had uttered more than a word.

Irwin, a former asylum inmate and a former evangelist, was a picture of nonchalance.

"What I want to say, I can say openly," he began.

But Judge Wallace again interrupted him before he disclosed the intent of his remarks. The judge directed Defense Counsel Samuel S. Leibowitz to speak privately with the defendant. After a conversation with his attorney, Irwin made no further attempt to talk.

Crimes Confessed In Chicago.

Irwin is charged with strangling Veronica Gedeon, a model, and her mother, and stabbing to death Frank Byrnes, a lodger in the Gedeon home on Beekman hill. He is being tried on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Byrnes.

In confessions Irwin made after his arrest in Chicago, where he was captured after a cross country flight, he said he killed Byrnes and the two women because they unwittingly had interfered with his original plan to kill Veronica's sister, Ethel, whom he has loved. He said his love for Ethel turned to hatred when she married another.

Three Jurors Selected.

At the end of the day, when court adjourned until Thursday noon, three jurors had been selected to hear the case. They are James H. Day, a clerk; Henry P. Andrews, a financial district security analyst, and Harry R. Held Jr., a paint supplies manufacturer. Day was sworn in as foreman.

In questioning veniremen, Attorney Leibowitz asked if they would be prejudiced against Irwin "because he is said to have killed and undoubtedly did kill three persons."

"There will be no question of that; everybody knows about this case," the attorney added, indicating his intention to set up a claim of insanity.

Leibowitz, not one of whose 123 first degree murder clients has been put to death in the electric chair, challenged the special panel of veniremen on the ground it included no women. He was overruled.

GIRL GETS A YEAR FOR THEFT OF HER PARENTS' $1,284

Miss Albina Bukalt, 19 years old, who stole $1,284 from her parents and went on a spending spree in Detroit last week, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court to a year in the Bridewell. Arraigned with her on charges of petty larceny were Miss Gertrude Schreffler, 29 years old, of 1531 West Adams street, a waitress, and Frank Mages, 26 years old, a saxophone player.

Miss Schreffler received clothing worth $110 and $50 in cash from Miss Bukalt. Mages received $50. The woman was put on six months' probation after agreeing to make restitution and Mages was discharged after making a similar pledge. Miss Bukalt spent approximately half of the amount she had taken from its hiding place in the radio at her home 1956 Canalport avenue. Her mother, Emily, testified against her yesterday.

LOOK PRESENT, PLEASE!

By CALEB

WHEN THE salesmanager of a large Middle West concern, some months ago, hired a man with no great experience in that particular line he admitted, afterward, that he had "played a hunch."

"But the results," he went on to explain, "have proved I was right. That man's arrival on our sales-floor soon had a sort of tonic effect on the whole force. Personality was part of it, of course, but the one quality which stood out was the same on which I had placed my 'blue chips' in engaging him.

"He was alert. I can think of no other expression that better conveys the general idea. When he entered my office, for example, he was all 'alive'—organized, interested, ready for action, so to speak.

"Well, that's the way he strikes any visitor to our establishment. Dropper-in or routine customer, he never lets any one get in his vicinity without coming under his influence. And I don't mean by that that he has effrontery, is annoyingly attentive, or forgets that many people prefer to exercise the right of sightseeing, without the rite of sales-making being thrust upon them.

"That his record corresponds with this alert characteristic of his, goes without saying. He is the kind of representative who really represents a concern: demonstrates that it is in business, affects buyers with the certainty they are being served . . . not merely observed. He looks present."

That salesmanager's last expression we distinctly like. It conveys something that we have often heard Field customers themselves try to convey, in commenting on an exceptionally pleasant contact in our store. They were pleased, and rightly, by the feeling that the individual who had served them was "present."

Building patronage — deserving and preserving good will and customership — is so vitally dependent in these competitive days on the most casual impressions between the two parties to a purchase that "Look present, please!" can profitably be adopted as a private slogan by any one whose business is the service of others.

GEN. FORD TAKES COMMAND OF 6TH CORPS ARMY AREA

Recalls False Armistice on Anniversary.

Maj. Gen. Stanley H. Ford assumed formal command of the 6th corps area yesterday at the corps headquarters in the new postoffice. He came to Fort Sheridan Saturday from his post at Omaha, Neb., where he commanded the 7th corps area.

Although Gen. Ford will reach the automatic retirement age of 64 years on Jan. 30, 1941, he appears to be at least ten years younger. His hair is silver gray. The only wrinkles in his face have been caused by wind and smiles.

Recalls Wartime France.

Twenty years ago yesterday, when the false armistice was announced, he was chief of staf of the 27th division.

"We didn't even get the official word of the actual Armistice until the afternoon of Nov. 11," he said. "We were a long way from Paris.

"On Nov. 7 of that year we were back of the lines near Amiens. We'd been up front until Oct. 15 and we were preparing to go back again. Most people thought the war would last until spring."

The new commander was commissioned as a second lieutenant at the beginning of the Spanish-American war.

Was Military Attaché in Paris.

After the world war Gen. Ford served at various army schools until he was promoted to brigadier general in 1930 and appointed military attaché to the United States embassy in Paris.

He went from France to the Philippines and then back to New York city, where he was promoted to major general and placed in command of the 1st division at Fort Hamilton in March, 1936.

Gen. Ford is living at Fort Sheridan with Mrs. Ford and a daughter Katherine, 2 years old. Capt. Haemer P. Ford, the general's son, is stationed at Jefferson barracks, near St. Louis, Mo.

It took 99 years to make BALLANTINE'S ALE as good as it is today

YOU CAN'T name one of the really great drinks of the world that is a newcomer. Great drinks aren't invented like a mechanical gadget. They can't be copied like a hat. More like a man, they must develop character—they must grow great with the years.

Ninety-nine years have come and gone since Peter Ballantine began brewing his ale in Newark. He established certain standards to which the experience and skill of almost a century have been added. You find all this in every glass of Ballantine's today.

Great drinks aren't invented . . . they can't be copied. They must grow great with the years. And you'll know exactly what we mean every time you see the 3 rings and say, "MAKE MINE BALLANTINE'S!" Made by one of America's oldest breweries.

SPANISH REBELS BREAK LOYALIST HOLD ALONG EBRO

Recapture Mora de Ebro, Foe's Key Position.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Nov. 7.—(AP)—Spanish rebel dispatches announced tonight the occupation of Mora de Ebro, main base of government forces on the west bank of the Ebro river in eastern Spain.

The rebels said the town, which controls a highway and railway running to the port of Tarragona 40 miles to the northeast, fell after a fierce, day long battle. Two important bridges spanning the Ebro were reported cut.

The rebels said government defenders retreated to the east bank of the river, leaving behind a large number of dead. A number of government prisoners were reported captured. The rebels reported they had virtually completely recaptured the west bank of the river, with the government forces split in two and all important rebel objectives reached.

Recapture 60 Square Miles.

Government troops remaining on the west bank were said to be isolated. The rebels reported they had recaptured about 60 square miles of territory in the bend of the river which had been elaborately fortified by the government.

The entry of Mora de Ebro came fourteen weeks after government forces drove this important salient into the rebel lines with a surprise mid-July counterattack.

The Spanish government reported its forces had launched a surprise counterattack thirty miles north of the Ebro battlefront, striking at rebel lines ten miles from Lerida. Rebels asserted, however, that the attack was thrown back with heavy losses. One thousand government prisoners were said to have been taken and 500 of the attackers killed.

A rebel communique reported eighty-six civilians were killed and 117 wounded when nine government planes bombed Cabra, a town thirty-four miles southeast of Cordoba.

New Italians in Spain?

BARCELONA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The government's foreign minister charged today that Italians have formed a new division, known as the Green Arrows, to fight in Spain and that German naval bases aided the recent rebel attacks on government ships in the North sea.

Julio Alvarez Del Vayo told newspaper men the new Italian division was, in addition to increases in Italians, aiding the rebels which the government reported last week in a note to Great Britain.

Rebel bombings spread terror in Tarragona, seaport south of here. Nine times between 7 p. m. Sunday and noon today war planes appeared. There were eight dead and forty wounded.

SPECIAL BRITISH NORTH SEA FLEET REPORTED SET UP

CHATHAM, England, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Great Britain was reported in well-informed quarters tonight to have instituted a special destroyer and submarine patrol in the North sea to prevent "incidents" in her own territorial waters following recent activities of Spanish rebel armed vessels.

The report, which the admiralty declined to confirm, said between fifty and sixty destroyers and twenty-five submarines were carrying out patrol duty. One purpose of the activity was said to prevent possible attacks on ships flying the British flag. Fishery protection flotillas also were understood to have been augmented by ships normally used for training personnel.

The Spanish war was brought within sight and sound of Britain's shores last Wednesday when the rebel vessel Nadir shelled and sank the Spanish government freighter Cantabria. Last Saturday new rebel activity in the North sea was reported when a Spanish government vessel was seized and taken into the German port of Emden.

Doorman Wins Wife

MRS. EWART CORBIN.

Alden Vose Jr. Ewart Corbin.
[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Alden Hampton Vose Jr., prominent socially, today told Justice Edgar J. Lauer that he found his wife in a hotel room with another man. Mrs. Vose subsequently obtained a Reno divorce and married the other man. He is Ewart St. Aubyn Alleyne Corbin, former English veterinarian and now an $85 a month doorman.

Vose, who is suing for divorce on the ground the Reno divorce is invalid, said that on Nov. 1, 1937, he and his wife and Corbin visited three or four night clubs together. When Vose wanted to go home, his wife refused and insisted on going to just one more place.

"I told her she should be home with the baby," Vose testified. "She ripped off her engagement and wedding ring and started to throw them down, then handed them to me. I went home alone and later received a call from her at a hotel. I went there and found her with Corbin."

MEXICO REMOVES CARICATURES OF HITLER AND DUCE

(Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—A life size mural caricaturing Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini and one held offensive to the Roman Catholic church were ordered removed today from the new waiting room of the Mexico City Central airport.

The order was issued by Gen. Francisco Mugica, secretary of communications. The frescoes were the work of Juan Gorman, Mexican left wing artist.

On the murals dealing with the two European dictators was pictured a hydra-headed snake emerging from the labyrinth of an inferno. Hitler's head is upon one of the snake's and Mussolini's on the other.

It is understood that the German and Italian legations here made formal complaints to the foreign office about the representations.

The second mural pictures two bishops, and under it is the caption, translated roughly: "Since aviation was developed every one can fly."

Two frescoes are to be permitted to remain, although one of these, picturing an army officer and a disrobed woman, is under criticism.

A controversy over the removal of the caricatures of the dictators has been raging in the Mexican press for two days. The artist was quoted yesterday as having said he would not agree to their erasure. The newspaper Universal reported tonight, however, that he had been prevailed upon not to oppose the move.

It was indicated that Gen. Mugica also objects to some of the figures in the remaining giant frescoes and wants them more fully clothed. He has recently become interested in Mexican oil barter deals with Italy.

HUNGARIANS ASK RETURN OF MORE WAR LOST LANDS

Clamor for Revision of Peace Treaties.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Hungarian political parties tonight presented a virtually solid front with revisionists clamoring for further return of territory Hungary lost in world war treaties.

Their appetites were only sharpened by winning by negotiation 4,875 square miles of territory lost to Czechoslovakia. The revisionists campaigned for a return of more of the 74,000 square miles Hungary lost in the war. Rumania got about 38,000 square miles, Czechoslovakia about 24,300, Jugo-Slavia 8,100, and Austria 1,900.

Movement Spreads Rapidly.

The government is giving no outward support to the revisionist agitation, but the movement has spread rapidly.

The revisionist sentiment was expected to reach a climax Friday in exercises celebrating the occupation of Kosice, key city regained from Czechoslovakia. In various parts of the returned territory Hungarian troops marched slowly on their schedule of occupation, entering several dozen villages today.

Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, and the entire cabinet will participate in the occupation of Kosice. The Hungarian hero, Prince Francis Rakozi II., is buried there. He was a ruler who died in exile in 1735 after having fought against Austrian oppression.

Nine to Enter Parliament.

Four senators and five deputies who represented the occupied territory in the Czechoslovakian parliament in Prague and six members of the Slovak diet will be accepted as members of the Hungarian parliament.

Hungarian newspapers meanwhile charged that Czechoslovakia was forcing Jews into areas about to be occupied by Hungary in violation of the Vienna arbitration agreement. They demanded that Hungarian authorities move any deported Jews back into Slovakia.

Official sources at Prague denied reports that large numbers of Jews had been expelled from Bratislava, important city in Slovakia.

PRUSSIAN PRINCE JAILED ON CHARGE OF IMMORALITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia, son of the famous 'red prince" who was a second cousin of former Kaiser Wilhelm, today was sentenced to two years in prison on charges of immorality. He was convicted after a secret trial.

Prince Frederick Leopold.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The prince, who is 43 years old, frequently was seen in notorious night clubs in Berlin's west end before Reichsfuehrer Hitler closed all such spots. Later the prince disappeared with his chauffeur. Returning to Berlin, the two quarreled and a court ordered the prince to pay his servant wages which were in arrears.

The "red prince," Frederick's father, who died of a heart attack in 1931, was known as the greatest spendthrift in Europe and was reported to have been loathed by the former kaiser. He earned the nickname "Red Prince" for hoisting a red flag over his Potsdam palace during Germany's post-war revolution.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—A Polish Jewish refugee from Germany, who Germans charged was "excited by Jews in France," today fired two bullets into Ernst von Rath, secretary of the German embassy in Paris. Von Rath is 32 years old.

The refugee, Herschel Grynszpan, who is 17 years, insisted, however, the attempted assassination was only to avenge Polish Jews who had been driven out of Germany by the Nazis.

The Grynszpan family—the parents, sons and daughters—had been ousted from Germany, but were unable to find a home in France. On Aug. 15 French authorities refused an extension of their permit to remain in this country.

Slept in Public Parks.

Herschel left the home of an uncle and slept in parks and under bridges of the Seine. The rest of the family went to Poland, but had to live in an abandoned freight car near the German border.

The family shared the fate of thousands of Polish Jews who were taken from their homes in Germany on Oct. 28 and 29 and deposited on the Polish frontier.

The Grynszpan youth got into the German embassy on pretext of delivering an important document. The youth fired five shot at Von Rath, one bullet lodging in the right shoulder and another in the abdomen. At a hospital the bullet was removed from the shoulder, but Von Rath's critical condition prevented probing for the other one. Embassy employes delivered Grynszpan to the French police.

Blame "International Jewry."

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The official correspondence service Dienst aus Deutschland charged that "international Jewry" was responsible for the attempt of a Polish Jewish refugee from Germany to assassinate the secretary of the German embassy in Paris today.

The service indicated that Jews in Germany probably would have to pay for the attempt on Ernst von Rath, the secretary. Anti-Jewish feeling here was aggravated by the incident which was displayed on the front pages of all newspapers under flaring headlines.

JAPAN EXTENDS ITS WAR ZONE TO FAR WEST CHINA

TOKIO, Nov. 8 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—The Japanese government today announced the extension of hostilities to the westernmost provinces of China proper. All embassies and legations in Tokio were circularized with a statement saying the zone of hostilities extended to a line running from Yunnan, the far southwestern province bordering upon French Indo-China and British Burma, northward through Szechwan province to Kansu, the far northwestern province bordering upon Mongolia.

The army and navy reported continuing gains on the upper Yangtze front. The navy said its foremost units, heading toward Yochow, were 60 miles up the Yangtze river from Hankow. The army reported a southwesterly push toward Changsha was increasing in speed.

The government announced formation of the Central China Development company to reconstruct the war devastated areas of central China. Kenji Kodama, the company's president, asserted Japan had no intention of monopolizing commerce in China.

ITALY FORBIDS JEWS TO ENROLL IN FASCIST PARTY

ROME, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Italian government today issued a decree prohibiting all Jews from membership in the Fascist party except those exempted from racial restrictions last week. The decree was announced after a cabinet meeting at which Premier Mussolini presided.

About 3,500 of the 15,000 Jewish families in the country are exempted from the provisions of the new decree and their members, therefore, are eligible for admission into the Fascist party.

Another decree law approved establishing a chamber of fasces and guilds to replace the former chamber of deputies which was discontinued by the Fascist grand council last month.

FARM CHAMPION HAS NO TIME FOR GOVERNMENT AID

Winner, 21, Feels Work Is Way to Success.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—"There are plenty of chances yet if a man takes what comes to him."

Thus spoke the winner of a competition among 4,000 candidates in a three years' practical farming experiment as he stood in front of his exhibit at the fair grounds here.

On the writer's last visit here this queen city of the midsouth had opened its arms to thousands of bedraggled refugees from the flooded lowlands, fed them and clothed them and comforted them. They went home to find that the receding waters had left better land than ever and now all is forgotten.

Today the earth pours forth its harvest, and in the Future Farmers' of America point of view we find the same reassurance for the future of this valley and its people that nature herself offers. The meeting of the human mind with the harmonies of nature produces new horizons and new liberties.

Following 4-H Lines.

"A new day in agriculture."

"A balanced system."

"All the year around living."

"Learning to do, doing to learn, learning to live, learning to serve."

These are some of the slogans written above the booths where the future farmers display their samples of corn, hay, and cotton, and the records of their cows.

The Future Farmers' organization is along the lines of the 4-H clubs, one of the healthiest signs that future America offers. It has a five point program of cash, food, feed, conservation, and recreation. Rural high schools foster it by offering it as vocational instruction, with half a credit given for experimental work such as young Edward Skelton did.

Other vocations given are business and home economics. Education becomes related directly to life and work. There are 125,000 members following the instruction that will make them better farmers and also better citizens, for group leadership, public speaking, and parliamentary procedure also are stressed.

Tests on Rented Acreage.

Skelton is 21 years old, a product of Hornersville, Mo., High school, the son of R. B. Skelton, Arbyrd farmer. In his experiment young Skelton rented fifty-six acres. On these he planted nineteen acres of cotton and twenty-one and one-half acres of corn. He raised 150 bales of hay, 4.7 acres of legumes, seven-tenths of an acre of peanuts. He has two mares, a colt, and 100 head of swine. He has earned $3,563.57 in three years and has $1,775 in the bank.

Where Abraham Lincoln used to earn 10 cents a day for picking corn, Skelton got his start four years ago by picking cotton.

"Dad gave me half the money," he said, "and I rented some old swampy land, rich in decayed trees and vegetation, that never had been used. I just worked and stayed at home."

This young farmer is short, sturdy, and blond, with a chin that juts like a rock; a clear reddish tan in his cheeks. His greatest influence in this period was not books nor teacher, nor any heroes of note, but an older man, a neighboring farmer.

Starts Little; Grows Big.

"It was Tom Haddock," he said. "He started seven years ago with a team of mules and a few tools. He had no money then, but now he has 100 acres and rents 300. He picks things up quick. He takes hold; saves everything. He got the use of the land for two years, raised corn on it and got started. He takes the chances that come to him."

Here is Virgil La Rue of Dexter, Mo., president of the organization, more of a student in appearance. He had a chance to go to college, but likes the farm and is going to stay on it. His father has 850 acres near Sikeston, so his future is secure.

His inspiration came from the high school course in farming. This is sufficient, he thinks, if one puts it into practice, and keeps abreast with the state college bulletins.

Billy Bryan of Forrest City, Ark., a hot bed of anti-unionism some years ago, took first place in public speaking. He likes electrical engineering and hopes to go to college. His prize address was on rural electrification.

"The importance of this struck me," he said, "as we don't have it out our way. No one thing has come to American farms that has such vast possibilities of raising the standard of living. It represents the difference between real living and just making a living. The plan is to make it increase revenue—not merely to go into debt for luxuries. Buy one thing at a time and make it increase farm revenue. It can be used in the barn, in the feed grinders, in electric milking, and in the farm shops."

A farmer has to know more than just sowing and reaping. The exhibits here include shop work, where the young farmer learns how to repair his tools, and even make parts for wagons and plows.

V. H. Wohlford, state director of radio and recreation, a vocational expert of the university, is one of the young men who have undertaken to lead youth into better farming and better living.

All the boys, he says, are strong for coöperation—unity in buying and selling. They also want scientific training. They must know how to market at the right time.

Oppose Laborers' Union.

As to the problem of labor, which is coming to the front here, these future farmers reflect the attitude of their elders. They are willing to pay the customary hire for labor, and there is no union as yet to challenge this customary price. Furthermore they do not want one.

"The principle of unionism is all right," says La Rue. "We want them to have a fair living."

Already speaking is the future employer.

"They can't carry city ideas of wages to the door of the farmer," says Wohlford.

Bryan does not think the sharecroppers and tenants should have a union.

"They won't have anything long, even if you gave it to them," he says. "Crops have gone to waste because men on WPA would not take jobs in the fields."

The young teacher says that we should help men to help themselves; that is all. There would not be such a high percentage of relief, he thinks, if people were made to work.

"Work or Starve," His Slogan.

"Let the relief officials become bosses and make the able bodied work or starve," he believes.

"I guess I am something of a radical in this," says Wohlford.

It appears to be radicalism to insist that people really work.

Skelton will pay his hired man what is customary. There is no thought in this group of overturning custom; only the thought of getting ahead. They will buy and sell as a union, but it has not occurred to them that labor has the same rights. They take the impatient view of youth that any man can get ahead if he wants to do so. Skelton is a Republican, the others Democrats by inheritance.

"I am for the man, not the party," says La Rue. "The President is smart, but his plans do not work out any too well."

Favors Protective Tariff.

Skelton thinks what we need is a protective tariff; that Mexican cotton and Argentine corn are ruining prices at home. They see the main benefits of the New Deal in soil conservation work. In many other ways it has hurt the farmer. Skelton took a penalty of $6 an acre for planting more corn than the government plan permitted. He figured that he could make money under the penalty by feeding the corn to hogs. On cotton he coöperated and will get his check. It is the soil, however, and their own work and knowledge that these young men are depending upon. They are not looking to the government for much.

[The eighth article in this series will present the young sharecropper and labor union outlook in this section.]

TWO GUNMEN HOLD UP COUNTY TREASURER IN INDIANA; STEAL $1.000

Winamac, Ind., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two gunmen held up the Pulaski county treasurer's office tonight, locked Treasurer Albert M. Yount in the vault, and fled with about $1,000. Yount was keeping the office open to accommodate late payers of fall taxes. He had reopened the place after dinner. He said the two walked in, drew pistols, told him to get into the vault, bound him with tape, and closed the door, locking it. Yount said they took all the money the office had collected since banks closed in midafternoon.

Mrs. Bess Reidelbach, deputy treasurer, came in shortly afterward. She opened the office and freed Yount.

Yount said the loss was insured.

MISSING CO-ED IS FOUND; TELLS OF BEING KIDNAPED

Discovered in Cave, Cold, Hysterical.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A strange story of being kidnaped and drugged by two men was told to police today by Miss Mary E. Mellinger, 21 years old, a junior at Indiana university.

The co-ed, an art student from Indianapolis, was found late last night lying in a semi-coma in a small cave at an abandoned stone quarry seven miles south of here. She had been missing since Saturday morning.

Tells of Kidnaping.

Miss Mellinger was hysterical and suffering from exposure when found. After resting at a hospital she said that she had been kidnaped by two men who asked her to show them the campus.

"I had been to the library with my roommate, Jean Hanna, and was walking back alone to my room when a car drew up beside me," she related. "The driver, man in a brown suit and with black wavy hair, asked if I'd show him the campus.

"I consented and got in the back seat with a heavily veiled person I had thought was a woman, but who turned out to be another man. I pointed out the stadium, but they didn't stop there; they kept right on driving out of town.

Insists She Was Drugged.

"In a few minutes we were at the old quarry. They pulled me out, drugged me, and put me in the little cave. One man left, but the other one stayed until Sunday when he left, too. After he had gone I stumbled out of the cave and collapsed in a corn field. One of the men came back and carried me to the cave."

Deputy sheriffs found a sweater and handkerchief, which Miss Hanna said belonged to her missing roommate, in a deep pond in the quarry. Believing Miss Mellinger had drowned, officers dragged the pool for six hours.

Sherif Claude Myers said he was unable to find a motive for the kidnaping.

U. S. GRAND JURY INQUIRY ASKED IN FAKE ARSON CASE

A federal grand jury investigation of the circumstances surrounding two fake arson confessions obtained by State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas early in September was asked yesterday by Attorney Joseph T. Harrington. The lawyer represents Emil Guerrieri and Frank Kolesiak, who claimed to have been kidnaped, falsely imprisoned, and forced by Coultas and other amateur sleuths to confess a crime of which they were innocent.

Harrington appeared before Federal Judge James Wilkerson after conferring with United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe. Judge Wilkerson allowed him to petition for the grand jury action. Harrington said the civil liberties of his clients had been violated.

Federal Judge William H. Holly continued action on a suit filed by Harrington against State's Attorney Courtney and Sherif Toman because Guerrieri was held in the county jail for several days. A motion was made before Judge Holly yesterday to dismiss the suit.

Gov. Horner has ordered an investigation of the conduct of Marshal Coultas in the case. Municipal Judge John J. Rooney will resume hearings next week on applications by Harrington for warants against Coultas and others.

Mundelein Visits Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Cardinal George Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, conferred for more than an hour today with Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state. They did not disclose what was discussed, but Vatican circles assumed Cardinal Mundelein gave Cardinal Pacelli a general outline of conditions in the United States.

Sally Rand Fined $100 for Tussle with Camera Fans

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Fan and Bubble Dancer Sally Rand, convicted last week of assault and battery because of a tussle with two candid camera fans, today was fined $100 in Municipal court. Sally admitted she struggled with a man and a woman in a theater after they snapped pictures of her she was sure would be unflattering, but she denied biting or scratching.

PWA Grants East Chicago $1,350,000 for Sewer Plant

A Public Works administration grant of $1,350,000 to aid in construction of sewage disposal facilities for East Chicago was announced yesterday by David Kennicott, regional PWA director. East Chicago must provide the balance of the three million dollars.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Rain Delays Harvest.

November 7, 1938.

RAIN has temporarily stopped the harvesting of corn at the Fox river farm near Plano and Yorkville. The ground was too soft for the pickers to go into the field today.

Harvesters had expected to have all of this year's crop shucked and cribbed by Wednesday night. Favorable weather and the ideal condition of the corn had made it possible for the pickers to be far ahead of their normal harvesting schedule. There were only about 3,000 bushels of corn left in the fields when the men quit work Saturday night.

Corn Crop Smaller.

The corn crop on the farm was small this year compared to the acreage planted in recent years. There were 323 acres of corn raised. Forty-seven acres were cut and used in filling the silos, leaving 276 acres to be picked.

As the corn is hauled in from the field Clarence Turow and Louis Thurow Jr., operators of the farm, have estimated the yield. They expect a total crop of ear corn of between 15,000 and 16,000 bushels, averaging in the neighborhood of 60 bushels an acre. This does not include the yields on a few low spots in the fields where the corn was drowned out by heavy rains last spring.

Ideal weather during the final ripening stage matured the corn so that it is going into the cribs in excellent condition. The quality is high and the moisture content is unusually low. Mild weather that has prevailed since picking was started gave the corn a chance to dry out in the cribs without spoiling. When temperatures are high during the early harvesting days the corn is in danger of spoiling.

This year's corn crop is being picked with two 2 row mechanical pickers. With two pickers the crews are able to crib from 22 to 25 loads a day, and each load averages approximately 40 bushels.

One man operates the picker which shucks the corn and elevates it directly into a wagon. Two or three men with teams haul the corn into the cribs. Two men are able to take care of the corn husked by each picker where the fields are near the cribs. An extra man with a team and wagon is used where the corn is hauled for a mile or more.

Elevators Fill Cribs.

Two elevators run by tractors are used in filling the cribs. These elevators do the back breaking work formerly done by the harvester who scooped the corn into the crib by hand. An elevator is used to take care of the corn coming from a two row picker.

Only hybrid corn was grown on the Fox river farm this year. Six different strains were planted—Funk's G 8 and G 55, Pfeister's 366, DeKalb 421 and 467, and National 117. The Thurow brothers say that the highest yields are being produced by Funk and Pfeister strains.

The stalks of all six hybrids have stood up well. High winds the latter part of last week whipped off many of the blades and snapped off the tops here and there over the fields. But the stalks still are holding up the ears. There has been an unusually small percentage of ears left after the pickers have gone through the fields.

How To Relieve Misery of Your

CHEST COLD

If you are suffering from a miserable chest cold, try this: Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with warmed cloth.

VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief—two ways at once. (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors.

This poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over. VICKS VAPORUB

FAMILIES URGED TO USE MORE MILK

Wives everywhere, according to the Milk Foundation, a non-profit health education foundation, are using more and more milk in their daily meals not only for its high food value, but because it also makes the food budget buy most in actual value. "I used to use other cough remedies, but since I used REM I don't give the children anything else."

Mrs. Paul Lange
3643 N. Teutonia Ave., Milwaukee

The Reason:

There are thousands of mothers, like Mrs. Lange, who "don't give the children anything else" since they discovered REM. Children take it without coaxing — parents appreciate that. REM is so effective because:

(1) REM is made specifically for coughs resulting from colds.

(2) REM is a real cough medicine, not just a "tickle stopper."

(3) REM is thorough, because it works two ways . . . not only in the throat, but also systemically. That's what makes it so very much more effective.

So if you have a cough resulting from a cold, don't fool around with it! Go after it with a real cough medicine like REM.

ZOO TURNS NIGHT INTO DAY FOR ITS 3 VAMPIRE BATS

That's the Only Way the Visitors Can See Them.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Generally speaking, bats are ugly creatures. Vampire bats, however, are uglier. In fact, officials of the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield say they are the ugliest of all mammals.

Nevertheless, three vampire bats have been placed on exhibition in the reptile house of the zoo. The officials hope the public can stand it, for their exhibition represents a major zoölogical triumph.

Never before, according to Robert Bean, assistant director and curator of mammals, have they been exhibited in American zoos. The Bronx zoo has a few, but keeps them in hiding. Not because their appearance is hideous, as it is; nor their eating habits obnoxious, as they are; but merely because they are so hard to see.

Creatures of Darkness.

That is, they are creatures of darkness. They ordinarily sleep by day, hanging head down, and fly around on their bloodthirsty way at night. The most truly nocturnal of all animals, they usually are kept in total darkness. Thus, as they are reddish brown in color and not much larger than a house mouse, no one can see them—if not on exhibition.

But the Brookfield officials put an end to this. They put their ugly trio in a solid cage completely enclosed except for a glass front. Gradually, day by day, they let more light trickle in.

Now, three weeks after the bats' arrival from Trinidad, they sleep contentedly in a subdued light, for which officials soon hope to substitute ordinary daylight. Moreover, they have upset centuries of habit by eating their food when it is placed before them, which is at 3 p. m., instead of in the dead of night.

Strange Eating Habits.

The zoo has not yet, however, been able to induce the bats to eat such genteel foods as milk, cereal, or carrots. They subsist only on blood—an ounce of horse's blood apiece each day [night]. They have been offered water, but scorn it.

By nature, they are bloodsuckers, and prefer to get their own from horses and cattle, but show no hesitation when the canary bath serving as their food dish is pushed inside their cage. They swoop down from their upside-down perch, their membranous wings outspread like umbrellas, hook themselves to the canary bath, and simply lap it up.

"Most people think vampire bats attack humans, but I've never heard of one doing it," Mr. Bean said, loyally defending his ugly ones. "If given a chance, I dare say they might, but—well, they won't get a chance here."

THE FAST MAIL QUITS THROWING SECRETS TO WIND

Stops at Hampshire to Put Off Sacks.

The mail will not arrive in the village of Hampshire in Kane county as a cloud of confetti any more.

Three times last week the 700 residents were forced to gather their letters and newspapers from the countryside adjoining the Milwaukee railroad right of way. The town is a flag stop. The rather futile task became necessary when mail sacks tossed from trains going 60 miles an hour fell under the wheels and were shredded and scattered for miles down the track.

Orders Fast Mail to Stop.

But last night at 11:39 o'clock—by special order of Carl F. Rank, the railroad's mail, express, milk, and baggage manager — the Chicago-Omaha train came to a full stop at Hampshire. Instead of tossing four to fifteen mail sacks in the general direction of the village, as has been their habit, railway postal clerks unlocked the station, placed the sacks inside, and locked up again.

Previously, Hampshire's mail sacks were carried thirty miles beyond, to Davis Junction so that they weren't left lying around all night uprotected. Then the Omaha-Chicago Arrow express would bring them back to Hampshire at 7 a. m. the next morning when the station opened.

The big trouble, explained W. H. Lenn, chief clerk of the Chicago post office's railway mail service, was that the bags were too numerous and too heavy to be thrown clear of the speeding train by mail clerks.

"This happens very rarely," said Lenn.

Whole Town Inconvenienced.

Nevertheless, it was a serious matter to Hampshireites. One of them, William Scadding, had waited two months for discharge papers from the British army so that he could receive treatment in Hines Memorial hospital. The long awaited letter was shredded under the Arrow express, and he had to send for a new set.

It was the post office department's responsibility to deliver the mail safely, but, to preserve good will, railroad officials agreed to the westbound stop, even if it does add five minutes to the schedule.

OAK PARK UP TREE OVER DISPOSAL OF 1,000 LEAFY ELMS

Do you like elm trees? Maybe you can help the park board of Oak Park with a problem. The park board has 1,000 young elms on its hands. What to do with them is the problem.

Last year the park board, which is separate from the village board of Oak Park, planted the trees on some unused land in Addison, owned by a real estate dealer. He donated the land. The trees were planted with tax funds. Recently the real estate dealer notified the park board that he has a chance to sell the land, and that the board must remove the trees by next spring.

Last night the park board submitted a recommendation that the village board purchase the 1,000 trees at $2 each, but the village board refused. Village President James A. Howe said it wouldn't be right to use tax money to buy trees that had been planted with tax money.

Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey, played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think.

What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B_1, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.

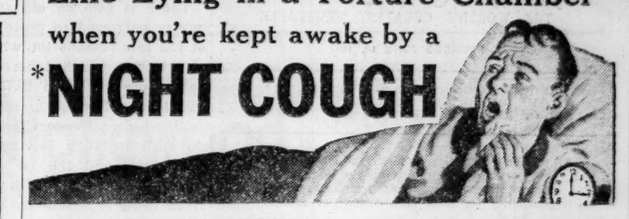
Like Lying in a Torture Chamber when you're kept awake by a *NIGHT COUGH



Do You REALLY Want Quick Relief?

Don't Pay If It Doesn't Work!

Perhaps you, too, have lain awake with a wracking cough and have thought: "I'd give $5 to stop this fiendish torture!" Perhaps you've tried many kinds of cough remedies without results.

Don't ever go through that torture again. If your cough is due to a cold, just take F&F Cough Syrup.

F&F is a highly medicated, utterly safe Cough Syrup. It's the stand-by in scores of homes where it has brought quick, safe relief. It quiets coughs due to colds in a way you have probably never heard about, unless you are a doctor.

For F&F works on the principle of SYNERGISM. This means the co-operation of a number of ingredients—each doing a different thing where several things MUST be done to bring relief quickly. For example:—

1. F&F coats the pharynx (throat) with a soothing, comforting film that quiets the cough and relieves irritation.

2. Special F&F ingredients are vaporized by the heat of the body and inhaled into the respiratory tract—the trachea (windpipe) and upper bronchial tubes—thus soothing irritation where liquids cannot reach.

3. Still other F&F ingredients stimulate the flow of natural fluids in the membranes, thus help to moisten "dry throat," loosen the mucus or phlegm, and help to BREAK UP the cough.

Get a bottle of F&F Cough Syrup from your druggist today. Only 50c.

FREE OFFER: F&F relieves coughs due to colds, whether NIGHT coughs or DAY coughs. To prove this, send your name and address for 4-treatment bottle absolutely free and postpaid. Send no money. Write F&F Laboratories, Inc., Dept. T-1, 3501 W. 48th Place, Chicago.

DEMOCRACY SPLIT WIDE OPEN.

Beginning with tomorrow the Democratic party of the United States will split into the bolshevist and the menshevist factions.

In some states, such as New York, Michigan, and Pennsylvania, the bolshevists have been invited into the Democratic party. In Minnesota the Democrats have been thrown out of the party and the bolshevists, with their technique of assassination, are already in power.

The bolshevists now intend to enter the Democratic party in all the states—a new thing in American politics, that one party should attach itself to another with the help of elements in the party and even the favor of leaders, hoping to feed upon it and ultimately devour it. There will be a constant battle in the next two years between the bolshevists and the menshevists. The bolshevists already have their influence across the threshold of the White House. They will have the use of enormous federal patronage, the force of which has been exemplified in Secretary Ickes' assumption of part of Chicago's government. They will battle desperately with all available means to control the Democratic party two years hence. With the utter lack of scruple they have revealed from the beginning of the so-called peaceful revolution, with their belief in the use of deceit, force, and, among their allies of the extremists, even of assassination, they are an unprecedented and terrible menace, first to the Democratic party and then to the peace and prosperity of the American people.

No one can deny this menace, imminent as it is and overwhelming as its accumulated evidence has become, except a secret bolshevik or a man so indifferent or dull as to invite the fate in store for him.

The Democratic party is already split wider and deeper than any American party has ever been split. It has become the battleground of forces incurably hostile to each other, and the efforts to compromise and to patch up party peace where there can and should be no peace can only be swept away in the conflict. The New Deal has opened the way to the destruction of the Democratic party and to the triumph of the most destructive forces that have ever invaded American affairs.

The struggle which is on and will go on for the next two years within the Democratic party will be one of the epoch-making conflicts in American party history. It will culminate in the battle for the control of the next Democratic national convention, in which the leaders of stalwart Democracy and loyal Americanism whom the bolshevists have been attempting to purge from the party will meet finally and decisively the forces of disruption and revolution.

WHY WISCONSIN IS DEBT FREE.

The flight of industry from Wisconsin is so painful a subject to Gov. La Follette that when confronted with it he prefers to call attention to the state's freedom from debt. He has just done so in a letter written by a secretary to a TRIBUNE reader in which he brushes aside a TRIBUNE editorial entitled "Why Industry Leaves Wisconsin."

The letter, published in the Voice of the People this morning, concedes there is a migration of industry, but declares it to be the conclusion of unprejudiced authorities that there has been less from Wisconsin than from any comparable industrial state.

It would be interesting to know what the governor considers an unprejudiced authority. Almost within a week there have been two serious announcements in Wisconsin confirming the fact that an unpredictable tax position and an unfriendly political attitude were restricting the growth of Wisconsin industry and forcing its manufacturers to turn elsewhere for development.

One was by the state chamber of commerce and one was by the president of the Wisconsin Utilities association and both were currently reported in THE TRIBUNE.

The score or more conspicuous examples have been enumerated here too frequently to justify repeating.

Gov. La Follette's frequently mentioned claim that Wisconsin has no state debt is true. That is no credit to the Progressive administration, but is because the authors of the state constitution forbade a public debt except for certain fixed purposes. There is scarcely a provision of the constitution that has annoyed the La Follette dynasty more.

Now, while obeying the letter of the law, they have found a means of avoiding its spirit. The 25 million dollar debt incurred by the counties for a highway system was an evasion of the prohibition. The state encouraged the counties to shoulder the debt with the assurance that it would pay the interest and retire the bonds as they became due.

More recently the state has turned to the quasi public corporation as a means of evading the constitution. It created an office building corporation which borrowed $800,000 from the state insurance fund to construct an office building. There were similar loans from the state teachers annuity fund.

There is also an old state debt of $1,186,000, money borrowed to prosecute the civil war, one of the few reasons for which the authors of the constitution justified borrowing. Incidentally to date there has been $5,700,000 interest paid on this loan of $1,186,000.

Wisconsin's freedom from debt has nothing to do with industry leaving or remaining within Wisconsin, and the La Follette administration has nothing to do with the state's being free from debt.

The governor through his correspondent also adverts to the recent plan of the Nash Kelvinator corporation to withdraw its motor plants from Wisconsin. When the announcement was made car production was completely halted by a labor barricade about its Racine plant.

The Nash corporation has never publicly explained why it changed the program it had announced. We do know that the corporation's threat to move was followed by a prompt resumption of negotiations that made it possible for it to continue operations in Wisconsin, at least for the present.

LAWRENCE Y. SHERMAN AND OLD ILLINOIS POLITICS.

Lawrence Y. Sherman is eighty today. He is in Florida and his friends have sent him greetings. The former Illinois United States senator, old time downstate Republican chief and legislative leader, is so long retired from political activity that the new generation of voters in the state may, if they recall him at all, remember him only as a figure in the post-Lincolnian past of the state.

Lawrence Sherman once said that when the pecans ripened in the Illinois valley the urge was irresistible to get out and travel about, hiring halls and addressing the fellow men. That explained in part the fascination of politics downstate when the leaves were turning, the fields were brown, and the harvest was gathered or being gathered. The long haul of the state canvass fascinated many of the lean, shrewd, sharp tongued men who delighted in political experiences, traveling by boat, buggy, and freight train caboose from county seat to county seat, making three speeches a day, sometimes in the courthouse, sometimes in the town square by a medicine man's torches, exhorting the people and sitting up two-thirds of the night in a country hotel with the county chairmen and the boys who knew how to carry the district.

There was still a great deal of the early Lincoln in Illinois, and the people who recall Joe Cannon, Shelby Cullom, Lawrence Sherman, John R. Tanner, the Oglesbys, and the Rinakers, among many others, have a picture of loose-jointed, shrewd, carelessly dressed, weather bitten men whose politics seemed to be close to the soil which bore them and whose wisdom in the ways of the people came out of innumerable close friendships.

When Sherman was Charles S. Deneen's running mate for lieutenant governor on the state ticket a dapper young spellbinder from Boise Penrose's Pennsylvania organization was sent out to Illinois by the national committee on the perfectly gratuitous errand of helping to carry the state which already was sewed up tight in a sack. He found Sherman over on the Mississippi river, traveling about in freight trains and making his speaking engagements as if he were a country lawyer coming in for a term of circuit court. He was persuaded with some difficulty that he had at last attached himself to the candidate for second place on the ticket.

A private car and a retinue was the minimum of what Pennsylvania had taught him to expect. To impress him duly with the simplicity of Illinois politics he was taken around behind a freight car before he was allowed to smoke a cigarette, on the theory that he would injure the ticket if anybody caught him smoking anything so unmasculine.

Mr. Sherman can remember a career in politics replete with experiences which made the profession satisfying for its own sake. With his wit and humor, his appreciation of the stratagems and maneuvers in the running of parties, winning of elections, and management of government it is no doubt rosy and gratifying at eighty. Many of his associates have departed. The survivors are mostly, as he is now, contemplating new eras and new ideas in the shadow of their own years. His friends congratulate him on his anniversary.

TWO MURDERS.

On the night of Nov. 3 Donald Warden, a railroad electrician, was murdered in front of his house near Roosevelt road and South Central Park avenue. A motorist had parked his car with one wheel on Warden's lawn. When Warden objected three toughs jumped from the car and beat him. A fourth man shot him dead.

Two weeks before this incident Policeman John Olson was killed while escorting a life insurance company cashier to a bank on the northwest side. One robber snatched a satchel containing $2,000 from the cashier. The policeman gave chase, only to be stunned by a blow on the head from a second robber. The policeman quickly came to his senses and was about to resume the chase when the second man shot and killed him.

The two incidents tell much the same story. Both crimes were cold-blooded, committed by toughs who were as ruthless as they were cruel. The occurrence of such crimes can only mean that the police and the courts whose business it is to protect society from criminals of this sort are failing in their duty.

Editorial of the Day

HARRY HAWK.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

The British Broadcasting corporation has added one more to the nation's band of eponymous heroes. It has set the figure of Harry Hawk, the military airman, in the Pantheon that includes, among others, Jack Tar, Thomas Atkins, Mr. Roe and Mr. Doe of legal fame, Pooh-Bah, Jeeves, and that preposterous patriot, wearer of the very old school tie of red, white, and true-blue, Col. Blimp.

Harry differs slightly from his companions in that we know something of his previous career. For was he not one of the famous company that rode with Uncle Tom Cobleigh and all to Widdicombe fair? In view of his unfortunate experience then with Tam Pearce's old mare it is not astonishing that he has deserted her for Pegasus.

One wishes him every success, but one cannot help thinking that he suffers a trifle from an alliterative excellence, and is perhaps too true to be good. He has a touch of the robot. It was difficult for him to escape it, because he has been made to order—a fact that in itself may tend to shorten his term of office, for the name that clothes a familiar fiction wears better for not having been bespoke.

THOUGHTS WHILE VOTING.

The populace is pouring toward the polls today to swing its rights and lefts in the great political mêlée. The editor of this column returns to his ivory tower, after casting a straight Republican ballot with a clear conscience, to reflect that in spite of the smugness of the leftists, the right swing is usually the haymaker. If not now, then a little later in history. The pendulum always comes back.

* * *

Music critics, whether of the newspaper, the radio, or the book-shelf breed, are taken for a long and learned ride in an article called "Ecce Criticus," by Paul Henry Lang, in the autumn number of the American Scholar, published by Phi Beta Kappa. His thesis is that they often talk through their hats. As an example of their lofty line of rigmarole he submits these remarks by a first line critic whom he does not name on a performance of the First Brahms symphony:

"Listening to the overwhelming outburst in the closing pages of the greatest of all symphonies [save one], one could not but feel that here the re-creator had pierced to the core of the creator's mystery in this apocalyptic utterance."

He also tosses this bombshell into the laps of symphony orchestra fans:

"The worship of the big, the long, the ponderous, and the loud is the worst plague besetting our musical life."

If you suspect that these are the opinions of a music hating barbarian, make note of the fact that the iconoclastic Mr. Lang is a professor of musicology at Columbia university.

I AM NO SOCRATES.

(Socrates, condemned to death, could not be executed while the sacred ship was absent from Athens. Word was brought to him that the ship had been sighted, homeward bound, off the promontory of Sunium, which meant that it would arrive at Athens the next morning.)

The sacred ship passed Sunium today.
A few hours hence its fateful prow will glide
Within the harbor, and its keel will ride
At anchor where two months ago it lay,
While yet my life coursed its unruffled way
Unmindful of the end. Sudden the warning.
The sands run fast. At latest, by the morning
My lips will drink the hemlock. Dearest, stay!

I am no Socrates. I cannot feign
His high composure in the face of death.
No unspent passion stirred his placid deep.
How should he know the shock of sundering pain?
Dearest, stay with me, and my shaking breath
Shall sigh itself away in peaceful sleep.

A King in the Doghouse.

The contributor who signs himself "King Solomon" would do well to keep out of the Linemaster's way for a while, for the latter is cracking his whip ominously and darting furious glances hither and thither and looking for a chance to chase said contributor into the doghouse. All because "Me and the President, signed by King Solomon and published in this column 11-3-'38, was an old one. It first broke into print about three years ago and since then has been widely republished. Charles A. Darland of the Moline, Ill., Rotary club supplies this information.

"O, well," says the Linemaster with his tolerant, world-weary smile, "these things are bound to happen once in a while." But you should hear his whip cracking!

Lights of Home.

The lights were lit last night as I neared home in that lovely twilight hour when time hovers for a moment between night and day and the sky seems to be one with the earth in the pearly dusk. The lights of home—sending their golden rays through the fast darkening streets, beckoning to the weary wayfarer, mellow with their intimations of security, and love, and belonging. Though I travel to the ends of the earth, though I see the most splendid sights, there will never be for me one so heart warming, so eloquent, so satisfying as the lights of home. Helene.

LAST BRAVE BLOSSOM.

The leaden sky looks down upon dead leaves;
Blown petals drift under withered stalks;
Brown stems sprawl along the sodden ground;
But straight against the ashen weeds
One crimson blossom holds its head erect,
Defying time—like any graying woman
Flashing her brilliant lipstick smile against the inevitable!

BRONCHITIS IN CHILDREN.

THE ending "itis" denotes "inflammation." Thus we have such terms as appendicitis, tonsilitis, meningitis, dermatitis, etc., indicating bacterial invasion of the appendix, the tonsils, the meninges, or the skin. In the last named, certain chemicals may be responsible also.

Bronchitis involves usually the mucous membrane lining the air tubes leading to the lungs, as well as the adjacent lymph glands. The trouble may start in the throat and later extend downward. If it is not limited to the bronchi it may invade the lungs with resulting pneumonia.

One of the most frequent ailments of childhood, it is more pernicious during the first three years of life. As a rule, its manifestations thereafter are milder, due, probably, to greater resistance as age increases.

Where the youngster lives has much to do with both occurence and severity. The air in overheated homes may be baked to the point of suffocation, thus bringing about drying of the nasal passages. If we add to this picture poor nutrition, little outdoor activity, and infected tonsils, we have an ideal setting for the advent of the disease.

Now, nature has provided each of us with remarkable defenses. Germs entering the nose ordinarily are filtered out or destroyed before they reach the bronchial tree. In addition, the mucous membrane is producing water constantly to moisten the incoming air. However, if too great a demand is made upon these surfaces, drying may result, whereupon microbes will jump figuratively beyond nature's barriers and reach deeper areas where they find opportunities for growth.

Another condition—the common cold—predisposes to this type of infection. With some it may be thrown off quickly—within two or three days. With others, however, a cough will be observed within twenty-four to forty-eight hours, with the formation of a considerable amount of sputum, indicating that the irritation has become deepseated.

A moderately severe attack may confine the victim to bed for approximately a week. Good nursing is all important and plenty of fluids—including fruit juices—some mild alkali, and a comfortable, airy room are advised. If the sufferer complains of pain in the chest, if the cough becomes dry or hacking, home treatment is not safe and competent medical advice should be sought. When the temperature goes down the patient may be permitted to be up and about and out of doors for a bit of exercise, even though the cough is aggravated temporarily.

Just as with older boys and girls, or adults, the ailment may become chronic. Many a tot will start the late autumn with a "hack" which may persist intermittently for most of the winter. Such youngsters need cod liver oil, more vitamins, and a high level of nourishment. Occasionally a change of climate is essential, as the condition may interfere with growth and normal development.

With the chronic case, an outdoor sleeping apartment is recommended—one that is well protected from wind and storms, but in which the little one can be snugly ensconced in a slumber bag with a maximum of warmth for the body and cold air for breathing.

Tuberculosis must not be overlooked, and it is always well to have an X-ray film of the chest to rule out this disorder. This is urged particularly if the normal rise in weight does not occur, or should a temperature persist after an acute bout has apparently passed.

If tonsils are diseased the first suitable opportunity for their removal should be seized. In fact, every precaution should be taken to overcome lowered resistance or anything that hinders a gain in strength. Then, too, with those prone to fall easy victims, we can exercise special care in avoiding colds, against frequenting crowded places, and associating with those who are coughing or snuffling.

I know that many physicians cannot see the slightest advantage in rubbing the upper chest and neck with camphorated oil. Nevertheless, practical experience leads one to believe that this is helpful. The skin may be anointed thoroughly and then covered with a warm, soft flannel. At any rate, this plan is far superior to hanging a bag of asafetida about the neck.

ECZEMA ON FINGERS.

B. W. writes: Beginning with cold weather my finger tips split as if they had been cut with a knife. Can you suggest something to remedy this situation?

REPLY.

This probably is eczema, the result of irritation from dust, gloves, soap, or some other material to which you are sensitive. Avoid soap and water, particularly dish water. If you are obliged to do much housework wear gloves. Use olive oil on the finger tips at frequent intervals. Zinc oxide ointment also is of value.

NEURASTHENIA.

B. K. writes: Is there a difference between nervous exhaustion and neurasthenia?

REPLY.

Usually not, although neurasthenia may be defined as including psychic manifestations due to nervous fatigue.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have some stocks in the name of my deceased husband. 1. Do these stocks have to be probated? If so [2] why, and [3] who should handle this, an attorney or the company who issued them? 4. Can you tell me the approximate amount of the probate charges? I have eight shares. M. K.

1. The transfer officer of a corporation is in a position to name the terms on which he will be willing to issue a new certificate in your name. If the amount involved is comparatively small you may persuade him to waive probate.
2. The principal purposes of probate are to establish the facts as to heirship and to see that creditors are paid.
3. The probate proceedings would be handled by an attorney paid out of the assets of the probate estate.
4. The administrator's fee is fixed by statute at not over 6 per cent of the personal property. We are not in a position to estimate the total charges.

TO WASHINGTON MEDDLERS.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—We hear a lot about the wage and hour law; how it means 25 cents an hour and only forty-four hours weekly for the poor and down trodden.

I for one do not object to the 25 cents, as it does not affect us. However, I do object to the hour provision. It acts to handicap business.

We have to take business when we can get it. We cannot tell when orders will come in. The only way to get future orders is to give good service on the ones we do get. We compete with producers in other countries and when we are bound hand and foot with fool laws like this thing, we simply cannot compete.

Formerly when we got a large order every one who wanted to worked a few extra hours daily and got extra pay for it. Every one liked it and was happy. Later they could have time off if they desired. This way that is impossible.

Another point. Like all this Roosevelt-Browder legislation it starts very gradually. But it aims to reach 40 cents an hour for forty hour weeks. That is an impossible figure. We use girls in our place and the idea of 40 cents an hour for unskilled labor is silly. We can't raise our prices in proportion.

Things would be a lot better for all of those meddlers in Washington would concentrate on reducing expenses and taxes, and try not to put any more fool ideas into practice. You can bet that every one here will vote Republican.

EMPLOYER.

SEEKS A CORRESPONDENT HERE.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—I am quoting below a letter received today from David A. Crocker, "Glenorie," 33 Fox Valley road, Wahroonga, Sydney, N. S. W., Australia:

"Would you please excuse me for bothering you, but I am in search of pen-friends in your city, and I thought if it was not too much trouble you would place this letter in the hands of one of the newspapers. I wrote to you because yours was the only address I knew in Chicago—having seen it on one of Canadian Pacific's leaflets.

"I am 16 years of age, and require a pen-friend about my own age. I don't mind whether it's a girl or a boy; I would be very happy if some boys and girls from your great city would communicate with me." K. A. COOK,

General Agent, Canadian Pacific Steamships.

WHERE'S THE MISSING LINK?

Chicago, Nov. 4.—THE TRIBUNE the other day had an article headed, "Orange Pile Grows as California Dumps Surplus from Crop."

I have visited recently one of our sick Sunday school children who has had rheumatic fever for a month. It is a family of five. The parents are good people, but almost destitute. Imagine what three or four oranges a day—with other nourishing foods which the family is unable to procure—would mean to this poor child in her fight to live! My husband earns a fairly good living, but we cannot always afford to buy all the oranges we would like to use.

Will some one please tell me where the missing link is? We surely are a nation starving in the midst of plenty.

MRS. C. S.

IN THE LA FOLLETTE STATE.

J. A. Brown of 7416 Paxton avenue, Chicago, sends to THE TRIBUNE a copy of a letter he received from Edward G. Littel of Gov. La Follette's office in Madison. The letter says:

"Sometime ago Gov. La Follette handed me a letter and press clipping which you had sent him.

"The press clipping was an editorial which appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Sept. 29 and was entitled, 'Why Industry Leaves Wisconsin.' The editorial claims that the Nash-Kelvinator corporation had decided 'to remove its motor plants from Wisconsin.' There has been a labor dispute at the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, but this labor dispute was settled to the complete satisfaction of both labor and management on Oct. 9. Since then the full production of Nash and Lafayette automobiles has been resumed in all of the Wisconsin plants.

"We in Wisconsin are accustomed to the sort of TRIBUNE editorial inclosed with your letter. The fact of the matter is that Wisconsin has made an outstanding record of industrial growth when the record of this state is compared with the record of any other industrial state in the Union. Naturally there is some migration of industry in all states, but it happens to be the conclusion of unprejudiced authorities that there has been less migration of industry from Wisconsin than from any of the comparable industrial states.

"The state of Wisconsin has no debt. Since we pay as we go, we must raise enough money each year to carry on the work of the state government. We think we have better government in Wisconsin because of this. The need for spending the taxpayers' money is scrutinized more carefully if the taxpayer must pay the bill each year instead of postponing the day of reckoning, as other states have done and are doing. We believe that industry is better off in Wisconsin because its future is not saddled with a heavy debt burden incurred over a period of years."

PROGRAMS FOR 6 YEAR OLDS.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—May I suggest that radio stations be admonished to broadcast only such programs as will contain material from Cotton Mather's "Food for Babes," Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," and, or possibly Mother Goose rimes. However, I believe it would be well to edit the foregoing very carefully so as to avoid any misunderstandings.

Things have come to a pretty pass when programs are broadcast which will cause people to indulge in such antics as rushing out of the house, breaking an arm, etc. The fact that programs are to be made up to harmonize with a 12 year old mentality makes my blood boil. Cut it down to 6 years, where it belongs, or expect to suffer the consequences! J. L. JAMES.

WHY NOT CAIRO?

Cairo, Ill., Nov. 3.—I've read your editorial advocating the removal of air bases to the interior. Gold has been removed to Fort Knox. If air bases are moved, why not also remove the capital from the coast to an interior point, such as Cairo?

JAMES S. WALKER.

A LESSON ALL AROUND.

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 3.—Your news story, "Teachers Get a Lesson from Music Pupils," has been read with great interest. As a teacher and a principal I wish to thank you for it.

I say this with the highest respect for the eastern division of the Illinois Education association; for the same embarrassing rebuke might have been administered to our own division at times during the past. I also applaud it with full knowledge that the conduct of those discourteous teachers who brought it upon their division are not representative of the best in that division.

I believe that my fellow teachers, whose opinions I value, will agree with me that we have some in our profession who have not yet acquired the prime element of culture—common courtesy. Those disturbing members naturally attract more attention, just as the "problem child" attracts more attention in the schoolroom.

It was no doubt somewhat embarrassing to the innocent ones in the audience, but I am sure that the "red faced" principal expressed the sporting opinion of the eastern division and the entire I. E. A. membership when he said, "Great! I'm all for them. It's been a lesson to all of us."

Congratulations to you, to the conductor, and to his pupils in the Joliet Township High school band for the lesson to all of us! JAMES C. HODSON, Principal, Monmouth Junior High School.

HIS IS AN UPHILL JOB.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Could you advise me what I should do? During this depression I have lost everything I had. Twenty months ago I took a loan of $500 and bought me a little candy store. I could not get anything from the relief organization, as I was still in possession of some defaulted bonds which later were a total loss to me. Now this store does not make me more than about $2 a day; my sales do not amount to enough that I could collect any tax on.

The Illinois state finance department sends me two bills—$150 and $105. Now out of the little I make I have to pay $25 rent, $5 to $8 light bill, and my license is $105 a year. I have been sending a certain amount of tax in every month, but they are not satisfied with that and want 3 cents tax for every dollar I take in, which I have no way of collecting, and I have to live, also.

I sleep in back of the store, with no rear ventilation. I cannot make enough to rent a room away from the store. I have not been able to pay anything on this $500 loan, which costs me $30 a year interest. I am alone, 53 years old, and keep this store open sixteen hours a day seven days a week. Is there no justice in this state? FRANK J. HEINISCH.

IN SWING TIME.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—I've broken my teeth on nut cereals; my arms on waxed linoleum floors. If I followed the advice of my radio, I'd be in bed for weeks or more. It's remarkable how I'm still living, for I don't smoke their cigarets or drink the beer, but to hear the announcers' warnings, it is really strange that I'm still here. MRS. E. K. G.

[It rimes, if you can swing it.]

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Our idea of heaven would be to have cologne come out of the shower taps. We love the stuff winter and summer. After a difficult day we get more lift out of a quick cleanup and a generous dousing with cologne than we should out of a cocktail. And there are plenty of women who feel as we do, that cologne is a necessity, not a luxury.

Luxury prices on colognes and toilet waters bother us to death. You can't enjoy cologne to the utmost when it's so expensive you have to use it as sparingly as you would perfume.

The sensible price of one big family of colognes is only one reason why we are fans for it. The fragrances are the principal reason. And we adore the fact that they come in pint and even quart bottles and you can use them almost as lavishly as you would plain water.

In these colognes, made by a house that knows floral fragrances thoroughly, you'll find the usual floral scents in true versions. There are rose, carnation, gardenia, and all the other straight scents for which there is always a demand. But this house has some unusual ones that deserve your attention. We have special fall favorites among these.

How would you like, for instance, a blue spruce cologne to use these brisk fall days? It isn't pine but it's wonderfully woodsy, with a tang that tunes up your outlook on life. Then there's a heather; this is clean and refreshing too, but it has a charming softness that will appeal to feminine tastes.

Another beauty for fall use is a royal fern. This has the cool note you'd look for in any scent that suggested the green beauty of a quiet woods.

Women who rebel at the thought of using romantic perfumes during the working day will like these fall favorites of ours. The fragrances are fresh but pretty too—and the colognes are inexpensive enough to use generously. ELEANOR NANGLE.

[For information about these colognes telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100.]

'Dame Nature' Nice Comedy of Child Parents

"DAME NATURE."

Comedy in three acts by Andre Birabeau, adapted by Patricia Collinge. Directed by Worthington Miner. Settings by Norris Houghton. Presented by the Theater Guild in the Erlanger theater, Monday evening, Nov. 7, 1938.

BY CECIL SMITH.

If we are to believe the author of "Dame Nature," the emotions of a girl over 15 and a boy not quite 16 who find themselves on the verge of parenthood are not what you and I would expect. Not, at least, if the boy has been reared in the complete innocence characteristic of French preparatory schools, and if the girl is a solitary, unprotected orphan making her living by selling ink and stationery to all the schoolboys in the little store her aunt has willed to her.

No Freudian sense of guilt afflicts the boy and the girl in "Dame Nature," only a naïve delight and wonderment that so charmingly mysterious a thing should have happened, and a sense of pride on the boy's part that he stands in a class apart from his schoolmates.

Out of such slender material and such unsullied, unconditioned adolescent reactions is fashioned the story of "Dame Nature," with which the Theater Guild regaled its subscribers at the Erlanger theater last night. Scarcely any play within memory has placed an equal strain upon the credulity of its audience, yet it emerges victorious over its own improbabilities and provides a graceful, whimsical, and agreeable evening for its patrons.

Before Leonie and André have their baby André's parents are hateful to each other, living together on the coldest terms and usually ceasing to speak to each other by lunchtime each day. After the baby actually arrives and exerts its winning spell things change markedly for the better, and a more exemplary home life is established.

The comedy is largely one of situation, and any one who refuses to accept its premises will not like it. Indeed, if the whole business were coarsely handled, nobody of any sensibility could possibly like it at all. Actually, however, the lines are written with great delicacy and with a gentle kindliness of attitude toward the young parents. The original French play must have been unusually fine-grained, and Miss Patricia Collinge's adaptation breathes an air of effervescent whimsicality that never decays into mere gentility.

Four-fifths of the undeniable charm of "Dame Nature" lies in the individual performances of an extremely well selected cast. Lois Hall, one of the loveliest ingénues to visit us in some time, made a completely adorable Leonie, and Montgomery Clift—after overplaying in the first few minutes—settled down into a characterization of the boy that made him a credible object of sympathy and affection. Onslow Stevens gave the abstracted father just the right degree of warmth behind his external curtness and blasé detachment. Jessie Royce Landis, returning to the city of her birth, kept Mme. Brisac an amusing flibbertygibbet, though the excitement of an opening seemed to make her force her shots a good deal, with the result that she became a bit too much like Mary Boland for the good of this particularly reticent play. Other performances of high competence were contributed by Morgan James, Kathryn Grill, Harry Irvine, and Forrest Orr.

Conductor,

BY EDWARD BARRY.

So far this season the works chosen by the Chicago City Opera company have been large in scale and—with one exception—gloomy of content. There has been heavy loss of life, with the stage of the Civic Opera house knee-deep in gore much of the time.

Last night's revival of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann" struck a new note. The witty little French piece received a bright and lavish performance. The stories which the disillusioned Hoffmann tells—each falling neatly into an act of the opera—offer one opportunity after another for high and low comedy, for eye-filling stage settings, for polished and debonair pronouncements by any and all of the characters.

So many were the points of interest in last night's presentation that a reviewer is compelled merely to select a few personalities and to let it go at that. They are here arranged—of all the mad methods!—in alphabetical order.

Josephine Antoine returned to the company to give a pert performance as the mechanical doll. Making as pretty a toy as you could demand, she bent her fluent and accurate little coloratura voice to the innocent and childish music which Offenbach provided for the part.

Andre Burdino, who came here last year from the Opera Comique in Paris, made the rôle of Hoffmann another of his patrician and restrained characterizations. His voice seems more robust this year, with a resonance which he either did not possess or kept largely in reserve last season.

A feature of the evening was the return of Francesco Daddi, one of opera's greatest portrayers of comic parts. Again he won the affection of the audience by his manner, his dress, and his pantomime. He has retired from the stage, and is doing nothing this season but "The Tales."

Desire Defrere, another name over which sentimentalists grow teary [he figured prominently in opera here during the golden age], added to his duties of stage director last evening the responsibility for the rôle of Olympia's rich papa. This part—also comic—gave Defrere opportunities to romp around a little with his old friend, Daddi.

Elen Dosia, who is Mme. Burdino, strengthened the impression of great beauty and polished artistry which she made last year. Louis Hasselmans, a specialist in French opera, returned to the conductor's stand for the first time this season.

Margery Mayer, as Hoffmann's friend and adviser, was stuck with a male part for her debut. She has a freedom and an attractive swagger in the rôle, qualities which are a sort of extra dividend for the audience. The main thing is her voice—rich, deep, and flexible.

Lawrence Tibbett, singing three related parts, confirmed [if confirmation were needed] the greatness of his histrionic ability. His portrayals had dignity plus a certain sardonic humor which gave them the necessary personal touch.

Columnist's Clock.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 7.

9:30 a. m.—Amazing how this California sun melts the fog right out of the air. At 9 o'clock a murky gray haze overspread the sky and thirty minutes later the sun had dissolved it completely, and was striking golden glints on the mailman's buttons when he arrived. A nice letter from Bruce Gould, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, on the Col. Gimp column. Letters from the east reproaching this pillar for forgetting the McCarthy Sisters in that lineup of sister teams. A hurried note from Fredric March, on the eastbound train. He finishes it this way: "See you at the World's Fair." Grover Whalen ought to use this as a catch word on all official correspondence. A note from Phyllis Kennedy. A letter from Miriam Lazerson, inclosing a copy of the Daily Northwestern, Northwestern university student paper, with the interview she did while I was in Chicago. A note from David Johnson, Station WCAL, at Northfield, Minn., suggesting that WCAL, instead of Schenectady's WGY, first broadcast radio dramas [both started 'em in 1924]. A letter all in Spanish from Francis Albertani, press agent for Oriental park, at Havana. A note from Clem McCarthy, with his comments on the War Admiral-Seabiscuit race. Letters from American dancers and acts who were in Czechoslovakia at the time of the war crisis, complaining bitterly about the indifference of United States consuls to their plight, and contrasting it to the fine treatment British acts received from their diplomats—requisitioned special trains and forced border guards to waive passport regulations.

10:30 a. m.—At the Bel Air Country club, Doug Fairbanks, Bruce Cabot, David Niven, and Fred Astaire talking golf. "I'm not envious generally," says Astaire, "but I do envy any one who plays good golf." Later, on the course, he shows us how he hit those golf balls during his dance in "Carefree," and after his preparatory dance he whales a drive 250 yards straight down the middle. "Can you imagine how nutty you'd drive an opponent if before every shot you did a jig?" one of us suggested. Astaire dancing his way through the last round of the United States Open against Sam Snead would certainly be a box office attraction.

12 noon—The Beverly Brown Derby is jammed for lunch and the buzz of conversation is indescribable. Suddenly there is a complete lull in the conversation and a woman's voice says loud and clear: "I told him to stop worrying about his wife." Probably the remark was quite innocent, but the lady turned as red as the pimento stuffing of an olive, and everybody in the place stared at her suspiciously.

1:30 p. m.—Ninety thousand or more persons, tier upon tier, at the Los Angeles coliseum for the big conference game between Southern California and the Golden Bears of California. It is no contest, Southern California crashing through to a 13 to 7 triumph for Coach Howard Jones. I think back to an October day long, long ago, when Jones, then coach at Iowa, defeated Yale at New Haven, and I can still recall the dazzling play of Parkin, Iowa quarter back.

4:30 p. m.—Driving home through heavy trafic, but it is a gay experience on a Saturday afternoon as every car has tuned in a football game, and the world seems filled with college songs. The defeat of Pittsburgh's Panthers is the big topic, but Carnegie Tech used to upset the Notre Dame applecart, too. The defeat gives the comics a chance to use the old joke about the danger of a Goldberg fooling around with a pigskin.

6 p. m.—Rouben Mamoulian telling his story of the lizard that he saw at Pompeii. According to him—and he swears it's true—when the guide brought them to the ruins a dozen or more lizards scuttled away. Mamoulian called out in Latin to the lizards jokingly, asking them why they were running away and did they not remember him from old Pompeii. One of the lizards thereupon returned, walked close to Mamoulian and cocked his head as if listening to him: "The guide was scared to death, and so was I," says Rouben. "Nobody believes the story, but so help me, it's true." Said Jack Benny: "No wonder that guy's a great director, with an imagination like that." Mamoulian shook his head sorrowfully. "I told you nobody believes me."

7:30 p. m.—A dinner party at the Chico Marxes'. In his den there is a great collection of old snapshots. One of Harpo in particular. He was about 12 years old and all dressed up; so dressed up, in fact, that he is wearing gloves and holding a third glove in his left hand. Feature of the evening is a piano recital by a 12 year old girl who goes through Beethoven, Bach and Mozart casually. She is a poor youngster. Chico's 19 year old daughter is giving this youthful genius a musical education out of her allowance. It convinces you that there is nothing fundamentally wrong with young America when kids do things as generous and sweet as that.

12 midnight—The guests have departed. Chico and I are at the piano singing "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," when there's an interruption. Mrs. Marx suggests that we shut up. We do, but it costs her two Scotch and sodas.

Good Morning!

Miss Manton isn't crazy—but she certainly does the oddest things!

Though not a criminal, she and her gang of socially prominent girl friends are well known to the police. For their screwball activities are of a nature to worrit gentlemen of the force no end. So callous have the cops become toward Melsa Manton, such doubting Thomases in so far as any statement of hers is concerned, that, when she accidentally stumbles over a murder they give her a merry "ha ha" and refuse any coöperation in the matter of finding a corpse which has mysteriously disappeared, or a murderer whom they refuse to believe exists.

Whereat Miss Manton and the girl friends turn themselves into detectives and have a good last laugh.

The story is developed adroitly and with humor. Miss Stanwyck successfully shakes from her shoulders the sorrowing mantles worn lately and is youthful, nimble, and amusing as a wealthy maiden with time and money on her hands and a lot of ideas in her brain as how to spend both.

Sam ["Three Men on a Horse"] Levene turns out a joyously refreshing performance as harassed Police Lieutenant Brent into whose hair Melsa is continually getting.

Henry Fonda is in fine fettle as a new sort of newspaper editor [new for the movies, anyhow.] He writes things about Melsa in his paper and gets slapped, libel-suited and eventually loved and married for that error. Other players in the cast are assets.

The dialog is pat and believably delivered, while situations surprise and intrigue the observer.

Clean, clever, comical.

Take it away, Fans.

See you tomorrow.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy, which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister Evelyn. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine, which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived she explains Penelope helped her escape. Colin plans to have his friend, Dr. MacConochie, examine Betsy, after he learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Betsy refuses to return with Geoffrey to his London flat. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she greatly admires. She calls at Alison's and demands that Betsy return to Geoffrey, which Betsy refuses to do. When Geoffrey learns that Fanny intends to disinherit Betsy he kills her, and calls Broderick to help him cover up the crime.

INSTALMENT XLIV.

CREMATION ARRANGED.

Back again in the bedroom Geoffrey dumped the doctor's medical case on a chair.

"Your chauffeur may be questioned," he said shortly. "I've sent him off. Now, listen, Broderick. You came at my suggestion, because Mrs. Rush seemed none too fit and was foolishly determined to go tomorrow to Paris. You ordered her to bed, and the mishap occurred while we sat here talking. We can elaborate that presently. What's the immediate procedure?"

"Paris! What was her reason?"

"To remake her will. Now, where are your objections?"

The drenched body fell back on the bath mat. Broderick seemed stricken with ague.

"You had influence," he lashed out venomously. "Why didn't you dissuade her?"

"And have her suspect? Beside, she'd stolen a march on me and gone to see my wife. After that, there was no holding her. It was either this or total loss—for the two of us. God! Aren't you grateful to me?" As the doctor started to argue, Scarpath shook him irritably by the arm. "I'm telling you, it had to be done! My wife is having another specialist's opinion. Next week, put off from this morning. Let that happen, and where are we?" Pausing slightly, he added, "She's seeing MacConochie."

Broderick collapsed, a quivering mass, on the bath stool.

"I knew it!" he groaned. "The bloody barbarian has been waiting for just this chance. He'll never let it slip. . . ."

"What if he does? There are other rivals on tiptoe to prove you guilty of malpractice. Think that over while I prepare you a shot."

In his own room Scarpath turned over a chemist's packet of bicarbonate of soda and from the bottom end drew forth a thin envelope. This he took with him, fished a hypodermic syringe out of the black bag, and with deft speed performed a few operations. Soon, with contempt, he was thrusting the syringe on his demoralized companion.

Twenty minutes later the pair closed the bedroom door with relief, and sank into chairs before the dying log fire. Scarpath poured a stiff whisky for the doctor, a smaller one for himself, and, taking a preliminary sip, asked, "What's the difficulty about it?"

"Difficulty!" snarled Guthrie Broderick. "That's the amateur all over! Cremation—yes, that you've forced on us, but did you stop to think what that entails?"

"A second death certificate. Of course. Can't you wangle it?" As the other mutely expostulated, the young man added pointedly: "It's done now. So it's up to you, I imagine."

"They won't accept just any doctor's signature," snapped the specialist. "Either it's got to be a police surgeon, or else some man in unimpeachable standing."

"Fractures do occur accidentally. Think, man! Out of your vast collection of bootlickers, isn't there one who'll be ready to accept your views?"

John Barkstone, a harassed man of middle age, suffering from a neglected chest cough, deposited his carefully brushed bowler on a red lacquered chest, and shepherded by his colleague's kindly hand passed into a room filled with wintry sunshine. He had been driven hither in a comfortably appointed sedan—he couldn't run to a chauffeur himself!—and along with the pardonable envy he was feeling toward this more fortunate co-worker mingled gratification that he, not some affluent practitioner, had been singled out.

All this talk of Broderick's niggling superiority was, he reflected, mere jealous backbiting. The man was generous—had he not sent along half a dozen well-to-do patients?—showed interest in one's cases, and face to face was a friendly, wholly decent fellow. Just run to death, as most of them were.

"Dr. Barstone, Mr. Scarpath—the admiral's son, you know."

A young, wiry built man moved forward to shake hands.

"A drink, doctor?"

Conscientiously, Barkstone declined. "After I've viewed the body, perhaps. I can do that now, I suppose?"

"Certainly, doctor," answered Broderick. "Though I might just outline the situation a trifle. Shall we sit down?" They did so.

Confidentially, and with tact, the specialist proceeded. Barkstone gave a show of intelligent attention, making when required the right comments.

"Our common, middle aged foe," he caught the words, and promptly murmured, "High blood pressure?"

"Alarmingly high," emphasized his informant. "And not, you understand, exercising the least care. About to undertake another arduous journey, Egypt this time!—with scarcely a break en route. Suicidal, no less, when one considers that only yesterday noon she was displaying not only giddiness but slight traces of tongue thickening. When this incipient attack occurred Mr. Scarpath persuaded her to lie down, and very properly came to report to me. But she got up again?"

Scarpath, thus appealed to, described the excitable state his relative had been in on his return and her stubborn insistence on going to the theater with him that evening. "What was I to do?" asked he frankly. "Opposition made her worse. Afraid she would work herself up to another attack, I gave in, telephoning Dr. Broderick and begging him to drop in afterward. I thought he might argue her out of that channel crossing today, get her to see Dr. Groves, and put herself under a strict régime. Incidentally, she was catching a bad chill."

"Which may explain," intercepted Broderick delicately, "her imprudent recourse to brandy. Quite a lot, wasn't it?"

"Nearly half a decanter," admitted the nephew reluctantly. "My man can tell you better than I can. I hid the stuff away, but she found it and took another stiff tot."

Dr. Barkstone muttered, "Most unfortunate!" and shook his head.

"I urged her to get to bed," stated Broderick. "This morning I meant to come again and expostulate . . . Well!"

He drew a long breath. "In barely ten minutes we heard a loud thud and a splash. Evidently she'd elected to take a hot bath. Had the stroke as she stood up to dry herself, and caught her head on, one may assume, the rim of the bath. She was already unconscious when we reached her, which was practically at once. I did everything possible, but—there it was."

"I see. Quite. She had, of course, previously made known her desire to be cremated?"

"Often," answered Scarpath, quietly flicking ash into a vase. "In my wife's hearing and in mine—and she referred to it again yesterday. Were you present at the time?" he inquired of Broderick.

"I believe something I said brought it up," the neurologist reminded him. "Your wife, if need be, can be consulted, but hold on! Didn't you speak of a letter in which Mrs. Rush expressed the same wish?"

Scarpath was searching on the writing table when Dr. Barkstone, with a polite gesture, stopped him. This, in his opinion, would not be at all necessary. Two persons, one a connection, the other Dr. Broderick himself—he inclined courteously to his colleague—had heard the desire verbally put. It remained only to take a look at the body and append his signature to the form.

GASOLINE ALLEY—PLEASURE AFTER BUSINESS

Strive for the Natural Effect, Advises Diva

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Turn to music for the keynote to charm and personality," counsels Jessica Dragonette, lovely golden haired soprano, favorite of concert and screen. "Take a hint from the great masters and don't 'B-sharp,' don't 'B-flat,' just be natural. Strike the right note in your daily life and you'll find pleasant harmony in your social relationships."

Miss Dragonette herself, although sometimes singing a B sharp or a B flat over the radio or on the concert stage, in her social life forgets them entirely. "A high B sharp may be just the thing to charm a critic," she says, "but when I have friends in for dinner, or when I go dining and dancing the only note I sing is the natural one."

The same formula which has made Miss Dragonette one of the most charming personalities before the public today can be applied by every woman in her own daily life. "Be yourself," counsels the soprano star.

Unfortunately, Miss Dragonette points out, it's not every one who can be the exotic type. "If you're the sweet schoolgirl type," she says, "don't spoil it by trying to look like an exiled Russian princess. Avoid exaggerations of makeup and dress."

Being natural should not stop with the face, however, Miss Dragonette maintains. "Dress like yourself, not like some one you are not," she advises. Dress to suit your own figure requirements."

Miss Dragonette believes that a girl should be herself even more in her conversation. "Putting on airs," she says, "is the worst form of bad conduct. Don't cultivate a fake Oxford accent if you don't want to spend all your evenings alone."

Give Nature and Time the Chance to Guide Child

"This is the first time I've actually gotten to the point of writing to you, Mrs. Bevans. For years now I've almost done so a dozen times, but by the time I'd get at it I find that the behavior I was so upset about had disappeared. Another might have taken its place! But after a few experiences like this I realized that children outgrow most things. It's helped a lot to find this out."

This fact is one I find myself wanting to go back to, again and again, in this column.

We who are parents want to make our children over entirely too much. We want to correct at once every little or big deviation from what we think is perfection. Well, you just cannot do it. So instead, try waiting mixed with just reasonable effort.

Give time and nature a chance with your children. You can't do it all. You don't need to. Give those two credit for knowing what they're about.

Sometimes you do so much that you're interfering with them. Sometimes you're so anxious to have your child just what you think he ought to be, that you're medding with nature's job.

Give nature and time a chance. Why?

Because the natural child has to fit himself to civilization. He has to adjust his desires and impulses to what grown persons require of him. At the same time he has to struggle to get what he needs or he wouldn't get anywhere, I can assure you of that. If every child bent his will and his growing needs to the pressure of some grownups, he would never achieve his normal development. As it is, he achieves it, but with some parents he does it only by creating ructions and rumpuses, the only way he knows when he is little.

Girl Is Foolish to Wait for a Boy in School

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Pearl is intrigued with a young man who still has three years of law study ahead of him before he can talk marriage. He is 19 and she is 21. Every possible moment they can have together, they have, and complete enjoyment is expressed on both sides.

The boy asks Pearl to wait for him, but in the interim he suggests that she go in for social activities, with the provision that she does not encourage other men. Pearl's mother argues the folly of this, since the boy's finishing college will not mean marriage.

It will take him a couple more years until he gets a footing. Mother argues, too, that because the boy is younger than her girl, she is acting foolishly to consider him so seriously.

"But he told me that he loves me and will wait for me eternally if need be," Pearl says. "I know that I shall never find another like him."

You will find another, Pearl, if you leave the gate open to permit him to come in. You could, on the other hand, make a recluse of yourself over the youth, which would be neither wholesome nor wise at your age.

Your two years' seniority isn't a serious feature of your romance, except that the youth is 19. This means that he will change considerably in the next three years, let's say.

You, too, may find that this first affair is not of the substance for all-time devotion. No reflection on your loyalty nor on his. It just happens so in the growing years of the 'teens and early twenties.

The Housewife

The housewife who loves flowers, real or artificial, and who knows the beauty they can bring to any room will revel over the new vases, bowls and urns which follow the trend in fashionable color tones this season. Deep wine, turquoise, dusty pink and gold are some of the hues of the beautiful, simple pieces that will bring a new note to your living room, dining room or entrance hall.

One lovely shallow dish, shaped a little like a shell, is made with its own flower holder. This is one of the nicest things we've ever seen. Another type in the form of a cornucopia can be filled with trailing green plants, while a third, in turquoise blue, sphere shaped, is ideal for pale pink or yellow flowers.

LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 18: The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

DUMMY
♠ 6 2

♦ 8 4

WEST
♠ K J 8
♥ Q 10 7 3
♦ Q 5
♣ K 10 8 7

You opened the three of hearts, East played the eight, and declarer won with the jack. Declarer now leads the jack of clubs. What card do you play and why? [Short explanation will suffice.]

Answer: You should NOT cover the jack, but should play the club seven or eight. True, failure to cover will give declarer three club tricks if he has the missing club deuce, but if you cover, declarer should let you hold trick, as an ordinary safety play, and when East shows out, will later have established finesse against your 10-8-7. Declarer then will make six club tricks. [No demerit for playing wrong card, but take 30 points CREDIT for failing to cover, with the correct reason.]

The age-old complaint that declarers do not thoroughly investigate all their resources is again voiced by A. P. Sheinwold, writing in The Bridge World magazine. Against the six spade contract the opening lead in this hand was the club ten. Dummy won and three rounds of trumps were played. Declarer then tried to break the club suit 3-3 and after this attempt failed, hopefully played a heart toward his king. West won and returned a heart for the setting trick.

There actually had been three, not two, chances for success. After winning the opening lead, declarer should have drawn trumps and then cashed the ace-king of diamonds. He then should have led a club to dummy and should have ruffed a diamond before trying out the club break. Actually, the diamond ten would have become established by this ruff but, as may be seen, even if this fortunate condition had not developed, declarer still would have had left the possibility of the club break and, failing that, a possibly successful lead toward his heart king. To overlook one chance in three is, in effect, to present the enemy with a tremendous advantage.

Some of us homemakers forget, at times, that there are salad greens other than lettuce. Lettuce so long has been the most generally obtainable salad vegetable that we mechanically toss it into our market baskets every shopping day.

Why don't we look for something else occasionally, say spinach, dandelion greens [when they're available], curly endive, French endive, romaine, celery-cabbage, watercress? Why don't we buy a little of several different greens for use singly as a salad base, or together in leafy salads?

Do you know that raw spinach is almost as rich in vitamin C as is orange juice, and that escarole is five times as rich in vitamin A as butter, weight for weight? Do you know also that all of the green, leafy vegetables are rich in vitamins A, B and G, that they are good sources of minerals, and that they are of great value in enabling the body to assimilate food nutrients obtained from other sources?

Green leaves are too valuable a contribution to health to be ignored or slighted in menu planning. A thin, more or less sharp French dressing is all that is needed to bring out the fine flavor of any of the salad greens. Several kinds tossed together with dressing are better than one alone, I think. It's a smart idea to watch the markets for the appearance of various of these green salad vegetables, and to use them as they come in season. Some of them, of course, are available all year.

SALAD GREENS.

CABBAGE: Cabbage isn't usually considered a salad vegetable, but the shredded leaves make excellent salads and salad bases. Red cabbage, Chinese cabbage, sometimes called celery-cabbage because it grows in long heads and somewhat resembles celery in flavor, and Savoy cabbage, the very crinkled kind, all are good for salads.

ENDIVE: There are several kinds of endive. Curly endive, also known as chicory, is a very popular and attractive salad vegetable. It comes in large, spreading heads of long, curled leaves, green at the outside of the head, and white toward the heart. French endive belongs to the same family, but looks much different. It grows in narrow, tight little heads which look like miniature celery-cabbages. The leaves may be separated for salad use, or the endive may be sliced thinly crosswise.

ESCAROLE: Escarole is something of a cross between chicory and leaf lettuce in appearance and flavor. The leaves are broader and thicker, more irregularly shaped than are those of chicory, and the flavor is less pronounced.

LETTUCE: Leaf lettuce, although seldom available, is considered by many persons better [in flavor and appearance] for salads than is head lettuce. Head lettuce undoubtedly is more adaptable, however. Romaine is a type of lettuce. It looks something like long, firm leaf lettuce.

SPINACH: The young and tender leaves of spinach make attractive salads because of their fresh, dark color as well as their flavor. The leaves may be used whole or chopped.

WATERCRESS: Watercress goes into many of our most attractive salads. The leaves and stems make a pretty pattern on a salad plate, and the flavor of crisp watercress is sharp and appealing.

Important "Basic" Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

In every wardrobe there should be a "basic" or "foundation" dress that takes to a wide variety of accessories. This mode is particularly important this season, since elegance is "in" and it implies jewelry. A simple, plain dress without any trimming makes an excellent background for the wearing of jewelry, either antique or modern.

The pattern today is exceedingly simple, both in lines and in the making. There is a softly draped V neckline, sleeves that are puffed at the shoulders, a high waist, and a slim skirt. Those things and nothing more, but what charm! Buttons may be used down the front if you want to give the dress a particularly tailored air. Figured, plaid, light and dark materials all make up well, and silk, velvet, and woolen share popularity.

Style No. 2140 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the long-sleeved version of the frock.

Mitten-Parka Outfits Smart for Outdoors

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The stuff the designers sit up of nights to make for the fascinating younger set is legion, but they're all priced for slim budgets, all made for devastating flattery and the fun of finding it all is a daily thrill.

For instance, new finds for the breezy youngsters who spend virtually their every minute out of doors. See the muffy mitts and matching parkas for proof. Soft as any fur, warm as the old fashioned flannels, flattering as luxury furs too, these duets of head and hand covers rate all the excitement they're causing.

White, pastels, and vivid colors are the selection that will keep you hanging around for a half hour before the momentous decision. The whites are glamorous enough to go out with party clothes and velvet evening coats. The parka has a tiny pointed peak in front, fits snugly over ears and head of curls then fastens under the chin. Mittens are chubbily short, and the warmest things this side of a furnace.

Grand items for a blustery cold day in the Saturday stadiums, just as smart and cozy for winter sports, or hiking about the country, and even the career girls will wear them to town during the zero days that are coming.

The material is a good, fluffy, fleecy stuff, looks like a mass of whipped cream, and deserves a place in all smart shoppers wardrobes, especially the crowd that appreciates high fashion finds tagged with small price marks.

Mittens can be bought separately and can be used for telling color accents with tweeds, street outfits, sports clothes as well as for evening costumes. But the duet of parka and mittens is well worth the additional outlay of cash and is one of the best finds of the season to date.

Fourteen Artists to Hold Poster Derby Tomorrow

An artists' poster Derby will be held in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow night. Fourteen Chicago artists will participate. They will draw lots to determine the picture for which each is to draw his poster. The painting will begin at 6 o'clock and end at midnight, when a committee will select the winning poster. The contest is a prelude to the architects' ball to be held at the Drake hotel on Dec. 2.

Bates House Ends Activity as Settlement

Friends and supporters of Eli Bates house at 621 West Elm street have been notified that settlement activities there have ceased. This action was not taken because of insolvency, for until the decision was made last April to cease solicitations the settlement was well within its annual budget.

The growth of the Catholic Youth Organization among the Italians of the district, the fact that WPA assistance has expanded the activities of family service organizations conducted under local leadership in the parks, and racial changes in the district all made the continued conduct of a family program increasingly difficult, so the board of managers and trustees decided to discontinue the settlement.

The corporation of Eli Bates house will continue as a nonoperating charitable institution and will disburse the income from its endowment in support of appropriate activities in that part of Chicago north of the river. The real estate at 621 West Elm street, which belongs to the Unity church of Chicago, has been turned over with permission of the owner to the North Side Boys' club for the three remaining years of the lease. The club also will receive $1,000 a year for three years and a gift of power machinery for wood cutting and other craft tools, boys' games, and miscellaneous sport and activity equipment valued at $1,000.

The Eli Bates shop—as announced before—has been given to Hull house.

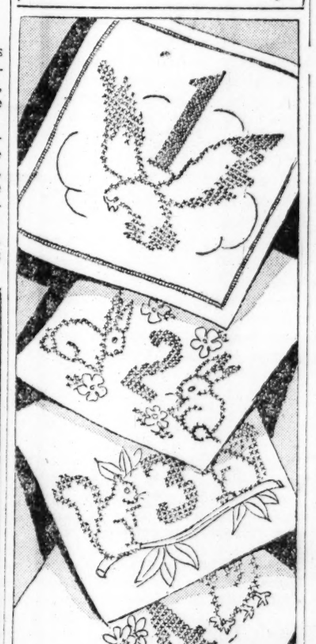
First in Unusual Embroidery Series Presented Today



BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is the first group of a series of three cross-stitch patterns which will be published within a short time. The figures and numerals are designed to intrigue the curiosity of the youngsters and familiarize them with birds, animals, and numbers. Each group may be stamped on a block, embroidered, and joined to form a crib coverlet.

For a hot iron transfer pattern of the numerals and figures, No. X-526, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Lethargy.

It's Walter Frazier's story: An overseer on a southern plantation observed the untidy look of the grounds about one of the cabins. He knocked at the door and after a wait a sleepy face appeared at the window.

"Get out here and clean up this place," the overseer roared. "It looks awful. The grass needs mowing, and look at these weeds standing a foot high . . ."

"O, is it summer again?" drawled the cabin dweller.

It was Mr. Frazier who introduced a novelty in place cards at a recent small dinner at the Tavern that the guests are still talking about. They found their places by identifying their imaginary parents, as set down on the place cards. Mr. Frazier, taking friendly pokes at his guests, imagined who their parents might have been. Thus a fashionable and extremely busy young matron knew she was meant when she came to a card reading: "Hattie Carnegie and St. Vitus." They all found their places without trouble. Some of the parents invented for guests: "Peter Pan and Frances Perkins," "Baron Munchausen and Venus," "Little Eva and Greeter Gaw," "Eli Yale and Ruth Draper."

Gayest of recent parties: The one Miss Gertrude Lawrence gave for the press at the polo room of the Ambassador East. There was a floor show, a newspaper with imitations of the writing of Chicago columnists and critics passed to the guests at supper, an orchestra, and Miss Lawrence, in a new strapless Chanel gown of ecru lace, with blue ribbon girdle and a blue rosette pinned to her bodice with a diamond flower, enchanted every one by singing several numbers, concluding with Noel Coward's Don't Put Your Daughter on the Stage, Mrs. Worthington.

Miss Lawrence had dreaded Chicago because her friend Coward disliked it so [read his biography, Present Indicative]. She was so enthusiastically received the party probably was a gesture of appreciation.

Mother-in-Law Note.

From the "Personal Column" in the Dubuque Buyers' Guide:

Mrs. Ralph Bean arrived Tuesday to spend two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Jack Griffin.

Mr. Jack Griffin left Tuesday for a two weeks pleasure trip to Chicago.

Cuff Notes.

Maybe whiskers and beards are coming back. Almost any night in the week young whiskered gentlemen gather at Tiny Tim's tavern on Lake Park avenue to drink ale and stout. . . . And M. M. ["Red"] Marberry has grown a fine curly red beard while he is at Ogden Dunes in retirement to write a novel. . . . Then there's Artist Jan Fabion. . . . And Everett Millard, who's also writing a book. . . . And that Yale lad who wore a beard to the early autumn debutante parties, Jack Fabian of Evanston. We're working up this beard business. We'd like to see Prince Rostislav with whiskers and beard. He'd look exactly like his uncle, the late Czar Nicholas. . . . And Shreve Badger. . . . And John Root.

The lovely owner of one of the fine paintings in the current loan exhibition at the Arts club hangs it in her bathroom at home. Her husband doesn't care for modern art. . . . Grimmest assignment of the year, that received by a Chicago newspaper man in Prague, as related by Edward Murro at the Council of Foreign Relations. His paper cabled him, on the day German bombers were expected in Prague, to send a 500 word obituary of himself. . . . A north shore woman who has her chauffeur bring her to town and wait for her while she visits the doctor and dentist and does her shopping, always brings her lunch, which she eats in the car.

Student Subtlety.

Have you heard of the resident student, inquires the column in The Skyscraper, the Mundelein college newspaper, who sent the following letter to the folks back home:

Dear Mumy, Dady, $i$ter $u$ie:

I $imply love $chool; it's lot$ of fun. Next week I mu$t buy three new book$. Gue$$ what I need mo$t of all. That'$ right. $end it along, and oblige.

BROWNS NAME HANEY MANAGER FOR 1939

REPORT BIG TEN WILL VOTE ON ROSE BOWL BID

Ponder Pact with Coast Group.

The faculty committee and athletic directors of the Western conference at their meeting in Chicago next month probably will consider a proposal of the Pacific Coast conference to have the championship football teams of these college organizations meet annually in the Rose Bowl game in Pasadena. The proposition is said to have been adopted by the Pacific coast authorities, who already have the right to name the Pacific Coast conference competitor, and if it is ratified by the Big Ten the agreement automatically would bar all other universities from the series.

Such an arrangement could not become effective before Jan. 1, 1940. This year's Rose Bowl game will be between the Pacific Coast conference eleven nominated by that conference and an opponent selected by the university the conference names. Alabama was the University of California's choice last year.

No Official Bid Made.

It is not believed that the Pacific coast officials would make the suggestion for official consideration unless they had reasonable assurance that it would be acted upon favorably. An official request would be sent to Prof. Henry Marshall of Purdue university, secretary of the faculty committee of the Big Ten. Prof. O. F. Long of Northwestern, is chairman of the committee. However, the proposal for Western conference participation in such an arrangement could be brought up by any member of the committee.

Prof. Long last night said that no official proposal had been submitted. Then he added: "I would not be surprised if the matter is brought to the attention of the faculty committee at the December meeting. However, I do not believe that the committee will alter the present regulation against post-season football games."

Under these rules the football season in the Big Ten ends on the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving. There has been no agitation for permission for post season games since the request five years ago for the University of Michigan to play the Rose Bowl game.

Directors Favor Game.

Several athletic directors, among them Wendell Wilson of Illinois, are in favor of such a reciprocal arrangement between the Pacific coast and Big Ten conferences.

That such an arrangement might be consummated eventually was rumored two years ago when the two associations agreed to an annual dual track and field meet between representatives of the conferences. The first was held on the coast. Last spring these squads met in Dyche stadium with the Pacific coast successfully defending its championship.

Such an agreement, it was pointed out, would eliminate the embarrassment that frequently has resulted in seeking an eastern or southern opponent for the Rose Bowl game. Last year Pittsburgh declined the invitation. Eastern members of the so-called Ivy league largely have been against participation, although Columbia accepted and defeated Stanford in the 1934 game.

Three Way Split.

The Rose Bowl committee, which receives one-third of the receipts under the present arrangement, with the competing universities receiving the remainder, also may have been embarrassed by the attitude of many of the nation's larger universities. Certainly the growth of bowl games has weakened the claim that this was the outstanding post-season contest. This situation would be changed if each year the Big Ten champion played the Pacific coast champion.

Leader—W. Peden.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Things began to get serious at the bike race in Chicago Stadium last night when the boys with the strongest legs, backs, and wills began to demonstrate their talent.

After a fifty minute jam which started at 9 o'clock Torchy Peden, winner of more six day bike races than any gent in the world, rammed into the lead accompanied by his brother Doug.

Just before the Canadian brothers took a one lap lead over the second flight of teams a seven team tie had existed. At the start of the big jam Gerard Debaets and Marcel Guimbretiere had been successful in protecting a one lap advantage they grabbed in the second hour of the race Sunday night. The seven way tie was effected when the teams of Walthour-Crossley, Kilian-Vopel, Georgetti-Moretti, the Pedens, Rodman-Thomas, and Audy-Yates moved alongside.

Pedens Cause Stir.

The burst of Peden power so early in the race caused a great deal of anxiety among some of the tenderer cyclists. If they stay in front or near the lead until tomorrow night almost anything can happen. The reason is a thirty piece kiltie band.

Torchy Peden, it is said, goes into a sort of jitterbug frenzy whenever he hears bagpipe music. The Chicago Highland's Bagpipe band heard of Torchy's great love for their especial brand of sweet and lilting melody and besought the management to let them take over tomorrow night in honor of the two able Canucks from good old Victoria. Harry Mendel, promoter of the race, an old bagpipe lover himself since he took lessons in the Newark Caledonian hall years ago, immediately accepted the offer and told the Scots to come and toot their damndest.

Germans Start to Go.

Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, the great German team which recently had its string of triumphs broken at twelve straight by the Pedens, pedaled furiously in the early hours this morning, and at the thirtieth hour were in a three way tie with Walthour-Crossley and Debaets-Guimbretiere for second place. These teams were a lap behind the brothers, with the Germans the technical leaders on points.

Five teams — Rodman-Thomas, O'Brien-Testa, Audy-Yates, Georgetti-Moretti, and Bedard-Bollaert—were deadlocked for fifth place at this hour, with Rodman-Thomas the leader of the quintet on points. Then came a big gap, with DeBacco-Wissel tenth, five laps back of the leaders; Rodak-Fielding eleventh, and Yaccino-Jurca chasing everybody.

The very ornery weather which prevailed early last evening was blamed for the fact the crowd was several thousand under the 13,000 total at the opening.

Results of the sprints:

How Does It Look, Torchy?

Torchy Peden, half of the Peden brothers team in the six day bike race in the Stadium, sights a wheel to make sure it's running true. The Pedens are among the favorites to win. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Michigan to Be on the Spot in Game with Northwestern

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Michigan-Northwestern game in Ann Arbor Saturday is most important in the abbreviated schedule of three Big Ten contests. But since the Wildcats probably are out of the title race, even if they should whip the Wolverines, conjecture centers on the possibility of Michigan's success. Victory by Michigan then will send the Wolverines to Ohio State for their final game with the conference championship as reward if they again come through.

Michigan could do no better than share the title with the winner of the Wisconsin-Minnesota game if there should be a winner of that game. If it should end in a tie Michigan would have a chance at a clear title. Other teams may have a claim if the Badgers and Gophers tie and Michigan also plays one tie. There are too many possibilities to set them all down. However, the Wolverines now have the opportunity to regain first place on their own efforts. They no longer depend on assistance, since the Wildcats defeated Minnesota and Purdue whipped Ohio State.

Michigan Is Consistent.

Michigan has played consistently all season. Perhaps the Wolverines' best game was against Minnesota when they piled up thirteen first downs [six of them linked together in a touchdown march] to six for Minnesota, but lost to the Gophers, 7 to 6, when Minnesota's last period air attack was successful. Most important was Michigan's ability to rally against Yale to win, 15 to 13, on the Saturday following the battle in Minneapolis.

Iowa's invasion of Indiana only will determine whether the Hoosiers can escape last position in the conference, a spot now shared with Chicago. Illinois is host to Ohio State, and if the Illini can whip the Buckeyes, since they have Chicago for final opponent, they still can finish in the first division.

Illini Depends on Defense.

Illinois' defense probably will be its best offense, since the Illini, against Northwestern and Michigan, have very well established the fact that the offense doesn't have a good open field runner and the back field lacks speed.

Illinois has had two weeks to prepare for Ohio State, and the Buckeyes, now despondent at probable loss of any share in the title, may find it difficult to rally from the doldrums. There is no such incentive for Ohio State against Illinois as, for instance, there was last Saturday when Wisconsin met the undefeated Wildcats.

The college dead ball rule unquestionably prevented the Badgers from scoring in the second period. This is no argument against the rule, for authorities are unanimously agreed that the protection given the ball carrier is more important than the additional yards he might gain or the occasional touchdown he loses.

Falls Near Goal.

Roy Bellin caught a fourth down pass, and just before he plunged over the Northwestern goal line his knees hit the ground inches from the scoring line. The ball, of course, was dead at that point and, since it was fourth down, the Wildcats then took possession.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin naturally accepted this as one of the breaks of the game, but Stuhldreher was concerned over a previous play when neither team had scored. Inefficient measurement of a five yard penalty for offside on Northwestern prevented the Badgers from having a first down on their own 37 yard line. Fred Gage, Wisconsin quarter back, had punted on fourth down but Northwestern was offside.

This Means an Argument.

The play had been made when less than five yards were needed for a first down, according to the head linesman's down marker. Yet, when the penalty was stepped off and the linesman's chain brought out, Wisconsin failed by inches of receiving sufficient distance to produce the first down by penalty. It may be that officiating procedure requires the distance to be stepped off, but when the chain on the sideline indicates the obvious result, only an argument can result from the situation.

The nonconference games this week bring A. A. Stagg back to the Midway with the College of the Pacific to meet the Maroons, whom he coached for forty-four years, and send Minnesota to Notre Dame. While the Gophers have been defeated, it does not detract from the clash with the Irish, who now have won six games.

Notre Dame won, 7 to 6, last year when the situation was reversed with the Gophers favored to win. Now Notre Dame, one of the leading contenders for the mythical national championship, if not in first place because of Pittsburgh's defeat, is the favorite because of its string of victories.

CUBS CONSIDER PLAN TO BRING UP NEW PLAYERS

Wrigley May Make Pact with Milwaukee.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who never have gone in heavily for player development, preferring to take a chance that the finished product could be purchased for cash, are going to fix up some sort of a working agreement with the Milwaukee club of the American Association.

Just what it is going to be like when the details are completed, isn't even known by P. K. Wrigley, the owner-president of the National league champions. He admitted yesterday that the matter now was under discussion and when finally arranged he thinks it will be different from any pact ever made between a minor and major league outfit.

Plans Some Pioneering.

"What I am aiming at probably can be termed a little baseball pioneering," he said. "Maybe it can't be done. Minor league clubs always have contended they come out the short end of the horn in agreements with the majors. In the proposed agreement with Milwaukee I want the latter club protected so it can realize the best cash price for any players it might pick up and develop. Our interest, if it can be arranged, will be exclusively in the players the Cubs send there for development."

Wrigley went so far as to declare the arrangement with Milwaukee would prohibit the Cubs from even attempting to buy any of its players. However, such a restriction might be frowned upon by Commissioner Landis on the basis that it would reduce the possibilities of an athlete advancing in his profession.

Doesn't Seek First Pick.

For instance, the fifteen other big league clubs might not need a player for a certain position. The Cubs might be lacking just such a fellow but if the Milwaukee club owned the player the Cubs couldn't deal for him, under the pending agreement.

It is customary, when a big league club options its own players to a minor league club, thus creating a working agreement, that the former is given the right to pick from the latter at a predetermined price one or more of the players it might develop. This is in addition to recalling the optioned men. Wrigley doesn't seek this privilege of first pick.

No cash would be put into the Milwaukee franchise and the Cubs would not keep a man there to see that its optioned players were properly handled. The schooling of the Cubs' youngsters would be in the hands of the Milwaukee management.

Await Traynor's Return.

The Cubs are still waiting for the return of Pie Traynor, the Pirate manager, from his hunting trip to northern Wisconsin. It is whispered that a player deal has already been arranged between the Cubs officials and William Benswanger, president of the Pirates, who is holding off until he can get either an O. K. or a rejection from Manager Traynor.

GOLFERS MUST TAKE RISK AND HOPE, SAYS COURT

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Henry G. Enzel Jr. today dismissed the $10,000 suit Ernest M. Corey filed against George Whatmough, Brooklyn golfer, on the ground that there was no cause of action. Corey said Whatmough's slice knocked him unconscious, left him subject to dizzy spells, and made him incapable of playing golf.

Corey complained the whole fault lay with Whatmough because he didn't use a spoon instead of a brassie, and for not standing farther back when he swung at the ball. In his defense Whatmough contended that golf, "a game of eternal hope that bedevils players," brought risks that have to be accepted as part of the sport. This view was upheld by the court.

To tell the sap who snaps "Who cares?"

When I have started to discuss
A topic somewhat obvious,
I'm sure that I could choke with glee
The wit who says "You're telling me?"

When care I've taken to expound
My theories in terms profound,
I feel an urge to slay the mutt
Whose smart rejoinder is "So what?"

When speaking with tenacity
To facts per se—veracity,
Instinctively I yearn to teah
The bloke whose repartee's "O, yeah?"

Nice Goin', Babe.

The other night I went to see my one and only and she just simply had to sit on the lounge and read the new Wake book. When I sat down beside her did she cuddle up? The answer is no. She told me it had taken her two days and two nights to read nine pages. I have it figured out it will be Thanksgiving before she will have time to pitch a little woo. Arch, you just dare to print another edition of those books and I warn you I'll buy up every last one of them.

PRINCETON HAS REVISED LINEUP FOR YALE GAME

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A new lineup appeared on University field today in an attempt to overcome injury depletions and to improve the Princeton pass defense before the Yale game Saturday. Coach Tad Wieman made the first major shifts of the season.

Due to the same shortage of half backs that plagued the squad last week Jack Daniel, former half who has spent the fall at end, was at his old post spelling Capt. Tom Mountain in a two hour signal drill.

Mac Raymond moved from right to left end to fill Daniel's place, and the back field was seen in every conceivable combination before the afternoon was over. Mountain, Daniel, Dave Allerdice, Asaby Harper, Harry Dixon, Eddie McCormick, Jack White, and Al Lane all took their turn behind the first line.

FORMER TIGER INFIELDER SIGNS FOR ONE YEAR

Completes List of Club Leaders.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The roster of major league managers for 1939 was completed today with the signing by the St. Louis Browns of Fred Haney, leader of the Toledo Mud Hens of the American association for the last four years and a former big league infielder.

Haney, who spent most of his big time career with the Detroit Tigers and also spent one season with the Cardinals, was given a one year contract. He takes the place of Gabby Street, who was released at the close of the 1938 season after the club had finished in seventh place in the American league.

The 40 year old Haney was one of twenty candidates on a list which included Babe Ruth, Muddy Ruel, coach of the White Sox, and Ray Schalk, former big league catcher and manager. Both Don Barnes, president of the Browns, and Bill De Witt, business manager, refused to discuss the terms of Haney's contract.

FRED HANEY.

Will Name Own Coaches.

Barnes said Haney would be in complete charge of the Browns and would be permitted to select his own coaches. He added that, while officials of the club considered a number of other candidates, Haney was the only one who was offered a contract.

Last year the Mudhens finished in fifth place after having been runners-up in the American association pennant race of 1937. Haney, it was said, had refused offers to serve as coach of the Tigers and the Cleveland Indians.

Street became manager of the Browns late in the 1937 season. In a previous stretch in St. Louis he had led the Cardinals to two league pennants and one world championship.

Explains His Plans.

Haney said his first move in building up one of the weakest teams in the American league will be to prevent the "little mistakes from which big blunders are made."

When asked about his ideas for lifting the club from its traditional low position, he said:

"It appears to me that the job is to start at the beginning. I have long contended ball games are not won or lost so much by the big things as by the little ones.

"I don't believe the young fellows coming up today have been trained correctly in the fundamentals of bunting, sliding, and base running. So I am going to work hard on those things, especially with the youngsters."

Ray Blades, who was named 1939 manager of the Cardinals yesterday, arrived in St. Louis today also to sign a contract for one year. He was full of enthusiasm and promised he would give the National league fans of the city a fighting team.

SOUTHWORTH TO ROCHESTER.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Billy Southworth, manager of the Rochester farm of the St. Louis Cardinals in the International league from 1928 to 1931, returned to the post today, succeeding Ray Blades, who was named manager of the Cards yesterday.

WALTER JOHNSON URGES VOTES FOR G. O. P. NOMINEES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Walter Johnson, speed ball king of other days, took to the radio tonight to urge a Republican victory tomorrow and a "return to the American way of life."

Johnson, now a farmer and Republican candidate for county commissioner in nearby Montgomery county, Md., declared that the American way is competition and private enterprise. Instead of having 11,000,000 unemployed today, he said, the nation would have solved its economic troubles if private initiative had been unhampered.

CHILEAN RIDERS JUMP INTO LEAD IN HORSE SHOW

Arabian Sheik Competes in Flowing Robes.

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Turning in two perfect performances with their four mounts, the Chilean army officers tonight took the lead in the three day competition for the trophy presented by their own president, Arturo Alessandri, in the national horse show.

With the United States officers offering the only serious opposition among the six competing nations, Maj. Eduardo Yanez and Lieut. Pelayo Izurieta gave a brilliant exhibition of horsemanship, and were charged with the low aggregate of sixteen faults.

Arabian Rider Makes a Hit.

The Arabian horse, Reymish, appeared in the class for three gaited saddle horses with natural tails but, although the white mare won the crowd's applause, she apparently received little consideration from the judges as she failed to gain any of the four ribbons.

The Arabian mare was ridden by Sheik Khalil Ben Ibrahim Al-el Rowarf, a chieftain's son garbed in a colorful flowing robe. The class was won by Reed A. Albee's Strolling-Bye, a home bred from Larchmont, N. Y.

Uncle Sam's representatives, Capt. Royce Drake and Lieut. Franklin F. Wing Jr., finished only four points behind the Chilean entry when Dinger, ridden by Capt. Drake, faltered with a chance to beat or tie the South Americans. Far behind in order trailed Irish Free State, Mexico, Cuba, and Canada.

Chileans Set Fast Pace.

The Chileans set a fast pace when Maj. Yanez sent Toqui over the fences without an error. Lieut. Pelayo Izurieta matched the performance with Gringo but their last two mounts, Chilena and Deseada, faltered, leaving the way open to the United States officers.

When Lieut. Wing rode into the ring on Don, the United States already had twelve faults. Don failed to make a mistake but Dinger, last horse to appear in the ring, knocked over the second fence and at the last barrier the veteran jumper broke stride and plowed through the obstacle.

Highland Cora, champion harness pony last year in the silks of A. B. Dick of Gurnee, Ill., stepped to the front of six other ponies not exceeding 13.2 hands to win the Judy King challenge trophy for the second straight year. Right behind him was a stablemate, King's Vanity, with third going to Stonehedge Crusader from William B. MacColl's North farm of Bristol, R. I.

This Eleven's Negative Record Is in Class by Itself

New Port Richey, Fla., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Coach Paul Stephens' Gulf High football team has lost eight straight games, had 443 points scored against it, and scored none, yet no one is complaining and the townsfolk are all for the squad.

But there's a catch. It's the first year Gulf High has had a team. So look out next season, Paul.

Hunter Watches Migration of Ducks South

BY BOB BECKER.

With more mud than water in the Illinois river bottom lands, mallards trading back and forth from safe rest grounds to the cornfields, and the majority of hunters getting little duck hunting, the Illinois waterfowl situation continues to be something of a headache to individual shooters, clubs, and owners of day shooting places. The Illinois season has about three weeks to go. This is such a short time, in view of the amount of water needed in the valley to produce better hunting, that many duck hunters are none too encouraged about what they can do with their guns during the final weeks of the season.

When we were down the river a few days ago on another shooting trip and also to check up on the water conditions, we saw a big flight of birds come down from the north. Saturday morning, when the sun was shining and the sky was blue, proved to be migration time for thousands of northern birds. We were on the lower end of Clear lake with H. C. Sherman, a Chicago hunter. For several hours we could look up into the blue and see long V-shaped flocks of both ducks and geese winging their way southward.

It was a beautiful picture. Some of the mallards were so high that they were just moving specks against the blue. Occasionally a flock of geese, their sonorous honkings coming down from their flyways high above us, passed over our heads. Here was all the beauty and the drama of migration in full view. And beneath this picture the teal and blackjack shooters were booming away trying to kill a few birds under adverse conditions.

The upper end of Clear lake belongs to the well known Clear Lake Duck club. A small piece of the lower end of the lake is open to a few daily fee hunters. Here we saw some of the strangest duck hunting tactics that low water ever developed. The water in the lake is so low that a couple of the boys put on trout waders and stood right out in the middle of the lake, with no blinds or decoys, to shoot at the low flying blackjacks and teal.

John Darling, a member of our party, tried his luck at this game for about an hour. Result: Several teal, some blackjack, one canvasback, and one thorough wetting with assorted chills and lots of mud. He tripped over a snag and went under the muddy, cold water.

MAROONS OPEN PRACTICE TODAY FOR STAGG TEAM

Former Chicago Director in 49th Year as Coach.

Chicago's Maroons today will begin their preparations for the homecoming game on Stagg field Saturday against Amos Alonzo Stagg's College of the Pacific team from Stockton, Cal. The Maroons, having been shown a lot of football sights by Harvard last Saturday, spent Sunday touring the historic sights around Boston, and did not arrive home until late yesterday afternoon.

The homecoming game will be the high point of interest in the Maroon schedule. Preparations went on apace on the Midway yesterday for elaborate welcome for Coach Stagg and his team. Stagg coached the Maroons for forty-one years until his retirement in 1933, when 70 years old. His present season in his sixth at Pacific.

May Have Their Hands Full.

Most observers believe the Maroons will have their hands full coping with the Pacific coast team, and many alumni will be in the position of pulling for both teams.

Pacific will have a decided weight disadvantage, but the team is fast, according to reports, and has had a good pass attack and excellent punting. The team this year calls itself the "Forty-Niners," in honor both of the California gold rush and the fact that this is Coach Stagg's forty-ninth season as a college coach.

Stagg coached two years at Springfield Mass., Y. M. C. A. college where his son, Paul, is now coach.

The homecoming committee announced yesterday that both teams will sit on the same side of the field.

PACIFIC TEAM EN ROUTE.

Stockton, Cal., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The College of the Pacific football team carried an unseen but important item in its luggage tonight as it boarded a Santa Fe train for Chicago and its game with the Maroons on the Midway next Saturday. The extra baggage was the championship of the Far Western college conference, which went to Coach A. A. Stagg's men when they triumphed over Fresno State, 18 to 13, last Friday.

Until its battle with Pacific, Fresno State was one of the few undefeated, untied college elevens in the country. The Chicago bound squad left Stockton at 8 o'clock tonight [Chicago time].

Two men the Chicago secondary will have to watch if the Maroons are to spoil Coach Stagg's homecoming are Bob Admina and Bobby Kientz, whose passing has been a feature of Pacific's undefeated march through the Far Western conference. Admina, who weighs 188 pounds, was a third string half back until the coaches discovered he could pass.

Domench Is the Blocker.

At quarter back for Pacific will be Johnny Domench, who receives little publicity because he is used largely as a blocker, but who is responsible for many of the gains made by the ball carriers. The Tigers also have speed in the line with Jack Tullock, a 173 pound guard, the fastest man on the squad.

The Pacific first team averages only 178 pounds. The only man on the roster who weighs 200 pounds is Floyd Swaggerty, second string tackle.

ZUPPKE SHIFTS BACKS.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Seeking to strengthen the Illinois back field reserves, Coach Bob Zuppke today worked John Thistlewood at left half back and Dave McDonough at right in the first back field. Both showed to advantage in the freshman game Saturday.

Jim Hodges probably will appear at right guard against Ohio State here Saturday since Wes Martin is definitly lost for the contest. Martin turned a knee in dummy scrimmage.

George Rettinger was back at full with the varsity and may remain if Mel Brewer starts at quarter back, which seems probable. Practice was largely devoted to work on new plays.

FIVE BUCKEYES INJURED.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Five Ohio state football players were out of uniform today with injuries suffered during the 12 to 0 defeat at the hands of Purdue, Saturday, some of them probably will be unable to play against Illinois in Champaign Saturday.

The injured are Frank Smith, right guard, knee injury; Charles Gales, ailing shoulder; Alex Schoenbaum, injured hip, Jimmy Strausbaugh and Vic Marino, body bruises.

Keith Bliss, regular end, absent all last week with a sinus infection is expected to return to uniform tomorrow.

The Buckeyes moved today to develop a scoring punch. They have scored only two touchdowns against major foes, one each against Indiana and Southern California.

PURDUE TAKES IT EAST.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Purdue's elation over its victory over Ohio State was dampened today with the realization that the game brought to a close the collegiate football career of James Maloney, 162 pound right guard, who fractured both bones in his left arm.

Maloney, who more than made up in speed and fight wnat he lacked in weight, played the entire sixty minutes against Iowa the preceding week and has been one of the mainstays of the Boilermaker forward wall. His loss will be keenly felt, although Coach Elward is hopeful that Carl Verplank, who has been unable to play since the Wisconsin game because of an ankle injury, will be able to resume his place in the lineup before the season's finale with Indiana.

The Boilermakers, who have passed the seven-eighths pole in the 1938 campaign with one defeat and two ties against their record, were given a vacation this afternoon. Active drill will be launched tomorrow for the game with Indiana a week from Saturday when the Old Oaken bucket will be at stake.

N. U. HOPES 'BAD GAME' IS OUT OF ITS SYSTEM

Pointing out that "Northwestern always seems to have one bad game in its system each year," Coach Lynn Waldorf expressed the hope yesterday that the Wildcats would bounce back from the Wisconsin defeat to turn in a good performance against Michigan Saturday.

Waldorf advanced several reasons for the loss to Wisconsin, first of which was the fact that "the Badgers placed a good team on the field, one which blocked and tackled and deserved to win.

"As for our team it emotionally hit the heights and depths in one week. We were not mentally fit. It was something we tried to avoid but apparently could not."

Goldak Out for Season.

The Wildcats will move against Michigan without the services of Johnny Goldak, veteran guard who is lost for the season as a result of a leg fracture. Goldak, a regular last fall as a sophomore, hurt his back in the opener against Kansas State and was back in action Saturday for the first time since that injury. He was forced out with an injured leg and X-rays yesterday revealed a fracture. Capt. Cleo Diehl, end, also received a battering Saturday and will not work out this week but is expected to be ready for the Wolverine battle.

Efforts will be made this week to improve the tackling and defensive charging, two weaknesses which proved costly in the Wisconsin game. Laxness on pass defense which enabled the Badgers to score two touchdowns on forward passes is another rough spot which will get attention during the week.

Waldorf singled out only two players for special praise in the Wisconsin game. They were Ted Grefe, lanky end, who caught two passes, one of them for a touchdown, and Erwin Madsen, sophomore left half back, whose fine blocking paved the way for Bernie Jefferson's 92 yard touchdown run.

MICHIGAN WORKS HARD.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—There was no Monday layoff for Michigan's football team today as it began strenuous preparations for its meeting with Northwestern.

Coach Fritz Crisler distributed new plays and sent the backs through a long drill in which new formations were stressed while linemen went through a rough defensive drill against Wildcat line formations.

Howard Mehaffey, sophomore full back, was last week's only casualty. He reported without pads today. He is believed to have a possible shoulder separation. Archie Kodros, regular center, out of the Pennsylvania game last week, was present at today's drills but did not take part in the contact work.

The brilliant play of Paul Kromer last week and Mehaffey's injury indicate the Wolverines will employ a back field ombination of Forest Evaschevski, Kromer and Tom Harmon and Ed Phillips against Northwestern, with no changes between the flanks except for the return of Kodros at center.

HOOSIER REGULARS REST.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Indiana's regulars, who bore the brunt of the battle against Boston college last week-end, were excused from drill and were shown motion pictures of last season's Indiana-Iowa game today as the Hoosiers launched preparations from their meeting with the Hawkeyes here Saturday.

The reserves went through a light practice. The Hoosiers will regain the services of Russell Sloss, regular center, who is recovering from an injury, and Capt. Paul Graham, who played only a few minutes against Boston because of a bad cold.

Don Werdine, who started at center in Boston, and John Widaman, regular end, will be unable to oppose the Hawkeyes because of injuries.

SNOWSTORM STOPS IOWA.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A heavy snowstorm caused Coach Irl Tubbs to call off practice for the University of Iowa football squad today.

Tubbs excused regulars and reserves when the snow made practice impossible, giving the men a chance to recuperate from the 28 to 0 beating suffered at the hands of Minnesota Saturday.

He called the squad together in the training room, however, to show it pictures of the Minnesota game, and announced hard drill would begin tomorrow for the last conference game of the season against Indiana in Bloomington Saturday.

A victory over the Hoosiers would enable Iowa to wind up its Big Ten season with a .500 average, two victories, two defeats, and one tie.

LEAGUE COMPLETES LIST.

The addition of two teams—Swift and company, and the Golden Clothes—yesterday completed the organization of the eight club Mid-City Basketball league, which will open Nov. 22 in the Midway auditorium, 6118 Cottage Grove avenue.

Reserves Get Attention in Gopher Camp

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Confident that he has reserves who may be counted upon for heavy duty from now on, Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, began intensive practice today for the Notre Dame game at South Bend Saturday. Because of the cold, the temperature remaining in the 20s, work was done in the fieldhouse.

Dallas Ward, who has scouted Notre Dame the last three weeks, insisted the Gophers will be underdogs Saturday and saw little chance of a Minnesota triumph. "It's the best team at Notre Dame since Carideo, Schwartz, and that outfit in 1930," he said.

It appeared Joe Jamnik, Joe Jabbra, Ed Steinbauer, and Bob Paffrath, backs, were ready to step up and replenish the reduced back field stock. They are certain to see service Saturday, thus bringing the Gophers' reserve strength to the season's peak.

The Gophers came out of the Iowa game in far better shape than they have enjoyed in the last two weeks. Faust, Van Every, and Moore, the principal cripples, were none the worse for Saturday's wear, and Jamnik, who was kept out of the game completely, was restored to condition.

RIFFLE MAY PLAY.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Notre Dame moved into the final and most difficult third of its football schedule today as preparation began in the rain for next Saturday's Minnesota game. Coach Elmer Layden ordered a brief unlimbering drill today, and gave the squad its first look at Gopher formations. Outside of the usual bumps and bruises, the squad came through last week's 15 to 0 victory over Navy in good shape.

It is hoped that Chuck Riffle, 190 pound junior, will be able to make his first appearance of the season at right guard Saturday.

Minnesota has back sixteen of the twenty-four men who faced the Irish last fall, while Notre Dame has only ten of the twenty-three men who participated in last year's 7 to 6 victory in Minneapolis. The Gophers will attempt to match Notre Dame speed with power and reserve strength. Minnesota's first team played only a few minutes against Iowa last Saturday and the Gophers probably will come into Saturday's game in better condition than the Irish.

MARQUETTE HONORS BUSLER.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Ray Busler, Watertown, Wis., junior tackle, was named by Coach Paddy Driscoll today to lead the Marquette university football team in next Saturday's homecoming game with Michigan State.

Rain and mud slowed up the Hilltoppers' drill today.

CHANGE SITE OF HARRISON'S GAME IN SEMI-FINALS

Arrangements for semi-final games in the Chicago Public High School Football league were completed yesterday.

The site of Saturday's game between Austin of the west section, and Harrison, central section champion, has been changed from St. Philip stadium to Mills stadium. The game between Lane and Fenger, north and south division champions, respectively, will be played in Soldiers' field. Both games will start at 2 o'clock.

Three of the four teams went through their sectional schedules unbeaten. The fourth, Austin, is co-champion of the west section with Crane. Each having won five and tied one. The tie was a 13 to 13 game between Austin and Crane early in the season.

Rules Call for Toss.

A league ruling calls for a toss of a coin if two teams tie, and one has not defeated the other during the sectional campaign. Austin won the toss and will represent the west section for the third consecutive year. Crane will share in gate receipts should Austin win the title.

Crane students complained yesterday over what they declared to have been a lack of courtesy shown their coach in the toss. H. R. Crook, supervisor of the board of education physical education department, who was delegated to do the flipping of the coin, did it without waiting for Coach Floyd Brown, who was en route from Spencer Coals field, where Crane beat Kelvyn Park. No question of honesty was raised, but Crane felt its coach had been slighted.

Winner Plays Catholic Champ.

The winner of the City league title will play in Mayor Kelly's annual charity classic Saturday, Nov. 26, against the Catholic league champion. Fenwick and Mount Carmel have qualified as Catholic league sectional winners, although the season has one more week to go.

Lane rolled up a total of 207 points in seven games while surrendering only 29. Fenger turned in six consecutive victories, scoring a total of 173 points against six by opponents.

Lane Tech and Tilden will meet in McKinley park Thursday afternoon for the City league soccer championship. The two teams finished in a tie for first place with five victories and two ties. Earlier in the season they played a 1 to 1 tie. Tilden is coached by Tom Blackshaw and has won five championships. Lane is under the direction of Ed Hall and has won three titles.

DE PAUL TO CLOSE HOME CAMPAIGN WITH ST. LOUIS U.

De Paul will close its home football season Saturday against St. Louis university in Loyola stadium. Beaten in its last five games, De Paul sees little chance of victory, as St. Louis had beaten Catholic U. by two touchdowns two weeks ago and last Saturday Catholic defeated the Demons, 14 to 13.

Lack of reserve material has counted heavily against De Paul all season. This was what accounted for the Catholic defeat. Trailing, 13 to 0, with only ten minutes to go, Catholic pushed over two touchdowns in quick succession for the victory.

Coach Ben Connor had the men working on pass defense in yesterday afternoon's practice.

C. Y. O. BOXERS FIGHT TONIGHT ON WEST SIDE

West section preliminary bouts of the eighth annual Catholic Youth Organization Christmas fund boxing tournament will start tonight in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street.

Boys residing on the west side will see action tonight and tomorrow night. About 100 youngsters will meet in these matches. Those who are undefeated after two evenings of boxing will qualify to participate in the quarter-final bouts.

The west section quarter-final contests will begin Nov. 18 in the C. Y. O. center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. South side champions were decided last week. The south section winners will appear in the quarter-final contests in the C. Y. O. gymnasium next Friday night.

Quarter-final winners of the various sections will qualify for the semi-finals. The survivors will meet on the night of Dec. 9 when the C. Y. O. title bouts will be presented in the International amphitheater.

Carnegie Tech Proud of Team and Shows It!

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech students today planted the University of Pittsburgh goal posts on the Tartan campus in a hysterical, boisterous victory celebration. Left momentarily stunned Saturday as Tech dropped Pitt from the nation's football pinnacle with a 20 to 10 crash, Tartan partisans broke loose this morning, carried off the goal posts, and burned in effigy a pajama-clad figure bearing the name of "Jock."

To the figure was also pinned a placard with the name of "Getchell," a referee who ruled on a disputed play in the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech game two weeks ago. A loss to Notre Dame—which Tech boosters blamed on the disputed ruling—is the only defeat on the Tartan record.

"20-10 P. U."

Set in Concrete.

The goal posts were hauled to the front of Scobell hall, a dormitory, and set in concrete as a permanent memorial to the cherished victory, first in ten years and the fifth in a twenty-five year series with the across-the-street neighbors.

Tech, whose victory boosted Tartan stock to the highest point since the days of Judge Walter P. Steffen, started on the road back with the inauguration two years ago of the Doherty new deal.

In a meeting called at that time to introduce Carnegie's new coach, blond Bill Kern, one time understudy of Coach Jock Sutherland at Pitt, President Robert E. Doherty announced Tech would encourage alumni to send deserving athletes to the school.

Athletic Fund Established.

"Carnegie Tech is going to let football seek its own level," Doherty said then. "Carnegie Tech will have nothing to hide. Call it recruiting, if you will, but we are going to be honest about it." Following Doherty's announcement alumni formed the Walter P. Steffen memorial athletic scholarship fund to award athletic scholarships at $650 each.

Carnegie fans now are booming Tech for a bowl game. There was even talk that both Pitt and Tech might get bowl bids, for not many counted out Pitt.

The gloom on the Pitt campus was broken partially by the announcement that Full Back Marshall Goldberg, forced out of the Tech game by injuries during the first quarter, probably would be ready for the Nebraska game. The Pitt team physician announced that Goldberg, whose absence was coincidental with a collapse of the Pitt offensive, would practice this week.

WISCONSIN HAS LIGHT DRILL FOR U. C. L. A. GAME

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Jubilant over its victory over Northwestern, Wisconsin's football team ran through a snappy, but light workout this afternoon in preparation for the long trip to the west coast and its game with the University of California at Los Angeles Saturday.

Steady rain mixed with snow flurries drove the Badgers into the university fieldhouse, where the reserves were given special attention by Coach Harry Stuhldreher and his assistants while the regulars rested.

Although Wisconsin's hopes for at least a share of its first Big Ten title in twenty-six years are at stake in the final game of the season with Minnesota here Nov. 12, no attempt will be made to take U. C. L. A. "in stride." "We play one game at a time," Stuhldreher explained.

The Badgers came through the Northwestern game in excellent shape and will be at top strength for the coast game. Tony Gradisnik, reserve left half back, and Ralph Moeller, first string left end, are nursing minor hip bruises, but both will be ready for U. C. L. A.

John [Blackie] O'Brien, scrappy senior guard from Rice Lake, was named acting captain of the Badgers in the first west coast football invasion in Wisconsin history.

Silverstein Wins Mat Match; Disqualify Schnabel

Ruffy Silverstein won over Hans Schnabel in twenty-eight minutes last night in a wrestling match in White City when Schnabel was disqualified for unruly tactics. Bert Rubi tossed Jack Conley using an aeroplane spin, in 16:45. Jack Hagen won a disputed decision over Walter Palmer in thirty minutes. Stanley Pinta threw Phil Malloy in 9:01 and Babe Kasaboski and Bull Curley wrestled to a thirty minute draw.

THE WEAKER SEX CALLS JEALOUSY WORSTWEAKNESS

Business Women Try Some Soul Searching.

Members of the Altrusa club, a service organization of women executives, concluded sadly last night that woman's jealous nature is her handicap out in the big cold world.

This observation came at a meeting in the Chicago Woman's club at which the group sought to decide what, if anything, is retarding feminine progress. The club members had thought man's discrimination against woman was the impeding factor, but a questionnaire conducted among business women disclosed it was woman herself.

Draw Variety of Answers.

The survey contained twelve questions. Many of them drew a variety of answers. For instance, although all believe it proper to have social relationships with co-workers, only a few replied "Certainly!" when it was a question of dating her employer.

Some admitted they did not mind helping co-workers when work piled up. Others did. Some resented working overtime except in an emergency. Others did not. And most admitted they do not like to buy hose for their employer's wife unless they get a chance to run a few errands for themselves.

But to the question, "Do you prefer to work under men or women superiors?" the answer was unanimously, "Men!"

To the question "Why?" they replied that men are more considerate, more appreciative, less exacting. Women, they said, have a nasty feline way of regarding their secretaries as potential rivals. In short, they implied, women employers are petty . . . and jealous.

"I don't think it's jealousy," mused Mrs. Miette Cummings, head of a placement bureau. "I think it's lack of solidarity."

Clear Back in School Days.

"O, no," spoke up a young guest of the club. "Just look at how women pass up women doctors. It's jealousy among women themselves. It starts in high school. If school girls think a girl has a chance to be elected president, they'll vote for a boy."

And so it went. One suggested woman's pettiness was in reality a desirable attention to detail. Another protested that women disliked to work under women merely because men had always told them women were no good in business. Another said women can't forget they are women. Another said: "Rats! Men and women are just alike."

"It just goes back to the beginning," one said in conclusion. "You'll accept from a man something you would never accept from a woman. It's fundamental. . . ."

"Yes," sighed an insurance executive, "it's woman against woman—and what CAN we do about it?"

ALDERMEN SEEK FREE LAND FOR STATE ST. BRIDGE

Members of a city council subcommittee yesterday objected to paying the North Western railway for use of its property in construction of a new State street bridge and viaduct. The railway and the city made an arrangement in 1932 under which it was to get $497,000 for the property.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], a member of the subcommittee, asserted that the railroad will benefit from the improvement. The aldermen proposed that the council finance committee seek an order from the Illinois commerce commission requiring the railroad to give the city the necessary property and in addition pay part of the cost of building the viaduct over its tracks.

The subcommittee was appointed to consider a request by the public works department for release of earmarked funds for the construction of a new $3,250,000 State street bridge. The existing bridge must be torn down before the State street subway can be built under the river.

IRENE CASTLE IS SUED; WOMEN'S HATS THE CAUSE

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Feminine hats today became the subject of a $150,000 slander suit filed in Superior court against Irene Castle McLaughlin, former dancing star, who is well known socially in Chicago.

The action was brought by Sonya Saranoff, a milliner, who charges that Mrs. McLaughlin spoke disparagingly about her and her hats. The plaintif says she had won a high reputation in her business, which was ruined by Mrs. McLaughlin's asserted utterances.

Mme. Saranoff said Mrs. McLaughlin made the following remarks: "Her hats are terrible. She is a drunkard and does not attend to business. She has stolen money from me."

Dan Quinn, Famed Singer of the '90s, Dies at Age 79

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Dan Quinn, 79 years old, famous vocalist of a former generation and first singer to experiment with Edison in phonographic recording of song, died today at his home here. Described by Edison as "the man with the perfect voice," Quinn sang a popular song, "Molly and I and the Baby," more than 1,000 times in two weeks to make a stock of records by the old trumpet method of the nineties.

THE RAIN CHEATS CITY OF A RARE SHOW IN SKIES

Chicagoans would have been able to look at an eclipse of the moon and a sunset at the same time last evening—if there had been a sunset. As it was, rain and clouds prevented earthly glimpses of a rare astronomical phenomenon.

Since a lunar eclipse is caused by the earth casting its shadow on the moon, it should be impossible to see an eclipse of the moon and the sun's rays at the same time. But refraction, or bending, of light rays in the earth's atmosphere, would have made it possible to view the paradoxical eclipse. It causes sun and moon to be visible while they are below the geometric horizon.

Yesterday the moon, in eclipse from 3:35 to 6:12 p. m., rose above the horizon at 4:35 p. m., but would have been visible at 4:32 p. m. if the day had been clear, while the sun fell below the geometric horizon at 4:34 p. m. but would have been visible until 4:37 p. m. Thus—had it been clear—there would have been a 5 minute period during which the moon in eclipse and the sun's rays could have been seen by Chicagoans at the same time.

Ernest Johnson, Rockford Republican Leader, Dies

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Ernest V. Johnson, 58 years old, chairman of the Winnebago County Republican Central committee from 1933 through 1937, died of a cerebral hemorrhage tonight at his home here. He operated the Johnson Express company, founded by his father, and was vice president of the Skandia Hardware company and treasurer of the Solem Machine company. He had been a Republican precinct committeeman 25 years. His brother, Arthur L. Johnson, was postmaster here from 1920 to 1932.

RADIO SYSTEMS TO RESTRICT USE OF TERM 'FLASH'

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the communications commission, said heads of two radio chains agreed at a conference here tonight to restrict use in broadcasts of the attention-arresting word "flash" to items of unusual interest or importance.

The informal conference was called by McNinch to discuss news technique used by broadcasters. Lenox R. Lohr, president of the National Broadcasting company, and William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, agreed to the restriction, McNinch said. Alfred J. McClosker, chairman of the board of the Mutual Broadcasting system, was in accord, McNinch said, but explained he had no authority to speak until the members of his system had made a decision.

McNinch said the three network heads saw no reason to alter the present practice in broadcasting news labeled as bulletins.

FINAL DIVIDEND OF YEAR RAISED BY GEN. MOTORS

Votes 75 Cents on Common Stock.

Directors of the General Motors corporation yesterday authorized payment of a dividend of 75 cents on the common stock. The dividend, largest this year on the common, will be paid Dec. 12 to stockholders of record Nov. 17. The usual payment of $1.25 a share on the $5 preferred stock also was voted, payable Feb. 1 on stock of record Jan. 9.

General Motors paid dividends of 25 cents a common share in the preceding three quarters of 1938. On Dec. 13, 1937, a disbursement of $1.50 a share was made.

Common dividends for 1938, including yesterday's declaration, amount to $1.50 a share. In 1937 a total of $3.75 a share was paid. The two dividends voted yesterday represent a total disbursement of $24,484,693 to about 400,000 stockholders.

Directors Issue No Statement.

No statement was made by directors in connection with the dividend declarations, which came after the close of the stock market.

The larger dividend was regarded an indication of the much brighter outlook for automobile makers. Forecasts place the November output of cars at about 365,000 units, against 242,000 in October and 376,000 in November last year.

Earnings for the first nine months of 1938 totaled $38,387,707, equivalent to 73 cents a share on the common stock, and third quarter earnings totaled 7 cents a share. For the whole of 1937 earnings were $196,436,598, or $4.38 a share on the common stock, with nine months' earnings alone $3.46 a share.

Expect Larger Earnings.

The dividend action thus reflects anticipated improvement in earnings for the fourth quarter of 1938. In the fourth quarter of 1937 net earnings were equal to 92 cents a share. Yesterday's dividend declaration exceeds nine month earnings of 1938.

A year end dividend of $21.40 a share was declared by directors of the Coca-Cola International corporation, a holding company for stock of the Coca-Cola company. The payment will be disbursed on Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 2. On Dec. 15, 1937, the corporation paid $21.50 a share as a year-end dividend.

U. S., Chrysler, Ford Settle 'Trust' Battle

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The department of justice acted formally today to drop its anti-trust cases against the Ford and Chrysler motor companies, but declared it would prosecute General Motors "vigorously."

The department said a consent decree, by which the Ford and Chrysler concerns agreed to abandon certain "coercive" practices in connection with automobile financing, was being submitted for the approval of a federal district court at South Bend, Ind. General Motors did not propose an "acceptable" program for a consent decree, officials said.

The government, charging that all three firms forced dealers to finance cars through finance companies affiliated with the manufacturers, had previously obtained indictments against the firms at South Bend.

Will Not Coerce Dealers.

Under the consent decrees, officials said, Ford and Chrysler are to refrain from such practices as threatening to cancel dealers' franchises in order to give competitive advantages to favored finance companies.

Two voluntary restrictions proposed by the defendants were hailed by the justice department as a protection to "improvident persons of low income" and a means of alleviating hardships caused by high powered salesmanship.

One of these restrictions deals with methods of collecting money for cars sold. Among other things, this provision outlaws wage assignments on low priced pleasure cars, declares that wages shall not be garnisheed in an effort to collect on such cars, and that a deficiency judgment shall not be taken in the case of a man who bought his car for private use and has paid 50 per cent of the price.

Other Restrictions Provided.

The other restriction deals with advertising. The Chrysler company, if it advertises any finance company, will advertise all such companies whose services "conform to the plan of financing considered most efficient in distributing the maximum number of automobiles."

The Ford decree is similar, but provides that Ford shall not advertise any particular finance company.

Officials announced that they would not hold Ford and Chrysler to the consent decrees if the government's case against General Motors proved unsuccessful.

In South Bend, Ind., Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick took the consent decrees under advisement.

Judge Slick will conduct a hearing Nov. 18 at Hammond, Ind., on a demurrer filed by General Motors.

COURT UPHOLDS ORDER TO SELL 'L' LINE IN N. Y.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously upheld today an order that the Sixth Avenue Elevated line be sold at auction in foreclosure proceedings at not less than $12,500,000. This price was bid at a recent sale. The order upheld had been issued by Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson.

The opinion of the court was written by Judge H. B. Chase. The Merle-Smith committee of Manhattan Railway bondholders had asked an order directing the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, as trustee for the bondholders, to bring the foreclosure proceeding and to sell only the Sixth Avenue Elevated line.

Judge Chase said that there had been default in the payment of interest on $40,670,000 worth of bonds, face value, which were issued in 1890. On June 30, last, the City of New York purchased tax liens against the entire Manhattan railway system, which the system had offered for sale and for which there were no other bidders.

CORN HIGHER; RAIN REDUCES COUNTRY SALES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday were:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .64	$ .64¼	$ .86⅛
Corn	.46½	.45¾	.55¼
Oats	.25½	.25¼	.29⅜
Rye	.41¼	.41½	.65½
Soy beans	.72⅝	.71½	.93¼

Corn futures displayed strength yesterday, closing ½ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher. Rainy weather discouraged the movement of corn from the country. As a result there was little selling pressure and an active demand developed. Chicago traders were reported to have done much of the buying in corn futures.

Wheat prices dipped ⅛ to ¼ cent. Weakness in European markets and beneficial rains in the southwestern wheat belt discouraged buying.

No export demand for North American wheat was disclosed yesterday.

ITALY PUTS NEW CAPITAL TAX ON PRIVATE FIRMS

ROME, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The government today put into force an extraordinary capital tax on private industry and business.

The tax is similar to one imposed a year ago on stock companies and real estate. It is intended to help defray costs of developing Ethiopia and rearmament.

The rate was understood to be 7.5 per cent of the capital value as compared with 10 per cent levied last year on the stock companies. The new levy is expected to yield about $63,120,000 a year.

Reading System Will Buy 15 Diesel-Electric Engines

Directors of the Reading company and the Central Railroad of New Jersey have authorized purchase of fifteen Diesel electric switching locomotives for use on the two roads, Edward W. Scheer, president of the roads, said yesterday. Awards have not yet been made. The American Locomotive company has received an order for four narrow gauge railroad locomotives from a Brazilian railroad. The amount involved is reported to be above $250,000.

STEEL OUTPUT PLACED AT 61 PCT. THIS WEEK; HIGHEST IN 13 MONTHS

The nation's steel ingot mills will operate at 61 per cent of capacity this week, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. The highest rate since the week of Oct. 11, 1937, this is an increase of 4.2 points over last week's operating schedule of 56.8 per cent of capacity.

At Pittsburgh the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation will light an additional blast furnace. With the addition the company, largest subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, will have 14 furnaces in blast at the Pittsburgh plant.

The institute estimated production of open hearth and bessemer steel ingots in October totaled 3,117,934 tons, compared with 2,657,748 tons in September and 3,392,924 tons in October, 1937.

COURT SETS RULES ON REORGANIZATION FEE ALLOWANCES

With thousands of distressed business properties undergoing reorganization or liquidation, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday laid down rules for the guidance of federal courts in allowance of fees and administration expenses. The opinion was handed down by Presiding Judge Evan A. Evans.

The principal rules are: [1] Avoidance when possible of referring cases to masters and special masters; [2] allowance of fees on the basis of benefits to the estate; [3] setting aside by the court of a maximum which may be allowed for the administration of the estate; immediate distribution of the rest among creditors and subsequent apportionment of fees among claimants; and [4] more generous allowances in cases where a fund is brought into the court through services by attorneys as distinguished from distribution of funds already in existence.

The court reduced from $18,500 to $10,000 allowances made by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward in the reorganization of the Irving-Austin Building corporation.

YOUNG PLEADS IGNORANCE OF ALLEGHANY DATA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Robert R. Young, dominant personality in the Alleghany-Chesapeake holding company systems, told Examiner Richard Townsend of the Securities and Exchange commission, at a hearing here today, that details concerning registration statements of the Alleghany corporation, now questioned by the commission were generally unknown to him.

Most of the financial details after he came into the Alleghany picture about two years ago were handled by his associate, Frank F. Kolbe, he said. At one point during the hearing this afternoon he resented what he described as an implication by Smith Brookhart Jr., SEC attorney, that he had been coached by a lawyer on how to answer questions.

The SEC charges that because three items were improperly charged to capital surplus account, the public statements of the Alleghany corporation showed an earned surplus of some $12,000,000 instead of a deficit of approximately $45,000,000.

MANAGED MONEY IS "PERMANENT," SAY ECONOMISTS

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—"Managed money" will remain a feature of the American economic system indefinitly, the Institute of International Finance predicted in a study today.

The institute is sponsored by New York university. The study was prepared by Dean John T. Madden of the university's school of commerce, accounts, and finance, and Dr. Marcus Nadler, institute director and New York university finance professor.

The study said there is no desire among monetary authorities in the leading countries to return to the gold standard. It added that under present political conditions, a gold standard with fixed gold points does not appear waranted.

"Managed currency in the United States," the study added, "is still in the experimental stage."

Price reduction up to $100 on 1939 trucks of the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company were announced yesterday by J. P. Little, vice president. The decreases were said to cover virtually the entire line of General Motors light, medium, and heavy duty trucks. Yellow Truck is controled by General Motors.

Highest Court to Hear Gold Clause Action

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—The United States Supreme court today agreed to review an unusual case involving the invalidation of gold clauses in private obligations.

Justice Black asserts colleagues err in Florida label case.

This case concerns a new phase of the act of June 5, 1933, abrogating the gold clause in public and private contracts. It involves a railroad bond payable in any of five forms of currency—dollar, franc, pound, guilder or mark—on which bondholders seek to collect in foreign money.

The Supreme court first upheld the gold clause act in 1937 and has repeatedly reaffirmed that decision in succeeding cases.

Grants Guaranty's Plea.

In today's action the court granted the petition of the Guaranty Trust company of New York, as trustee for certain St. Louis-Southwestern railway bonds, for a review of an 8th Circuit Court of Appeals decision. This decision rejected the bank's demand that the bonds be paid in Dutch guilders.

A clause in the bonds provided that they should be paid in dollars in New York, pounds in London, guilders in Amsterdam, francs in Paris, or marks in Berlin.

The case attracts attention because of these unusual provisions. A Supreme court decision in favor of the bondholders would not have a very far reaching effect, according to treasury experts, because not many bonds were issued with this clause.

Florida Ruling Reversed.

In another decision the court reversed a southern Florida District court decision dismissing a challenge to constitutionality of the Florida statute requiring that the word "Florida" be stamped on all containers of Florida citrus products. It ordered further hearing on the case by the District court. Associate Justice Hugo Black dissented. He asserted that his colleagues erred and should have rendered a final decision on the case now.

"State laws are continually subjected to constitutional attacks by those who do not wish to obey them," Justice Black said. "Accordingly, it becomes increasingly important to protect state governments from needless expensive burdens and suspensions of their laws incident to federal court injunctions issued on allegations that show no right to relief."

The court held that a person engaged in buying and selling securities for his own account is not entitled, in determining income taxable by the federal government, to deduct from gross income brokerage commissions paid on the purchase of securities. This reversed a decision by the federal Circuit court at New York that Robert C. Winmill might deduct, as business expense, $7,896 paid as commissions in 1932.

The Chicago Pneumatic Tool company was denied a review of a 10th Circuit Court of Appeals decision that it had infringed on patent rights on a rotary drill bit for boring oil wells held by the Hughes Tool company.

The court denied a review of a Circuit court decision disallowing a petition for compensation to a bondholders' committee and counsel for services on a reorganization plan for the Great Lakes Utilities corporation.

The Florida Power and Light company was denied a review of a decision refusing to enjoin a city of Miami, Fla., ordinance fixing rates for electric service within the city.

ASSOCIATED GAS LOSES SUIT OVER BOND EXTENSION

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld an order restraining Associated Gas and Electric company and others from extending a bond maturity date.

The outstanding 5½ per cent convertible investment certificates cannot be extended from this Nov. 15 by "a rubber stamp process" without first filing a declaration with the Securities and Exchange commission under terms of the public utility holding company act of 1935 and receiving an order permitting the extension.

In the argument recently offered before the Appellate court, Associated Gas contended that declarations and permissive orders were required by law only with regard to new securities and that the extension of a maturity date by agreement expressed in a "rubber stamp" endorsement with or without consideration did not constitute the issuance of new securities.

The Appellate court judges concluded that this contention was not waranted by law.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Federal Surplus Commodties corporation said today it had bought surplus farm products costing $5,105,000 in 24 states in the last five weeks.

This brought total purchases since July 1 to about $17,981,000. The commodities were distributed for relief purposes. Purchases during the five weeks included 547,000 bushels of apples bought in the New England storm area. Other purchases included 1,407,000 bushels of fresh vegetables, 227,000 boxes of oranges, 397,600 bushels of white potatoes, 342,000 bushels of sweet potatoes, 7,576,000 pounds of dry peaches, 297,677 cases of canned grapefruit juice, 5,231 bunches of celery, 16,877,000 pounds of butter, and 2,947,000 quarts of milk.

No breakdown was available on purchases in the 24 states, which included Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Illinois.

Rails and Labor Go to Work on Laws to Relieve Carriers

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Representatives of rail management and labor sat down at a conference table again today to tackle the job of drafting a legislative program of rehabilitation and relief for the nation's ailing railroads.

The three railroad representatives and three labor officials appointed by President Roosevelt to make legislative proposals discussed the subjects to be considered and the form of the report they will present to the President.

The committee decided after its meeting today to recess subject to call. Several members reported they would be unable to be in Washington again at least until next week.

Leaders Withhold Comment.

Both Carl R. Gray, vice chairman of the Union Pacific's board, and George Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, reported they would have nothing to say publicly about the subject until they report to Mr. Roosevelt.

Gray and E. E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway, predicted the group would complete its work before the new congress convened in January, but Harrison was not so optimistic.

President Roosevelt selected the committee several months ago. Other members are M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania; B. M. Jewell, president of the Railway Employés department of the American Federation of Labor, and D. B. Robertson, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Committee Delays Action.

The committee's first meeting ended when Harrison objected to discussing a legislative program while the railroads' proposal to reduce wages 15 per cent was pending. After the President's emergency fact finding board suggested recently that the reduction proposal be abandoned, the carriers withdrew notices of the wage cut and both sides agreed to resume the legislative discussions.

Mr. Roosevelt told Harrison and J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, a week ago that he would try to get congress to enact a remedial program at the next session.

STOCKS MOUNT ON GOOD NEWS, ELECTION HOPES

Industrial Section Leads Advance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 7.—Pronounced strength in the industrial section today lifted the stock market out of its recent narrow character. Advances ranged to around 5 points. Many new high marks for the year were registered by active stocks. Rail and utility issues edged fractionally higher.

Volume was 1,761,880 shares. Of 895 issues traded, 635 closed higher, 113 lower and 147 unchanged.

Reports of favorable business developments as well as the hope that the reults of tomorrow's elections would be favorable were the chief influences underlying the advance, according to observers.

Business News Cheerful.

The American Iron and Steel institute forecast a gain in steel operations this week. The federal reserve board's monthly survey indicated general business improvement.

On the political front the closeness of the Dewey-Lehman campaign and predictions that the Republicans would make important gains throughout the country found favorable response in the financial district, it was reported.

Standard industrial issues, notably steels, aviations, and motors were prominent in the upturn. According to Dow-Jones, the group hit a new 1938 peak of 154.91, against a previous high of 154.17.

Aviation issues reflected good demand from the outset. Observers associated the rise to reports the government was planning an air force to rival European strength.

Aviation Leaders Advance.

Leading plane stocks were North American Aviation, Boeing, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, Consolidated Aircraft, and Douglas. Advances were mainly between 1 and 3¾ points. Wright Aero, an inactive stock, jumped nearly 5 points.

Bethlehem, up 3 points to a new peak of 71½, featured the steels. United States Steel gained 1½ to 66¼. Republic, Youngstown, Alleghany, Ludlum, and Crucible were other strong spots.

General Motors was the most active issue on the board and closed 1 point high at 51⅞, a minor fraction below its previous best mark of the year. Chrysler rose 2¼ points to a new high. Packard also was active and higher.

Heavy Machinery Group Higher.

Sperry corporation and Westinghouse were standouts in the heavy machinery group. The former added 2 points, the latter 4½ points.

The recently depressed copper shares were given a lift under the 1⅛ points. Oils were active and fractionally higher. Rubbers contributed gains running to 2 points to the general advance.

Gains in the chemicals were between 1 to 3 points. Sears-Roebuck, up 2¾, was prominent in the mail order group.

Carrier shares participated in the advance, but they were overshadowed by the industrials.

UTILITY CHIEFS ASK TO TESTIFY IN TVA HEARING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Chairman Donahey [D., O.], said today that two utility executives had asked to be heard when the congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority resumes hearings here next week.

Wendell Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, and Bernard F. Weadock of the Edison Electric institute have asked to testify, Donahey said.

Donahey said testimony probably would open Nov. 15, when the committee's hydroelectric power expert, Thomas A. Panter, would explain his detailed survey of the allocation of TVA power costs. He added that Panter might require a month to conclude his testimony.

Utility executives will be given a "reasonable" length of time to state their views and a preliminary report probably will be made to congress soon after it convenes, Donahey said.

Complaints of Pay-Hour Violations to Be Secret

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Complaints against employers for violating the minimum wage and maximum hour requirements of the fair labor standards act will be held confidential, the wage-hour administration said today. Administrator Elmer F. Andrews has issued a form for the filing of complaints to provide field workers with information for investigations. Anonymous complaints, the administration said, will be accepted if the facts indicate a violation of the law.

Money in Use Near Record; Your Share Totals $51.39

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The treasury estimated today that money in circulation averaged $51.39 per person on Oct. 31, an increase of 56 cents during the month. Although the total money in circulation, $6,699,506,572, was the largest in history except for the bank holiday period of March, 1933, the treasury said the per capita value was exceeded in world war days, when it reached $53.21. The population, however, was about 20 million smaller at that time.

Plate Glass Industry—3.

The crucible used in plate glass making requires years for its preparation, but lasts only about 20 days in actual service. A special clay is needed for its manufacture. The clay must be exposed to the weather to oxidize the impurities. It must be ground, kneaded, and allowed to ripen. Then the crucible itself must be built by hand with infinite care to avoid the slightest imperfection. It then must be stored for seasoning and later baked.

Into the crucible, when at last it is ready, are put the raw materials of glass—silica [white sand], soda ash, limestone, salt cake, arsenic, salt, charcoal, and cullet [broken glass]. Then the crucible is put into a furnace in which there may be room for 20 others.

The tremendous heat of the gas-driven furnace fuses the ingredients. Then an electric crane lifts the glowing crucible to the casting table and pours the molten glass onto it. The table, a steel slab, usually is 20 by 32 feet in size. A steel roller weighing as much as 25 tons rolls the mass flat to approximately the desired thickness.

DISCLOSE PLAN FOR LIQUIDATION OF CHESAPEAKE

Erie Holdings Will Be Auctioned.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The long awaited plan for dissolving the Chesapeake corporation, the link through which the Alleghany corporation controls the Chesapeake and Ohio railway and other lines, was announced here today. The proposal has been debated since a syndicare headed by Robert R. Young bought control of Alleghany about two years ago.

Among other things the plan calls for the sale by Chesapeake corporation of its 69,000 shares of Erie railroad common stock. These shares will be auctioned in the rooms of Adrian H. Muller & Son—the "securities graveyard"—on Nov. 29. It was here that the late Van Sweringen brothers, O. P. and M. J., a few years ago witnessed the sale by a banking group of control of their Alleghany corporation. The banking group, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., sold control of Alleghany to a middle western group for a fraction of its former value.

Chesapeake Loses 2 Million.

The Erie went bankrupt early this year. Chesapeake corporation's holdings of its stock, for which it paid $2,245,112, are now worth about $172,000.

The Chesapeake corporation's stockholders will meet in Baltimore, Md., on Nov. 28 to approve the plan, which calls for the reduction of its issued capital stock from $74,242,040 to $179,974.

An unusual feature of the plan is that the Chesapeake corporation's holdings of Chesapeake and Ohio stock would be put virtually in escrow. Young's interests have been in controversy with the Guaranty Trust company relative to control of Chesapeake and the C. & O.

Default Involves Vote Right.

Because of a default in the collateral ratio of Allgehany bond issues, the Guaranty is entitled to vote the Chesapeake corporation stock included in the collateral and, hence, to control the Chesapeake and Ohio railway.

The principal asset of Chesapeake corporation is 2,359,430 shares of C. & O. common stock, or 34 per cent of the amount outstanding. Chesapeake corporation directors decided not to vote this C. & O. stock while the Chesapeake corporation is inliquidation.

There will be an initial distribution of a "substantial amount" of C. & O. stock as soon as Chesapeake corporation stockholders approve the plan. Voting rights on the rest will be "frozen" until dissolution is completed. This means that regardless of whether the Alleghany corporation bonds are in default, or not as to collateral ratio, the Young syndicate controling Alleghany will not have the right to vote the C. & O. stock.

Stock Worth 81 Million.

Today's announcement said the C. & O. stock, carried on the balance sheet at a cost of $83,543,741, had an indicated value as of Oct. 31, 1938, of $81,402,060, based upon the closing bid on the New York Stock exchange at that date.

"The corporation also holds 27,500 shares of the common stock of the Pere Marquette railway, which stock, carried on the balance sheet at a cost of $4,782,950, had an indicated value as of Oct. 31 of $419,375," it said.

"The plan provides that after the reduction in capital, the directors shall from time to time make distributions of assets to stockholders, either in cash or in kind, by way of liquidation. It is expected that complete liquidation of the corporation will extend over a considerable period of time, but in no event beyond Dec. 31, 1941."

NATL. GYPSUM REGISTERS TWO STOCK ISSUES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The National Gypsum Company of Buffalo, N. Y., filed registration statements with the securities and exchange commission today for two issues of securities. They will be used in financing a new plant at New York City and for redemption of outstanding securities. The new plant, estimated to cost $900,000, will produce gypsum boards.

The registration statements covered 60,000 shares of no par value $4.50 convertible cumulative preferred stock and an undetermined number of common stock. The common stock is to be offered to employés and officers. Most of the proceeds of the new preferred stock will be used for redemption of outstanding shares of the 7 per cent and 5 per cent preferred stocks.

MEMBER BANKS' LOANS TO TRADE LOWER IN WEEK

Holdings of Government Obligations Decline.

Loans made by member banks of the federal reserve system to commerce, industry, and agriculture in the week ended Nov. 2 declined 16 million from the preceding week. This was disclosed yesterday by the federal reserve board in its weekly report on member bank conditions in 101 leading cities.

In the last four weeks there have been alternate advances and declines in the amount of loans made by the banks to business. This gives evidence of a somewhat uneven tendency in business.

Rise During Summer.

After an almost uninterrupted decline in the first half of this year, business loans early in the summer began to steady and in the last few months have made moderate headway upward. They made a small gain in the week ended Oct. 5.

The total amount of business loans outstanding on Nov. 2 was 3 billion 399 millions, a decline of 862 millions from the corresponding date in 1937. Bank holdings of direct obligations of the federal government declined 22 millions to a total of 8 billions 132 millions. Obligations fully guaranteed by the federal government declined only 1 million.

Comparative Figures.

Following are comparisons of the principal assets and liabilities of the member banks last Wednesday (last six ciphers omitted):

Rational Leather.

Investors' Guide: Several years ago I purchased some National Leather common stock. Would appreciate any information you can give me regarding present and future value of this stock.—Mrs. M. H.

Answer: The National Leather company went into voluntary liquidation early in 1937. Under the plan approved by the stockholders, for each ten shares of common stock the holder would receive one share of common stock of the A. C. Lawrence Leather company. The exchange period ended June 17, 1937. National Leather company has been completely dissolved. Your shares are worthless.

National Baking.

Investors' Guide: Was the National Baking company reorganized recently? I heard something about changes being made in the company.—O. F.

Answer: Stockholders of the National Baking company at a meeting on Oct. 19 voted to change the name of the company to Omar, Inc., and to absorb several subsidiary companies into the parent company. The charter was amended to allow the company to expand its business to include a general milling business and to deal in grains, cereals, and manufactured grain and food products formerly done by the subsidiary companies.

Called for Payment.

Investors' Guide: I hold a 5 per cent first mortgage bond of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, which is due in 1971. I understand these bonds have been called. Is this correct?—H. R.

Answer: The first mortgage 5s due 1971 and the refunding and first mortgage 5s, series B, due 1961, have both been called for payment at the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, New York, on Dec. 1. The 5s of '71 were called at 104⅛ and interest to Dec. 1, 1938. The series B 5s of '61 are to be paid at 103 and interest to Dec. 1, 1938. If you wish you can send your bond now to the Central Hanover bank for payment in advance. You will receive the full redemption price plus interest to Dec. 1.
